COMPLAINT TO THE FLORIDA BAR
Attorney Consumer Assistance Program (ACAP)
Resubmission of RFA No. 25-6861 and Request for a New Investigation

Re: Scott Paul Davis, Esq., Florida Bar No. 115540; Prior RFA No. 25-6861 (closed Feb. 24, 2025)

Complainant: Christopher A. Hanson, Esq., Florida Bar No. 44094 — cahanson@yahoo.com

Date: May 24, 2026

I. Introduction and Basis for Resubmission

I am a member of The Florida Bar and the respondent, appearing as attorney on my own behalf, in a dissolution-of-marriage proceeding in which Scott Paul Davis, Esq., represents the petitioner (my spouse). On February 18, 2025, I filed a detailed, 25-page Request for Assistance documenting Mr. Davis's misconduct in that litigation — delay, harassment, concealment of financial evidence, and weaponization of the parties' two children in effort to conceal evidence of marital assets. (RFA No. 25-6861). Six days later, on February 24, 2025, Bar Counsel closed the file, writing:

“The matters upon which your allegations are premised present questions of law and involve a dispute over which a court has jurisdiction. In the event the proper tribunal enters a finding or order which supports your allegations concerning the attorney in this regard, you may resubmit your complaint along with a copy of such findings or order for consideration.” (Ex. F.)

I respectfully ask the Bar to reopen RFA No. 25-6861 although this is a new bar complaint and should be considered such. Regardless, it's critical the Bar open an investigation into Mr. Davis's conduct. The Florida Bar completely failed in its oversight obligations in relation to the first bar complaint. The 13th Circuit had already entered a qualifying order before the file closed. On November 20, 2024, three months before the closure, the Circuit Court (Hon. Kelly Ayers) granted my motion to compel and found that the petitioner had failed “to timely comply with Mandatory Disclosure,” awarding fees against Mr. Davis's client. (Ex. A.)

The closure letter states that Bar Counsel “also reviewed the underlying docket”; that docket already contained the very “finding or order” the letter said would warrant action. I do not rest this complaint on that single ruling — the misconduct is far broader and worse — but it confirms a deliberate strategy of delay from the outset, and it shows the Bar's stated precondition was satisfied when the file was closed.

The misconduct has continued and escalated since the closure, presenting questions of professional responsibility, not “questions of law.” It culminated in an April 17, 2026 hearing at which Mr. Davis pressed a court-ordered psychological evaluation of me as a weapon. (Ex. H.) A motion for that examination had in fact been pending since December 13, 2024 (part of a retaliatory barrage of motions Davis filed as Hodz was stripped as my counsel on a single day's notice). Critically, I had repeatedly offered to undergo a psychological and a vocational evaluation voluntarily and to produce my medical records. Mr. Davis declined those offers. He does not actually want me evaluated; he wants to weaponize my own candid disclosures about mental-health struggles to harass me and to draw the children into the litigation. Davis knows that keeping my children out of this situation is my biggest concern, so his focus is precisely on weaponizing them. That is the core strategy he’s employed for a year and a half all in attempts to conceal evidence of marital assets.

Third — the review the Bar promised was never delivered, and the Bar then concealed its file.

After I requested review of the closure, ACAP wrote on May 6, 2025 that its Director “will review this file and decide if closure was appropriate” and that I “will be notified of this decision in writing.” (Ex. F.) No written decision ever issued. When I later sought the Bar’s records concerning the Davis complaint (public-records request W015656-111025), the Bar obviously concealed critical information. Specifically, the Bar withheld its substantive correspondence with Mr. Davis. The Bar ignored my narrowed December 1, 2025 questions, and on December 15, 2025 replied only, “This matter is closed.” I was forced to file a mandamus petition in Leon County (Case No. 2025-CA-2469) to obtain ministerial public-records compliance. That issue is now on appeal Hanson v. The Florida Bar, et al., Case No. 1D26-0728, First District Court of Appeal.

II. Procedural Background

The underlying matter is a dissolution proceeding that was initially amicable — until I insisted on discovery into concealed marital assets in May 2024. It was filed in the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Hillsborough County (Case No. 24-DR-001150), where it proceeded before the Hon. Kelly Ayers. Judge Ayers was disqualified in connection with my second motion seeking that relief, as her bias, her protection of Mr. Davis from accountability, and her refusal to follow the law escalated. The case was reassigned to Judge DePaul, who recused almost immediately, and then to Judge Matthew Felix, who has presided since. The case has remained in the Thirteenth Circuit throughout.* Mr. Davis has represented the petitioner the entire time. After hiring two sets of lawyer’s solely for a straightforward discovery issue, I was forced to represent myself — due to Davis pushing both sets of lawyer’s off the simple issue for which each was hired.

 The transcript of the April 17, 2026 hearing (Ex. H) bears a caption erroneously listing the “Sixth Judicial Circuit, Pinellas County.” That is a court-reporter error. The case is and has remained Case No. 24-DR-001150 in the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit, Hillsborough County, before Judge Felix, as the November 20, 2024 order (Ex. A) and the August 1, 2025 stay order — both Thirteenth-Circuit, Hillsborough filings — confirm.*

The trial court has treated attorney discipline as beyond its province and deferred it to The Florida Bar. As Judge Ayers put it on the record, “I’m not the Florida Bar. I don’t discipline lawyers.” (Ex. G at 35–36.) The Bar, in turn, deferred to the court. The result is an accountability vacuum that Mr. Davis has exploited to the significant detriment of me and my children.

III. Concealment of Evidence and Obstruction of Discovery (Rule 4-3.4)

This is, at its core, a simple financial-disclosure case. Financial disclosure is the only relief I have sought since my initial filing of May 16, 2024 (docket #22). Everything Mr. Davis has done over more than two years reflects a single strategy: ignore, delay, obstruct, harass, and conceal.

Mr. Davis has objected to each subpoena I’ve pursued. He failed to even comply with mandatory disclosures. He was excused from the law specifically connected to the sole issue in the case, despite the intentional discovery violations on the same precise issue.

My Third Request for Production (#140, served February 21, 2025) — which sought Mr. Davis’s attorney billing records, proof of his fee payments, and the source of the funds used to pay his fees — drew no response or objection of any kind, and to this day. Despite a pending motion to compel and roughly fifteen months later, not a single invoice, retainer agreement, payment record, or source-of-funds document has been produced. (Ex. E.)

My Fourth Request (#229, August 20, 2025) drew objections, a sanctions motion, and a motion to strike (#231), led by the assertion that “the matter is stayed.” And when I renewed the source-of-funds demand (Request to Produce No. 5, #278), Mr. Davis — in a filing served the night before the April 17, 2026 hearing — deferred it as “premature” (#289). Nothing was produced. The delays and misconduct are too numerous to name, but they are clearly deliberate and intentionally violative of the rule.

The June 28, 2024 stipulation.. The parties stipulated to exchange discovery no later than June 28, 2024, yet, as I detailed in a contemporaneous memorandum to the court, “Mr. Davis did nothing to comply with the stipulation he reached for nearly 4 months.” (Ex. D.) This was a calculated strategy to frustrate and delay resolution of the single dispute between the parties — this simple discovery.

The “strategic trickle” and the Ascensus account. After the Court ordered compliance on October 28, 2024, production still came piecemeal. As I documented, “The Ascensus records highlight how Mr. Davis used a strategic trickle of documents to delay enforcement of the Court's October 28, 2024 Order” — producing records reaching back only to a date that did not satisfy the disclosure rules, as to an account I did not previously know existed. (Ex. D.)

Intentionally misleading certification. The certification of compliance signed by Mr. Davis repeatedly limited disclosures to “the last 12 months,” short of the periods Fla. Fam. L. R. P. 12.285 requires; the Rule 12.285(j) certification — a sworn statement that disclosure is complete and accurate — was deficient on its face. When the deficiency was raised at the February 12–13, 2026 hearing, the court endorsed the deception rather than requiring a corrected, sworn affirmation of compliance.

The court's finding, already in the record at closure. These are not merely my characterizations. On November 20, 2024 the Court granted my motion to compel and found the petitioner had failed “to timely comply with Mandatory Disclosure,” awarding me fees — an adjudicated finding already in the docket the Bar reviewed when it closed the file on February 24, 2025, six days after I complained. (Ex. A.)

IV. Weaponizing the Children and a Psychological Evaluation (Rules 4-3.1, 4-4.4, 4-8.4(d))

The same-day barrage. On December 13, 2024 — a Friday afternoon, hours after my prior counsel's withdrawal hearing proceeded over my objection on one day's notice, leaving me suddenly unrepresented — Mr. Davis filed a barrage of motions, including a Motion for Appointment of Guardian ad Litem (Ex. B) and a Motion for Psychological Examination of Husband (Ex. C). He had not filed a single motion during the first several months of litigation over the concealed marital assets — during the delay phase of his strategy, directly violative of the Rules of Professional Conduct.

From Delay to harassment and weaponization. The psychological-examination motion was built on statements I had made months earlier in a financial-discovery response (docket #22) — my candid disclosure that I was undergoing medical and psychiatric treatment, offered to explain a financial position. Mr. Davis repackaged those statements into an attack on my fitness as a parent, asking that I “undergo a psychological examination to aid the Court in determining Husband's present ability to parent the Children,” and that I be “solely responsible for the costs of any psychological testing, psychological examination, and any recommended treatments.” (Ex. C.)

It is a weapon, not a genuine request — and Mr. Davis admits I offered the records and attendance at any such eval. I have repeatedly offered to undergo both a psychological and a vocational evaluation voluntarily and to produce my medical records directly. Mr. Davis has declined every such offer. At the April 17, 2026 hearing he conceded as much: “So we need a guardian ad litem to look at his mental health records. He has offered to produce those to me. That is true. But I'm not the guardian ad litem.” (Ex. H at 121.) He told the court the guardian should “Talk to the children, find out what's going on behind the scenes” (Ex. H at 122), and grounded the demand in my own pleading: “this gentleman raised his mental health as an issue in the case by way of his own pro se filing” (Ex. H at 123).

Other facts confirm the pretext. On April 7, 2025, Judge Ayers directed Mr. Davis to submit a summary of support for the GAL in writing to draft the order. Despite my requests and formal motion to complete the summary, he never did. Mr. Davis has also suppressed objective information from the children's own teachers (wellness questionnaires) while insisting on costly stranger intervention associated with this severely corrupt process. And at the petitioner's June 25, 2025 deposition, she acknowledged no injuries and no dangers to the children in my care — undercutting the “child welfare” premise of the December 2024 motions. There has never been any concern regarding my fitness as a parent other than from Davis and his client, and they only started after their delay tactics failed to push me off the records. In fact, my efforts to keep my children out of this and ensure accountability for all of the misconduct that's infested this case, is actually evidence of my dedication as a parent.

The leverage stated out loud. Although his Rule 12.360 examination motion had been pending for over a year, at the April 17, 2026 hearing Mr. Davis pivoted to urging the court to order, on its own motion, a broader section 61.20 “social investigation” — “psych evals for everybody” — telling the court, “I don't have a motion on the table, but that's psych evals for everybody.” (Ex. H at 287–288.) He then supplied the rationale, retaliation for my positions in the case: “The point was if his arguments are that Mrs. Hanson is bad and has issues and is alienating and everything else, why not just go that way. Psych evals for everybody.” (Ex. H at 291.)

Mr. Davis is well aware of my continuing offers to attend whatever evaluation he wants and to produce my records. My goal is to keep my healthy, thriving children out of this litigation. Yet Mr. Davis refuses those offers while forcing the one thing that genuinely concerns me — drawing the children into the case.

A lawyer may not advance a position with no substantial purpose other than to embarrass or burden a third person (Rule 4-4.4(a)), assert a claim that is not meritorious (Rule 4-3.1), or engage in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice (Rule 4-8.4(d)). That, attempting to force the children into this litigation, is quite literally all Davis has pursued for the last 18 months, after 6 months of delay tactics failed.

V. Ground Three — Candor, Retaliation, and Litigation as a Weapon (Rules 4-3.2, 4-3.3, 4-8.4(c))

This is a pattern, not an isolated remark. A year before the April 17 hearing, at the April 22, 2025 hearing, Mr. Davis tied the psychological-evaluation request directly to my discovery complaints: “It's unfortunately part of the reason we asked the Court to do an order on psychological evaluation....” (Ex. G at 43.)

Davis is actively gaslighting the Court and Hanson, weaponizing mental health struggles as a distraction from his own misconduct.

Using the Bar's closure as a shield. In open court, Mr. Davis invoked the very closure at issue here to deflect scrutiny of his conduct: “Mr. Hanson has filed a grievance and the Florida Bar declined to take any action.” (Ex. G at 36.) The premature closure of RFA 25-6861 has become a tool Mr. Davis uses to continue the very conduct the Bar should have addressed then, but must address now.

Exploiting a stay to obstruct. On August 1, 2025 the Court entered an unconditional Order Granting Motion for Stay Pending Appeal (docket #225); the Second District approved it on September 8, 2025 (docket #234).

No order lifting the stay was ever entered. Because there was no good faith basis to lift the stay, Davis simply didn’t draft an order.

Mr. Davis then pressed a full-day evidentiary hearing forward on April 17, 2026 resulting in extraordinary costs and likely permanent damage to this family. There were things that were aired in open Court that are directly related to the attempts to harass and embarrass an opposing litigant into abandoning simple, lawful, and reciprocal discovery requests.

VI. The “Question of Law” Rationale Should Not Bar Review

The closure rested on the premise that a court is the proper forum for Mr. Davis's conduct. But the courts have refused that role. When I asked Judge Ayers to inquire into his conduct, she declined: “You can't ask him anything.... [T]he Court intentionally closes its eyes to his conduct,” and “I'm not the Florida Bar. I don't discipline lawyers.” (Ex. G at 34, 35–36.) And this is after Ayers excused Davis from attending the January 9, 2025 hearing where Davis’s misconduct was the central issue. She called him a “Teddy bear” in response to unrefuted facts about the concealment attempts and ethical violations.

After Judge Ayers was disqualified and Judge DePaul recused, Judge Felix continued the pattern. He deferred scheduling to Mr. Davis, and when I pressed him to address the misconduct and make findings, he answered: “I can make the ruling without findings of facts, and if the Second DCA says I need to find facts, then I'll do so.” (Ex. H at 181.) There are serious problems with the manner that the 13th Circuit handled this situation, similar to the problems with the Bar’s handling. This further establishes the need for the Bar to consider and remedy all conflicts of interest in the handling of this complaint.

The practical result is a gap: the Bar deferred to the court, and the court deferred to the Bar, while the conduct continued and escalated. That accountability vacuum has gone unchecked, causing serious financial and personal harm to my family. It is no obstacle to review here: a qualifying order already existed when the file closed (Ex. A), and the conduct since closure — culminating on April 17, 2026 (Ex. H) — presents pure questions of professional responsibility. Attorney discipline is the responsibility of The Florida Bar, not the trial court, and this conduct warrants the Bar's independent review.

VII. Rules Regulating The Florida Bar Implicated

Rule 4-3.1 (meritorious claims and contentions); Rule 4-3.2 (expediting litigation); Rule 4-3.3 (candor toward the tribunal); Rule 4-3.4(a), (c), and (d) (obstructing access to evidence; knowingly disobeying court rules and stipulated obligations; and failing to make a reasonably diligent effort to comply with proper discovery); Rule 4-4.4(a) (respect for the rights of third persons); and Rule 4-8.4(c) and (d) (dishonesty or misrepresentation, and conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice).

VIII. Relief Requested

I respectfully request that The Florida Bar reopen RFA No. 25-6861 and open a separate investigation into Mr. Davis's conduct since that complaint, and refer this matter to a grievance committee for full investigation. The condition stated in the closure letter was satisfied from the outset; and the misconduct has only escalated since the file was closed, precisely because of the absence of accountability from both the Bar and the Thirteenth Circuit. This is not a disagreement over the law. It is a documented, two-year pattern of obstruction, concealment, and the weaponization of children in efforts to conceal evidence of marital assets.

Respectfully submitted,

Petitioner, Sarah Hanson, by and through the undersigned attorney, and pursuant to Fla. Fam. L. R. P. 12.360, files this Motion for Psychological Examination of Husband. As grounds therefore, Wife states as follows:

1. The parties to this action are Petitioner, Sarah Hanson ("Wife") and Respondent, Christopher Hanson ("Husband"), collectively, (the "Parties").

after several years of agreement that any divorce must result in 50/50 custody period. The kids are thriving in every way possible. Husband has asked Mr. Davis on multiple occasions about any concerns with the kids, and Wife has provided no answers. Based upon the timing of the change and subsequent communication with Mr. Davis, it seems the strategy for the change in position was and remains to obtain leverage on this discovery issue. (Please see Exhibit A below, p. 12-14).

F. The Ascensus records highlight how Mr. Davis used a strategic trickle of documents to delay enforcement of the Court's October 28, 2024 Order compelling disclosure within 10 days. In the initial attempt at Mandatory Disclosure on October 25, 2024, Wife provided limited documents, including Ascensus account records from from April 1, 2024 forward. The account was unknown to Husband until her initial disclosure back in April. Generally, the various account documents provided on October 25, 2024 go back to early 2023 with this glaring exception in the Ascensus records. 3 days after the hearing, Mr. Davis produces records from Ascensus going back to October of 2023, but disclosures are required back to April of 2023. That left a very relevant period of discovery still lacking, especially given that the account was unknown to husband, and Wife's attorney had just successfully delayed the hearing all the way until October of 2024.

G. While Mr. Davis recently made a third attempt at compliance with Mandatory disclosures, now nearly seven months after the stipulated due date, the Certificate of Compliance still, on its face, fails to comply with Rule FFLRP 12.285(j).

Re: Scott Paul Davis; RFA No. 25-6861

Dear Mr. Hanson:

Your correspondence regarding the above-named attorney has been referred to me for review. The Florida Bar is the licensing agency for attorneys admitted to practice law in the State of Florida. The Florida Bar regulates attorney conduct and if disciplinary action is warranted, it is taken against the attorney's license to practice law.

In addition to the submitted documentation, I also reviewed the underlying docket in Hillsborough County Case No. 2024-DR-1150. The matters upon which your allegations are premised present questions of law and involve a dispute over which a court has jurisdiction. In the event the proper tribunal enters a finding or order which supports your allegations concerning the attorney in this regard, you may resubmit your complaint along with a copy of such findings or order for consideration.

This determination does not preclude you however, from consulting a private attorney and/or exercising any legal remedies which may be available to you.

In light of the foregoing, this file has been closed effective February 24, 2025. Pursuant to the Bar's records retention schedule, the computer record and file of this matter will be disposed of one year from the date of closure.

Sincerely,

Allie F. Huston, Bar Counsel

Re: Scott Paul Davis; RFA# 25-6861

Dear Mr. Hanson:

You have requested review of the decision by Bar Counsel to close your Request for Assistance. Review of closed RFAs are subject to the provisions contained in a policy adopted by the board of governors. A copy of the policy is attached. Pursuant to this policy the Director of the bar's Attorney Consumer Assistance Program (ACAP) will review this file and decide if closure was appropriate. You will be notified of this decision in writing.

Each of these reviews may take as long as 60 days to complete. We thank you for your understanding and patience.

Sincerely,

Allie F. Huston, Bar Counsel

1 do the summaries? Can you ask him that?

2 THE COURT: You can't ask him.

3 MR. HANSON: Why wouldn't the Court be curious
4 that he didn't comply with the Court request?

5 THE COURT: I can't be concerned with that
6 every single day. People don't return my phone
7 calls. It's shocking to me.

8 MR. HANSON: Your Honor --

9 THE COURT: I don't get a call back on the 10 phone.

11 MR. HANSON: Can we ask him about the trickle
12 of documents?

13 THE COURT: You can't ask him anything.

14 MR. HANSON: If the Court were interested in 15 helping my family, it would be interested in his
16 conduct and the Court intentionally closes its eyes
17 to his conduct.

18 THE COURT: You can't ask a lawyer a question.

19 MR. HANSON: I said the Court intentionally
20 closes its eyes with respect to his conduct.

21 THE COURT: Have you filed a motion with 22 respect to his conduct? I believe you have.

23 MR. HANSON: Your Honor, my goal is not to go
24 after Mr. Davis even. It's to get a fair result and 25 an efficient result for my kids to get them out of

1 emails and that you were allowing him to get under
2 your skin and you were going back and forth with
3 him. I thought all that was inappropriate. That's
4 conduct that I saw. Mr. Hanson, do not talk.
5 That's conduct I saw and I called you both out on 6 it. All the other conduct that he's done that's
7 horrible is your allegations and your vision. I
8 haven't seen him doing any of it.

9 If you want to file a motion and ask me to look
10 at his conduct and I see that he's been used
11 misconduct, I'm going to call the Florida Bar and 12 report him because that's what the Florida Bar does.
13 I don't do that. If he comes to my courtroom and 14 lies to me, heck, yeah. I'm going to do an order to 15 show cause on why he came and lied to me. He hasn't 16 done anything to me or in these proceedings that 17 give me any indication that he's doing anything
18 wrong. Neither have you.

19 MR. HANSON: So he can do anything he wants to 20 me.

21 MR. DAVIS: Mr. Hanson has filed a grievance
22 and the Florida Bar declined to take any action.

23 MR. HANSON: I'm appealing it to the ACAP, I
24 believe. I'm in the process of drafting that and I
25 need additional documentation. And I'll continue

1 above and beyond the complaint because Ms. Hodz
2 asked nicely and we said sure.

3 MR. HANSON: Your Honor, that's blatantly
4 untrue and from the first email I sent, you'll see
5 that. There's actually a paragraph entitled -- hold
6 on for a second. It looks like it's page 3. The 7 title of the paragraph is "Eventual and apparent
8 strategic trickle of long overdue discovery
9 documents."

10 MR. DAVIS: That's what he wants to 11 characterize. Just like Ms. Hanson's testimony. He 12 takes his reality and it's the only way he can see 13 things. It's unfortunately part of the reason we 14 asked the Court to do an order on psychological
15 evaluation, but that's just not what happened.

16 THE COURT: All right.

17 MR. HANSON: Your Honor, some of what he just 18 said that is just the truth doesn't exist. To me,
19 truth exists and that's what I'm trying to get to 20 here where I go into very specific detail where the 21 second batch of records including Ascensus records
22 October 1st, 2023 forward. That doesn't comply with 23 mandatory disclosures. They have to get back to at 24 least April of 2023 and Ascensus was an account I
25 didn't know about. To me, that looks very curious

[Page 121]

(1) It's paragraph 21. He is undergoing
(2) invasive treatments for both physical and
(3) psychiatric issues, that's paragraph 22.

(4) He will soon start daily
(5) five-times-per-week TMS treatments that will
(6) increase the time and cost of medical care.
(7) That's mental health treatment. That's
(8) paragraph 22 as well.

(9) And that he acknowledged that when he
(10) previously refused to provide payments for
(11) children's expenses, he did it out of anger
(12) and frustration. So what we want is a
(13) guardian ad litem to and Mr. Hanson
(14) vehemently opposed to it even though there
(15) are other times that he's alleged that
(16) Mrs. Hanson engages in bad parenting and
(17) Mrs. Hanson isn't doing the right thing and
(18) that he should have majority timesharing
(19) even though he hasn't pled it.

(20) So we need a guardian ad litem to look
(21) at his mental health records. He has
(22) offered to produce those to me. That is
(23) true. But I'm not the guardian ad litem. I
(24) can't get in there and make assessments.

(25) We need somebody to go in there and

[Page 122]

(1) make assessments, get the records, talk to
(2) his doctors, look at what he's taking for
(3) medication, look at what he's, you know, his
(4) medical history, any pain medication that he
(5) may or may not be on, his surgical history.
(6) Talk to the children, find out what's going
(7) on behind the scenes because that's
(8) important in some of these cases and make a
(9) recommendation to the Court as to what's in
(10) the best interest of the children.

(11) The irony of the whole thing, the
(12) guardian can come back and say he's a great
(13) dad and you should do equal timesharing.
(14) That is a feasible thing that could happen.
(15) So we want somebody to go and do the
(16) investigation. Mr. Hanson wants me to
(17) investigate, but I can't testify to the
(18) Court.

(19) This is a third-party. Who benefits is
(20) the children who's looking out for the
(21) children, who's talking about the best
(22) interest of the children. I don't represent
(23) the children; I represent one of the
(24) parties. So me doing an investigation
(25) doesn't do us much good. So that's really

[Page 123]

(1) the thing. Is they're at odds. He has a
(2) significant history of mental health
(3) according to what he filed himself, and he
(4) says I'm shaming him. He's made this
(5) argument before, belittling him, but I'm
(6) not. I'm simply saying this gentleman
(7) raised his mental health as an issue in the
(8) case by way of his own pro se filing. So
(9) that's why we believe that this case and
(10) this children need the guardian ad litem.

(11) There's a substantial history of
(12) problems between the parties relating to the
(13) children, which I will, you know, bring
(14) forth by testimony. And that's where we
(15) are. I really think, if the Court is so
(16) inclined, that the Motion for Psychological
(17) Evaluation be part of the same testimony.
(18) And, quite frankly, the timesharing issues
(19) and the Motion for Temporary Relief.

(20) If the Court doesn't want it, fair
(21) enough, but for judicial economy, I think
(22) it's all kind of tied together.

(23) THE COURT: It's my understanding that
(24) part of the request encompassed in the
(25) motion for an appointment of a guardian ad

[Page 181]

(1) MR. HANSON: But you haven't. You
(2) haven't found any facts on it. You avoid
(3) it. You don't rule on it. You just say I'm
(4) going to ignore it.

(5) THE COURT: I can make the ruling
(6) without findings of facts, and if the Second
(7) DCA says I need to find facts, then I'll do
(8) so.

(9) MR. HANSON: You're harming our family.

(10) THE COURT: I apologize. I'm sorry you
(11) feel that way --

(12) MR. HANSON: It's obstructive at this
(13) point.

(14) THE COURT: Is there anything else?

(15) MR. HANSON: I would like a recess.
(16) That is extremity upsetting news to me.

(17) THE COURT: How long?

(18) MR. HANSON: A week? Two weeks?

(19) THE COURT: The Court: Denied.

(20) MR. HANSON: Okay. Well, Your Honor,
(21) do you understand why I'm upset.

(22) THE COURT: I do.

(23) MR. HANSON: I'm trying to protect my
(24) kids from --

(25) THE COURT: I understand.

[Page 287]

(1) can't see inside your brain. He can't tell
(2) you that you're not telling the truth." And
(3) when she's not there -- and I might be going
(4) to far with the argument, Your Honor, but
(5) the relevance is that she's emboldening a
(6) six-year-old at the time, maybe a
(7) seven-year-old to thinking, "I get to lie
(8) all I want to dad. He can't see inside my
(9) brain."

(10) And it became a real problem for some
(11) period of time, but that's, you know, I just
(12) turned it into argument instead of question,
(13) so...

(14) THE COURT: Any response?

(15) MR. DAVIS: Well, the next question
(16) would be hearsay, if we're talking about
(17) what the child said.

(18) THE COURT: And, I mean, that's not
(19) entirely on the table yet.

(20) MR. DAVIS: Can I address the Court.

(21) THE COURT: Sure.

(22) MR. DAVIS: It isn't responsive. You
(23) know, what these folks need is a 61.20
(24) evaluation instead of a guardian ad litem.
(25) That's really what they need.

[Page 288]

(1) The Court can, obviously, do that sua
(2) sponte on the Court's own motion. I don't
(3) have a motion on the table, but that's psych
(4) evals for everybody.

(5) THE COURT: I believe before we started
(6) in order, there was some discussion about
(7) agreeing to that, there was just some
(8) question as to cost, right? Am I wrong?

(9) MR. HANSON: Your Honor, we need to get
(10) out of this system that's been two years.
(11) We were much better than this until May of
(12) 2024. What's happened to us in the justice
(13) system is really, really, really tragic.
(14) And it didn't have to, and it's going to be
(15) a big story for a long time now.

(16) MR. DAVIS: Well, that's sounds like
(17) he's trying to threaten everyone.

(18) MR. HANSON: Well, no. I'm trying to
(19) tell you accountability and the truth have a
(20) way of rearing their head no matter what you
(21) do. And just from the litigation that's
(22) going, it's getting worse and worse for
(23) those involved.

(24) And eventually accountability will come
(25) because the mandamus cases are as clear as

[Page 291]

(1) not in the position at the beginning of this
(2) case in which you said you would agree to a
(3) psych and a voc eval?

(4) MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor --

(5) THE COURT: And if you're retracting
(6) from that, that's fine. I'm just trying to
(7) understand where we are.

(8) MR. HANSON: Your Honor --

(9) MR. DAVIS: While he's thinking about
(10) that, may I address the Court. I'm
(11) referring to a social investigation study,
(12) which is the whole thing, but that includes
(13) a psych evaluation for everybody.

(14) The point was if his arguments are that
(15) Mrs. Hanson is bad and has issues and is
(16) alienating and everything else, why not just
(17) go that way. Psych evals for everybody. We
(18) get to the truth. We get to the bottom
(19) line.

(20) Mr. Hanson is concerned with the truth;
(21) we get to the truth.

(22) MR. HANSON: Can we also have an
(23) evidentiary hearing about Mr. Davis' conduct
(24) in this case where the Court will actually
(25) make findings?
