Hi Mr. Londot - I am waiting on the Second Circuit to forward the appellate materials to the DCA. I am not sure why it is taking so long given how small the record is. The issue is straightforward — your motion to dismiss failed to address the actual claims at issue. I am hopeful the First DCA will look at the issues fairly, but I will proceed to federal court shortly as a parallel track just in case.

As I've referenced many times, I did not ask for any of this. I wish the bar, the 13th Circuit, Davis and his client would simply stop the efforts to conceal evidence, forcing all of this work and really awful times on me. I'm reaching out regarding these depositions because that is the right move to ensure consequences. If anyone has interest in trying to resolve without depositions, I'm open to discussing that.

I must express my concerns about the costs and other impacts flowing from your ongoing work to support concealment of public records in this case. The Florida Bar has a duty of oversight. It has failed in this case, and the record makes that increasingly difficult to square with any good-faith explanation for continuing in efforts to bury the misconduct and cover up.

Rather than rectifying or even acknowledging the error, the Bar and its counsel continue in an effort to bury it. The foreseeable result is that I suffer unjust consequences. The damages are increasing and these issues require your and your clients' immediate attention. The welfare of my 6- and 8-year-old children depends on reaching the truth here.

I am still litigating the underlying dissolution case referenced in the subject line. Attorney Scott Davis remains opposing counsel.

Mr. Davis has now taken the position in the underlying family law case that the Bar exonerated or cleared him. It's obvious that the story is much more complicated than that. Severe intentional and ongoing ethical violations continue, with no actual oversight or effort from the Florida Bar to comply with its oversight duties. I'm left with unchecked misconduct that continues and escalates. Davis is now directly and actively harming my family - forcing an 8 hour hearing on a bad faith motion for obstructive purposes. This has to stop.

The absurdity is striking. I, a father suffering serious attorney misconduct, submitted a 25-page well-sourced complaint documenting dozens of intentional and harmful ethical violations by Davis. The Bar buried it for reasons still unknown.

But the concealment is what is most outrageous. The Florida Bar — as the investigative and disciplinary authority — and Mr. Davis — the subject of the complaint — are jointly taking the position that their communications with one another are privileged from me, the complaining party, and the public in general.

That posture is the bar-complaint equivalent of an ex parte communication — except worse. The Bar is not simply a tribunal; it is both the investigative authority and the disciplinary authority. It occupies the role of prosecutor and judge at once. Mr. Davis is the respondent — the functional defendant. For the prosecutor-and-judge to correspond privately with the respondent about the complainant's allegations, and for both to then invoke confidentiality against the complainant, is not a privilege. It is a structural impossibility in any fair adjudicative process.

It's like a referee going to the replay booth with only the player who committed the foul, whispering for five minutes, and then coming out to say "No penalty," while refusing to show the footage to the other team and then concealing the audio of the replay booth meeting.

The Florida Bar is not Mr. Davis's co-counsel. Its communications with the subject of a disciplinary complaint are not privileged against the person who filed that complaint.

This concealment is self-serving and baseless on both sides. I am entitled to the correspondence based on constitutional due-process requirements and, independently, based on its direct relevance to ongoing litigation.

I will require depositions of your clients in order to explore this further in the family law proceedings. Please let me know the first available dates for depositions of Richard Courtemanche, Allie Huston, and Alicia Gangi.

Thank you, and I look forward to hearing from you about setting these depositions.

What's confirmed? That it went to Hoffman? I can talk at 130 tomorrow but I will be better prepared if I know which way you client is going on the "Such records." I think ultimately they lead the same place but I can explain better why that is if you confirm that for me before our call. Either way, you can call my cell at 727-409-5738. have a good evening.

Good afternoon Mr. Londot. I just noticed that I took the wrong person off of the email. It did go to Hoffman at your firm so hopefully you've seen it.

Either way, please see the question posed below regarding your pleading's assertion, "Such records were not provided because they do not exist."

Also, I'm always working for efficiency here. If you have any ideas of how to push this forward, please let me know. I'm running into a lot of delays and road blocks in my public records litigation against the 13th Circuit. Both that and the Florida bar cases present clear legal issues that are uniformly in my favor. The universal judicial efforts to delay and obstruct access to these public records are extremely concerning.

Hopefully you've seen that one of your defendants, Mr. Courtemanche, routinely teaches compliance with constitutional transparency. I believe I filed his powerpoint as an exhibit. And he violated what he teaches related to this specific issue with Mr. Davis. With the broader facts and circumstances, hopefully you can understand just why this presents such a big problem for your clients.

I see the delay and obstruction attempts as baseless and intentional efforts to violate my constitutional rights, not only to transparency, but due process as well. It's clear from the pleadings that this attorney and judicial misconduct at issue is severe, ongoing, and harmful. Delaying access to the public records that will further illuminate these obvious facts is a direct attack on my due process rights causing real and unnecessary damage to my family.

Please at least confirm your client's position on the existence of "such records." Thanks.

Hi Mr. Londot. I took the Court off of this email. I need to inquire about your motion's statement on the existence of any communications with Davis. On Page 10, under Argument III, your Motion states: "Such records were not provided because they do not exist."

I need to understand whether the bar's position is that no records whatsoever exist or ever existed. Or, is this the same, no communications with Davis exist in the "Public record" story I've received before?

As stated, it looks like you're representing to the Court that there is no communications between the bar and Davis. Please correct that possible misunderstanding, at least with me.

Is the Bar willing to allow this to become more efficient? If this Judge obviously just wants to get this to the supreme Court, I'm all for cooperating where possible to make things efficient. I'm not optimistic I'll get a fair process here given the quickness with which the Judge asked for an order. I am committed to creating what record I'm allowed absent some more efficient resolution.

Please let me know on the above. Thanks.

EXTERNAL TO GT

Good morning. I wanted to respond immediately to make every attempt to prevent entry of an order without my objection. It was filed on 1-27 after 4pm. It's just the 8th day.

I just efiled the attached petition with page numbers in the bottom center. here is a link to the exhibits with page numbers in the same place, also efiled: <https://acrobat.adobe.com/id/urn:aaid:sc:VA6C2:00f83050-7142-40e0-8a0f-f477c2caaa97> Too large to attach.

I apologize for my oversight on that. Perhaps that was the reason for the possible dismissal?

On the merits of the case, there are some important clarifications and distinctions for me to make before entry of an adverse order. Please allow me just 14, or even 10 days from the date of filing for my formal response to the motion. I would appreciate at least the opportunity to create a record and ensure it's not a misunderstanding that's leading to the Court's apparently position. There are some confusing or even misleading things I'll be in touch with Mr. Londot about.

I am also requesting a hearing and an opportunity for argument before the Court on the dismissal issue. As you'll see in my response's clarification regarding ministerial duties at issue in the present case, I'm very confident there is a prime facie case on multiple state duties subject to mandamus.

Thank you.
