RESPONDENT/HUSBAND'S NOTICE OF FILING CERTIFIED TRANSCRIPT OF THE APRIL 17, 2026 MOTIONS HEARING

Respondent/Husband, CHRISTOPHER HANSON, appearing self-represented, hereby files the certified transcript of the April 17, 2026 motions hearing in this case, and in support states as follows:

1. TRANSCRIPT BEING FILED. Attached starting at page 5 of this filing is the certified transcript of the motions hearing held before the Honorable Matthew Felix on April 17, 2026, in the above-styled case (Case No. 2024-DR-001150).

Please note: The court reporter's cover page contains a typographical error, incorrectly identifying the venue as the Sixth Judicial Circuit in Pinellas County. However, the transcript correctly identifies the presiding judge as the Honorable Matthew Felix, the parties as Sarah Hanson and Christopher Hanson, and the case number as 2024-DR-001150, confirming it is the official record of the 13th Judicial Circuit proceedings.

2. PURPOSE OF THIS FILING. Respondent files this transcript so that the formal record of this case contains the verbatim record of the proceedings of April 17, 2026. The April 17, 2026 hearing has been expressly cited and quoted at material passages in Respondent's pending Request for Judicial Notice (Docket #303, filed May 18, 2026), and filing the transcript itself completes the record on which any ruling on that pending Request will be made.

3. PASSAGES IDENTIFIED BY RESPONDENT AS MATERIAL. For the convenience of the Court and the parties — and without argument — Respondent identifies the following passages as material to matters currently pending and to matters expected at the May 29, 2026 hearing:

a. Tr. p. 181, lines 5–8: The Court's statement, verbatim, "I can make the ruling without findings of facts, and if the Second DCA says I need to find facts, then I'll do so." This statement is quoted at paragraph 18(g) of Respondent's pending Request for Judicial Notice (Docket #303). It should be noted here that Respondent has appealed to the 2nd District Court of Appeal for relief on three occasions. There are a total of 12 orders issued by the 2nd District Court of Appeal. Every one of them fails to provide any analysis or justification for denying relief. In fact the vast majority of the Second District Court of Appeals orders have no particular judge attached to them.

b. Tr. pp. 32–34, 42, 50, 53–56, 180–181, 187–188, 239–240, and 247: On-record requests by Respondent for findings of fact on the structural-conflict ground — specifically, that the presiding trial judge in this dissolution case is a named defendant in Respondent's parallel public-records mandamus action, Case No. 25-CA-010255, captioned Hanson v. Thirteenth Judicial Circuit Court, et al. The structural-conflict ground had previously been preserved at Docket entries #255 (Verified Motion to Disqualify All 13th Circuit Court Judges, filed 12-19-25, #257 (Motion to Vacate / For Rehearing, filed 01-12-26), #290 (Notice of Invocation of Constitutional Rights), and #294 (Notice of Filing Additional Evidence of Structural Conflict).

c. Tr. 25:4–8: "What is the explanation for not taking me up on offering to sign medical releases, offering to go to your psych eval? I offered to have a court order entered..."

Tr. 46:20–21: "He has the option of getting my records. I've already signed releases..."

Tr. 121:21–22 (Davis Admission): "We need a guardian ad litem to look at his mental health records. He has offered to produce those to me. That is true."

This documentation confirms the bad faith litigation tactics, addressing Petioner's and Davis's refusals of Respondent's offers to provide medical records, medical releases, attend evaluations, etc.

d. Tr. 21:8–11: "...I've agreed to go to their psych eval, anything they want. I'll go to it, and I put that in writing for months and they haven't taken me up on it --"

Tr. 29:12–15 (Davis Admission): "Mr. Hanson is correct. He has said that he would take a psychological evaluation and he has said that he would do a vocational evaluation..."

Tr. 31:25–32:2: "And they've been on nearly for a year that I was willing to go, and they didn't do anything."

This provides the Court with critical information on the still pending, yet completely unnecessary and retaliatory motions for a psychological evaluation and vocational evaluation. Respondent has offered to attend voluntarily. Yet. Davis continues with the motions even though it makes sense to get those evaluations before allowing state intervention on happy healthy children.

e. Tr. 125:21–24 - "And that's why Mr. Davis and Mrs. Hanson blocked their teachers from filling out child wellness forms.

Davis and Petitioner don't want information about how well they're doing..." Davis's refusal to allow the children's school to fill out child wellness forms.

4. AUTHENTICATION. The attached transcript is a true and correct copy of the certified transcript prepared of the proceedings of April 17, 2026, as received by Respondent from the court reporter.

5. RELATIONSHIP TO PENDING REQUEST FOR JUDICIAL NOTICE AND OTHER RELIEF. Respondent notes that the April 17, 2026 transcript is critical to understanding the continuing injustices and due process violations as described in the Request for Judicial Notice (Docket #303, filed May 18, 2026). The transcript is attached here so that the Court has the underlying document in the Court's file rather than relying solely on identification by reference. Nothing in this Notice should be construed as supplementing, amending, or modifying Docket #303.

CERTIFICATION

I, Christopher Hanson, both as Respondent/Husband and as an officer of the Court, declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

Certified and executed on May 23, 2026.

WHEREUPON, the following proceedings were stenographically reported and transcribed as follows:

THE COURT: Good morning. We are here on Case Number 24-DR-1150. Hanson versus Hanson. Appearances for the record starting with the Petitioner/Wife, please.

MR. DAVIS: Scott Davis, counsel for the Petitioner/Wife Sarah Hanson.

THE COURT: Good morning, counsel. How are you?

MR. DAVIS: Good morning, Judge. How are you?

MS. HANSON: Sarah Hanson, Petitioner. Good morning.

THE COURT: Good morning, Mrs. Hanson. How are you?

MS. HANSON: Good. Thank you.

THE COURT: For the Respondent, please.

MR. HANSON: Christopher Hanson, both the Respondent and the attorney For Respondent.

THE COURT: Good morning, sir. How are you doing?

MR. HANSON: Doing okay.

THE COURT: Good, good. All right. So, obviously, I have set on this matter today. I have it set for a full day, and I have 12 items listed for hearing today pursuant to the notice of hearing.

Pursuant to the notice of hearing, like I said, there's 12 matters listed. I'm not going to read them on all. Before we went on the record, I received exhibits from the Petitioner/Wife, and I asked Respondent/Husband if he had his exhibit, and I believe there are some preliminary matters that you want to bring up; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. I E-mailed your exhibits to your judicial assistant overnight really.

THE COURT: Overnight? When was it?

MR. HANSON: Starting around 6:00 p.m. last night, and then there's some a couple of days as well at 6:00 a.m. -- or 6:00 p.m. until about 4:00 a.m.

THE COURT: Okay. So after we were closed?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: But the first I received Mr. Davis' exhibits was this morning.

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: But you are asking for the Court to print them out?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I didn't know that the Court needed them printed out. I apologize. The type of law that I did, everything was done by computers. There was very little paper. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: No. I'm not asking for an apology. I'm asking if you reviewed my procedures.

MR. HANSON: I'm sure I did at one point, Your Honor, but I think we are a little bit past notebooks and procedures in this case.

THE COURT: Why do you say that?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor --

THE COURT: You're saying we don't have to follow procedures or use exhibits or --

MR. HANSON: Respectfully, Your Honor, I don't think that you have any interest in the truth or the law. I think you are hiding evidence that is critical to my case.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: I had to go through months of the most painful time in my life last night to prepare this hearing.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I don't understand. You said you had to go through months of the most painful time in your life last night.

MR. HANSON: I had to go through text messages and things to prepare this hearing.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: Because I figured you would probably do what you've done all along, which is protect Mr. Davis and protect Judge Ayers.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And the fact that you're continuing to do that, respectfully, Your Honor, is the most reprehensible thing I've ever seen a judge and an attorney do.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm not sure how I can take that respectfully, but fine.

MR. HANSON: Okay. No, I think that you should take as perhaps you shouldn't be in the case. I'm accusing you and the 13th Circuit of active, bad faith concealment a video that the judge made a critical part of the record in this case.

THE COURT: I completely understand.

MR. HANSON: Have you reviewed that video, Judge.

THE COURT: I have reviewed your motion.

MR. HANSON: Have you reviewed the video?

THE COURT: I have not.

MR. HANSON: Judge, we're here on the same motion today that Judge Ayers heard that day.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I --

MR. HANSON: How is that critically relevant.

THE COURT: I appreciate where you're going. What I'm asking is if you -- if you brought exhibits for me? That's the singular question that I'm asking.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor --

THE COURT: The reason I'm asking is because my procedures require them. I have 770 cases in my division. We do not print out everyone's exhibits before every hearing. It's not practical for us to do it, number one. And, number two, we certainly can't do it if we receive E-mails after hours and before we open.

So that's the only thing I'm trying to figure out right now.

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor, I did not bring exhibits.

THE COURT: Okay. And you're saying you didn't bring exhibits because it's your belief that I have no interest in following procedures or the law.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, it's -- I don't believe that we should be going forward today. I think that the case is still on a stay. I informed your office of that early in the week. You could have lifted the stay.

THE COURT: We had a hearing on that, did we not?

MR. HANSON: There's no order on it.

THE COURT: That's not my question. My question is: Did we have a hearing on it?

MR. HANSON: There was a hearing where it was addressed and at the last hearing I raised it. I didn't think there had been an order lifting the stay and I objected to proceeding.

THE COURT: At the last hearing where we addressed it, did I make a determination of whether or not we would go forward?

MR. HANSON: You allowed Mr. Davis to file a Notice of Hearing. Again, Your Honor, the case law that I've cited says that the law of the case is what's written in the orders. We don't make orders and follow them verbally.

So that's the case law that I've relied on. And the bigger use the structural conflict where I already feel such intense animosity from you.

THE COURT: I'm sorry about that. I apologize. It's not my intention.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. You know, Your

Honor, I'm -- you know, I'm here to do my best. My kids are the most important thing in my life, and there's nothing that I can apparently do to protect them. I'm doing the best I can.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: It's been two years I've been doing this and not one person has accused me of any wrongdoing.

Judge Ayers filed a Bar complaint against me and the bar complaint consisted of citing two rules and then including a bunch of statements that I've made online.

She didn't allege that any of them are false. My defense is that every statement that I made is true, and the bar has been sitting on that for five months --

THE COURT: I'm not here to litigate the bar complaint. I did not make compliant. I'm not a part of that. I'm not here to litigate those issues.

MR. HANSON: What I'm trying to tell you, Your Honor, is that I waived any attorney-client privilege with either attorney representing me. I came here with one problem. My story has been consistent every step of the way.

Clearly, under the law, I'm entitled to these basic records. The Court has --

THE COURT: That's what we're going to hear today, right?

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, it's animosity already and it's the course of events that have already taken place in the case where there's been so many chances to do the right thing. And if the Court -- for example, the video. There is no basis to continue concealing that.

The 13th Circuit hasn't even identified the communications that they're concealing related to the December 24th hearing when Judge Ayers colluded my own attorney to take her away on a day's notice because she didn't want to do the work anymore after talking with Mr. Davis.

I don't have any answers that what was happening during the conferences with Mr. Davis and my attorneys --

THE COURT: What case number is that?

MR. HANSON: It's this case.

THE COURT: The case against the 13th Judicial Circuit?

MR. HANSON: No. It's this case against -- it's the Hanson V. Hanson case --

MR. DAVIS: The dissolution, sir.

THE COURT: We're here on the dissolution matter, correct?

MR. HANSON: Yes. I'm telling you I was represented by two lawyers in the case.

THE COURT: No, I understand that, but you're talking about the case against the 13th, correct?

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, they're inextricable. They're -- evidence that's relevant in this case is within the 13th Circuit's control and even though it's critically relevant to why we're here today, the 13th Circuit is baselessly concealing it, violating all of their responsibilities under the constitutional transparency like the rules don't apply to them.

THE COURT: But you would agree that I can't order anything in that case, right? I don't represent --

MR. HANSON: But you can order this case be transferred, Your Honor, and that's the only appropriate --

THE COURT: But we've already had that motion. I ruled on that motion and you appealed that motion -- or that ruling.

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor, it wasn't denied on the merits. And I'm not being clear with what the Second DCA reviewed --

THE COURT: But that's not me. That's the Second DCA.

MR. HANSON: But you're asking me --

THE COURT: We've already dealt with that.

MR. HANSON: I don't agree that we've dealt with it, Your Honor. I don't think you can deal with the structural defect, especially, as it's getting more and more entrenched where this is the most animosity that I've felt from you in any hearing. And, you know, it's --

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Because why? Why?

MR. HANSON: Mr. Davis E-mailed me at 8:15 about notebooks and rubbing it in my face that I wasn't going to have a notebook for him today.

THE COURT: And that's animosity from me? I'm sorry.

MR. HANSON: No, it's the same issue that I feel like you came in with that animosity against me with where I'm -- whether I brought a notebook in is so far irrelevant to what the issue is before the Court. It's a global issue. All I want is one thing. All they want to do is obstruct and conceal.

All of these smaller motions that we may have to hear today, they're all distractions. They're all their efforts at concealment and obstruction and harassment and holding things over my head.

And it's -- if we get into it, I'll make it perfectly clear on each one how the evidence couldn't possibly support that suddenly after months of just delaying, they need to file four motions as my attorney is getting withdrawn from me over my objection baselessly where I can't even inquire.

Suddenly, that's when they need the motions. And the timelines that we'll talk about today, Your Honor, I left it all. It's so clear what's going on here, but it's so clear that the 13th Circuit isn't willing to see it because that would mean consequences for the internal people at the 13th Circuit.

And, respectfully, it doesn't seem like the 13th Circuit is willing to entertain any reality where that happens. And it's really scary for me because this is my career.

I never had an issue with any attorney or judge, any bar complaint against me or anyone else in 18 years. Never had a problem.

And then this case comes along and it's a nightmare of two years and counting. And, Your Honor, I don't know what I did to bring that on. I think the first thing that, if we have to go forward today, is that May 2024 filing where my position then is exactly what it is now.

And I pleaded with the Court to not let it get ugly, and I could not have imagined how ugly it's gotten.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And no sign of relief.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I do want to address, I apologize if you feel animosity. That was not my intention.

More than anything else, I was asking for your exhibits so that I can do what I think I need to do today, which is adequately assess the motions under the law.

And any animosity that you're feeling certainly is not my intention. I'm just asking if my procedures were being followed with regard to those exhibits and bringing me copies of those exhibits. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So, as I understand it, your argument with regards to I'm not proceeding today has to do with an order looking to stay; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: That would be the first layer, Your Honor. There is no stay that's entered, and the case law that I had cited in my motion -- Notice of Continuing Objection to Lift Stay, all stands for the requirement that the law of the case is in the orders. And the Court is without jurisdiction to proceed in the absence of formal order lifting the stay. And this isn't especially a solid stay in that the Second District Court of Appeal approved it.

My plan this week was appeal to the Second DCA court lifting the stay, but I couldn't find it. So that's when I contacted the Court and asked about the status of the stay, and I didn't hear anything about it until yesterday afternoon when the judicial assistant told me that we wouldn't know until tomorrow.

So I was expecting that we would get here and that we might talk about some preliminary matters. I mean, I prepared as best I could for more, but, you know, Your Honor, I just -- I've been trying to get discovery.

Up until yesterday, they had not responded to any discovery at all in two years. They objected to everything I sent out. They didn't even follow the law and the requirements of mandatory disclosure.

THE COURT: But, Mr. Hanson, you're arguing for this hearing not to go forward. And my understanding is that we will address some of those discovery issues at this hearing. So I'm not -- I'm not sure what you're asking for? Are you asking to address those issues or to continue this hearing?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, since you came on the case in June of 2025, I told you I did not envy the position you were in, but I told you that the discovery had to get ordered. My argument based upon the guardian ad litem is that it's not based in reality. There's nothing that is -- especially given the timeline of when it was sought, there is nothing that could conceivably support it and it was in a retaliatory way right after my attorney had told me that to get them to comply with the pending order --

THE COURT: I'm sorry to interrupt, Mr. Hanson, but I don't feel like you're addressing my question.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I feel like you're going off on -- my question, specifically, was -- you're starting, you're starting to mention issues with regards to discovery not being addressed, but you're also asking for this hearing to be continued because of the no order lifting the stay.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I did go off on a bad tangent there. Please, feel free to interrupt me.

What I was trying to get at was that we should address the discovery, let that go forward, and then we're moving things along --

THE COURT: So, I'm sorry, a partial stay?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor --

THE COURT: Or --

MR. HANSON: Simply getting the discovery going that should have been done going two years ago that Mr. Davis intentionally delayed, strategically trickled off documents to put off enforcement of an order.

THE COURT: Help me out. Procedurally, how can I do that if you're saying we shouldn't go forward?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, it's your courtroom. I'm telling you that that's the result that would move the case forward efficiently, and I wouldn't object to it. But if the Court is inclined to hear the guardian ad litem motion under these circumstances when my -- I've agreed to go to their psych eval, anything they want. I'll go to it, and I put that in writing for months and they haven't taken me up on it --

THE COURT: Again, I'm still stuck procedurally understanding your position.

MR. HANSON: My position, Your Honor, is that my arguments are based upon that what I've been requesting all along and that it was at issue long before they started filing their retaliatory stuff. If that can be addressed and ordered, Your Honor, I think that you can pause the stay momentary for me to issue the discovery, and then reinitiate the stay, if you want to.

I think that you can pause -- or lift the stay and go forward with just ordering discovery. I don't even think that we need hearings on it, Your Honor. They've violated so many discovery rules that instead of holding them accountable for that, Judge Ayers didn't even make them follow the basic law for mandatory disclosures.

So despite that being the only issue that I ask for, and them violating multiple discovery rules instead of what the order would require, which is sanctions, they get benefits. Because, clearly, they're trying to put out of discovery issue.

Judge Ayers let them do less than what's required by the law and agreed with them on anything that I actually asked them to do beyond the mandatory stuff, so that stuff should be addressed. That stuff should be addressed immediately and start to get the case back on the right track or the case should be transferred.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Davis, any response to the request to, I guess, continue this hearing because of an order not being entered on the last hearing, which I lifted the stay?

MR. DAVIS: Well, yes, sir. The order wasn't entered. Mr. Hanson had numerous objections to the order. And rather than responding quickly, I decided to wait a little while before responding so that I was aware. And, unfortunately, it slipped through the cracks, and I didn't submit it. But everybody who has been involved in the case knows what the Court ruled.

Additionally, I think what makes this issue really moot is that the Second District Court of Appeal affirmed the Court's denial of the transfer on April 15th. And that -- I don't know that it's made it to the Court file yet, but it's Exhibit 14 in Volume One of my exhibits.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: I have lots to say about the other things, but I don't know that it's relevant. I will ask because we're now 20 minutes into our first of eight hours reserved for the Court. And this is traditional; Mr. Hanson trying to filibuster, for lack of a better way of saying it, his way through not having the Court address the issues that are before the Court today.

We have tried extensively to get our motions heard. They were previously set last April before Judge Ayers. We had a hearing; it wasn't finished. The Court was going to enter an order, but Mr. Hanson filed to disqualify her, so that didn't happen.

Then we were set in August of 2025 before this Court, and the issue came with the stay, and the Court continued the hearing. And we understand, we're not criticizing the Court, but we've been trying for over a year to get these issues heard, which is, respectfully, and this isn't directed towards the Court -- it's overall situation -- it's completely unreasonable.

So we'd like to have our motions heard today and Mr. Hanson's.

THE COURT: I believe there's 12 motions set, and I see one, two, three, four, five, six -- six titled Wife's motions and six titled Husband's motions.

MR. DAVIS: I haven't counted them,

sir. I believe you're correct.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, if I may just respond to it -- to what Mr. Davis said there? What is the explanation for not taking me up on offering to sign medical releases, offering to go to your psych eval? I offered to have a court order entered, whatever you needed to get that resolved. And then if there were real concerns about the welfare of the kids, I just don't understand why you wouldn't take me up on that, and then you'd have it for the guardian ad litem argument.

This was a year ago. It's not a year ago, several months ago when I first started offering this, so if the concern is not moving the case along, that demands an explanation.

MR. DAVIS: Where there has to be who he's going to go to, the scope of the evaluation, who is going to pay for it. There's -- other than, "Sure, I'll go," there are other things that have to be determined.

MR. HANSON: But there is an effort made to my offer. There's no like, "Hey, we'd like for you to go."

THE COURT: Hold on real quick. I hear what you're saying, Mr. Hanson. I assume that you're talking to the Court now, right? Because -- it was a response to Mr. Davis, but any communication between the two of you guys would be outside of court. I don't govern those things.

I mean, if you are arguing that a position they're taking is contrary to their actions, that's fine. But I'm not assuming that there's dialogue going on between the two of you right now. Is that fair?

MR. HANSON: I sent an E-mail now and then, but I don't talk to Mr. Davis on the phone.

THE COURT: Oh, no. I wasn't implying communication was verbal in-person. I just meant communication, in general. It sounded to me like you were asking him a question.

MR. HANSON: Oh, just right now?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HANSON: I apologize. I didn't mean to.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: I was going to address in preliminary matters this morning those very issues and see if he wanted to stipulate on any of them, but we're still on Mr. Hanson's preliminary issues.

THE COURT: Correct. All right. Anything else with regards to the continuation of this hearing with regards to the order lifting the stay. Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: No, sir.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson.

MR. HANSON: The only thing that I would add is that I didn't have the opportunity to appeal it to the Second District. And I will be filing a motion for rehearing and a motion for formal written order and looking at appellate options for that -- that order, so that's not necessarily over.

As to the stay, specifically, nothing other than what I've said, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. I will note that the -- that we had discussed this. I don't believe there is any ambiguity in how the Court was proceeding.

The notice of hearing was filed on February 16th is my understanding for this matter. While I understand your arguments, Mr. Hanson, I don't believe that there's any -- I don't believe that you are in a position of not knowing what the Court was doing absent a written order.

I think you still have your appellate remedies. I'm not precluding any of that, so I'm going to go forward today.

MR. HANSON: Only other thing I would add, if I may, Your Honor, is that by the time we attended the hearing, I didn't see an order lifting the stay, and I referenced that during the hearing, and then asked the question earlier this week, and didn't hear the result of the Court's order until this morning.

I think that introduced the confusion where I truly didn't know. I didn't expect that we would be going forward today, so I just wanted to add that for the record, Your Honor. I understand you've ruled, but I wanted to make sure it's clear.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Any other preliminary -- I think you said you had a preliminary matter?

MR. DAVIS: I do and I don't know what the Court wants to do about Mr. Hanson's exhibit issue, but I'm going to leave that to the discretion of the Court. I'm not going to make any arguments. Whatever the Court thinks is appropriate is -- we'll accept.

With respect to preliminary matters, Mr. Hanson is correct. He has said that he would take a psychological evaluation and he has said that he would do a vocational evaluation, but the identity of who will do those and how extensive the psychological evaluation will be and who's going to pay for it is still an issue.

I don't know if Mr. Hanson wants to address that and stipulate to that to take a couple of motions off the table. We're happy to or we can proceed. Whatever the Court and Mr. Hanson would like to do.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I wouldn't understand what authority there would be for me to pay for psychological evaluation that I don't think is necessary or appropriate. And I haven't researched that. You know, that wasn't placed at issue. We'll go to whoever I have to go to.

I do workers' comp litigation, so I know that there's people that are on either side, and I believe there's generally some rules about a list of three sometimes --

THE COURT: Sure. I've done that before.

MR. HANSON: I've done some research about what my rights are, but as to -- I suppose it would just be the preliminary matter that I agree to whatever the law requires of me, and I would need to just research.

THE COURT: Okay. So here's what we can do if there is an agreement for, you said, a voc and psych; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, Your Honor.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I still have a preliminary matter that hasn't been addressed.

THE COURT: That we need to address before we handle this issue?

MR. HANSON: Yes, before we handle any motions. I don't think that we should be getting into motions until all the preliminary issues are fully handled.

THE COURT: Okay. I was trying --

MR. DAVIS: If I may respond briefly. The authority is in Chapter 61 for payment of the voc eval and the psychological eval. It's in Chapter 61.

And Mr. Hanson is now arguing, well, I wasn't on notice on that. I need additional time. I need to research it. These motions -- one, the psychological motion was filed in December of 2024. We're in 2026. I believe the voc eval motion was filed in January of '25. If I'm off, I'd be off by a handful of weeks. It might have been January.

So the fact that we ask that the Court require Mr. Hanson to pay for these things, he's been on notice for well over a year.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And they've been on nearly for a year that I was willing to go, and they didn't do anything.

THE COURT: No, I understand.

MR. HANSON: So I don't understand. The burden -- they're were the ones -- the ball was in their court. If they wanted to push the eval, they could have talked to me about it. They could have talked to the Court about it.

MR. DAVIS: And he just told the Court that he wasn't willing to pay for it, which is exactly where I knew --

MR. HANSON: I --

MR. DAVIS: If I may speak? Which is exactly where I knew this was going to go.

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor, I still have the preliminary matter before I'm willing to get into any of these motions.

THE COURT: MR. HANSON: The structural conflict, Your Honor. I filed some documents that really highlight the extent to which it exists and how clear the Constitution is that no man can sit as his own judge.

The Court would need to make some finding that what I'm pursuing in the case against yourself, Your Honor, and the 13th Circuit is a sham lawsuit; otherwise, it's a structural conflict where there is a real conflict of interest.

I can point out numerous ways in which your interests are now aligned with concealing what they've been concealing and continuing to conceal what Judge Ayers did and --

THE COURT: And, I'm sorry, let me -- I just want to make sure I'm clear. When you say structural conflict, you mean the fact that you had sued the 13th Judicial and myself, and I'm still presiding over the family law case.

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. That's a structural conflict and it's a particularly strong one because if you look at the documents I filed, I recently filed a motion for summary final order in the mandamus case against the 13th Circuit and yourself. And the Attorney General is representing the 13th Circuit.

I had complained to the Attorney

General's Office, asking them to investigate the 13th Circuit months before they started representing the 13th Circuit, and so there's that extra conflict of interest in there.

And the 13th Circuit -- there's a motion for sanctions pending against you in the 13th Circuit, and the fact that I believe there is culpable animosity when I got in here today, that's why you can't have structural conflicts.

And my family is not going to move on or heal with this type of proceeding where I simply don't believe that it is fair that I have any chance of getting a fair process.

I think I've spoken now against powerful people, and there's a lot of retaliation coming my way. And, especially, when my kids are involved. They don't -- they don't need to be in the middle of that.

And as to the Florida Bar claim, I filed a lawsuit in the Second Circuit Court. And it's clear that the Florida Bar is concealing E-mails with Mr. Davis relating to his misconduct in this case and there's no good faith basis for it. I've --

THE COURT: Is that part of the structural conflict that you're arguing at this point?

MR. HANSON: It is, Your Honor, because Ayers' and Davis' misconduct is so intertwined. It was Ayers that was excusing him from attending hearings where his misconduct was at issue. It was Ayers who was calling him as a teddy bear rather than looking at the facts what was going on. It was Ayers that was interrupting me and refusing to allow me to speak about his misconduct.

And the fact that the Florida Bar has covered that up and the Second Circuit judge in Tallahassee, there is no -- she refused jurisdiction. It's -- there is some questions in the law that are just yes or no. It's clear she has jurisdiction. She doesn't want to get on the wrong side of the Florida Bar, and she's not following the law. In the case against the 13th Circuit --

THE COURT: You're talking about the Second District court judge, here?

MR. HANSON: That's the Second District court judge where I had to appeal it to the First Circuit Court of Appeal. With the Sixth Circuit Court judges who were appointed as conflict judges, the first judge was Judge Frayman who literally muted me when I was only trying to make a record during the hearing.

He raised defenses that the Attorney General had not raised for the 13th Circuit, ruled on them without letting me speak, and gave the 13th Circuit defendants and the Attorney General an additional 20 days that they weren't entitled to.

So it's the first party presentation violation I've ever seen in my career where the judge steps into the role of defense attorney for the 13th Circuit, and I was able to get that judge disqualified.

The next judge at the first hearing with him, he commits the second party presentation violation principle I've ever seen where he also stepped into defense counsel's shoes for the 13th Circuit and gave them another 20 days.

MR. DAVIS: I, respectfully, have to object at this juncture. May I address the Court? It's a continuing filibuster. We're now 30 minutes into the hearing.

THE COURT: I'm well aware of the time. That's why I set the full day.

MR. DAVIS: It's 25 percent into our hearing already to make the same arguments he's made -- I've lost count of how many times --

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. DAVIS: -- because he doesn't want to address the issues that are set before the Court today. And we're just asking the Court to please address the issues that are set before the Court today and, respectfully, conduct the hearing on what's at issue.

THE COURT: I understand. You'll have the opportunity to respond, Mr. Davis. I'm well aware of the time. I'm watching.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, sir. You may continue, Mr. Hanson.

MR. HANSON: I need to be able to make my record because this goes to the heart of this case. The second judge delays things again.

And the why they did that is because the facts in the law are so clear that I'm entitled to the relief. So it is the opposite of the sham pleading. It a slam dunk pleading. Where, again, at the hearing just a couple of days ago the -- at post-disqualification, second conflict judge, again all of the facts and law were clear he needed to issue the writ to force the 13th Circuit to turn over these documents. And he wouldn't do it.

And no explanation under the facts of law. He just wouldn't do it. Then I filed another motion for sanctions and issuance of the writ. If the Court looks at the pleading, it's conclusive again. So we're proceeding without these records that I'm clearly entitled to under the facts and law. They go to the very core of the issues.

The my argument is that Judge Ayers was biased and inappropriate throughout, and I'd already filed to disqualify her in February of 2025. And at this hearing in April of 2025 when she was repeatedly rolling her eyes at me when I already expressed concerns about her bias and then lied about it is critically evident -- critically relevant to what's happened in the case already.

Assuming I'm correct, which I don't even know if anyone has watched the video. The last position I heard from the 13th Circuit on the video other than this vague security exemption, which under the law the 13th Circuit has an obligation to produce affidavits, security system information, to confirm that there's actually evidence it was a security camera. They haven't produced any of that. And so I think there's real questions about whether that was a stay, a pretextual, post-hoc label that someone put on it because they didn't want to give it up because they knew it was going to be problematic for Judge Ayers.

You know, Judge Ayers has announced to run again, and the importance of getting that document clearly outweighs any security concerns. The video is pointing at the --

where the judge sits, and that's not reviewing any unknown security information that there's cameras that cover the judge --

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Real quick, Mr. Hanson. I understand what you're saying, but do you agree that that's not for me to rule on here today and that I don't have any authority in that matter?

MR. HANSON: Well, on the mandamus part, I do believe you have authority. You could say I have a hearing on the same exact motion that was filed in December of 2024 that Judge Ayers heard for four or five hours on April 4th of 2025. There's video of it that's been the subject of extensive litigation where it looks like the plaintiff is going to get their records once the delays come to an end.

THE COURT: I'm trying to get to that. I haven't even gotten to that yet.

MR. HANSON: So, Your Honor, but I don't understand why it hasn't been done in over a year now. And you want me to move forward with these issues, and I haven't -- and, respectfully, Your Honor, I have not seen any sign of good faith.

Everything that I've asked for has been denied and I think pretty much universally against the clear facts and law that we've required relief in my favor. So it's -- I was scared to come here today. I was having panic attacks coming here today.

I don't think I have any protection whatsoever under the law. No one will rule -- will make any findings of fact about these things that I'm saying, you know, the judges in all these different circuits and the appellate judges in the Second DCA, all of them could step in and do something.

And I don't think it's debatable whether this is a severe problem and whether it's unlawful. The structural conflict law is clear and my position remains that given clarity of -- clarity and strength of the litigation against Your Honor and the 13th Circuit and the fact that at the core of that litigation is evidence I've been trying to get for a year to make arguments on hearings that we're here for today.

And, respectfully, Your Honor, you're part of the 13th Circuit, and you're pushing us forward on these hearings when you all have had a year to cooperate. I started requesting the video during the hearing, and then the next day from the chief judge. So the fact that I don't have that critical piece of evidence to use in my arguments to the Court and creating a record to the Court seems like a massive conclusive problem that we just can't go forward.

We're lacking the evidence, and we have this animosity because of this arguing over the evidence. That's why structural conflicts are automatically unconstitutional unless there is some finding that the case was a sham created to disqualify the judge. And the opposite of that is true in this case, Your Honor. So I would appreciate some findings of facts as to whether the Court agrees there's a structural conflict and whether the Court is going to find that my attempts at litigation are sham pleadings. So I think that has to be done before we get into any motions.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: Well, number one, the structural conflict motion I believe Mr. Hanson filed last night -- may be early hours this morning. I think it was last night -- isn't set for hearing today, so that's number one.

Number two, whether or not Judge Ayers rolled her eyes at Mr. Hanson or not has nothing to do with the 12 motions that are set before the Court today. Number three, if Judge Ayers rolled her eyes at him -- and she's been disqualified from the case -- so what? Sometimes judges roll their eyes.

There was a judge that used to be in family court many, many years ago who is no longer a judge who rolled her eyes regularly at lots of people, myself included, and she was still very fair.

You know, he's attacking other judges now in the Sixth Circuit. He's -- the irony of the whole thing is that Mr. Hanson is suing people, trying to create a conflict.

MR. HANSON: If you don't like the judge -- the precedent he wants to set, "If you don't like your judge, just sue them.

You can get a new judge." That's what he's trying to do.

This would open up the flood gates to litigation. So if you have a temporary relief hearing; they don't like their ruling, no problem. Sue the judge; you can get a new one.

That's preposterous. The evidence is completely irrelevant to these proceedings. His 13th Circuit lawsuit is irrelevant to today's proceeding, other than some of the things that he's alleged to, I believe, is relevant to his mental health state, but he's basically been trying to filibuster.

We're now 43 minutes into the first hour of today's proceedings with Mr. Hanson trying to keep today's proceedings from proceeding -- from going on. I don't know why he's so afraid to have the Courts hear the motions that have been filed on their merits. Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. Anything in response, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I'm just -- it stuns me beyond belief that Mr. Davis can say that I'm just suing the judges to try and create a conflict. So there's not just the video from May 4th of 2025. There's the communications that the circuit has hidden related to the December 2024 hearing where my attorney was taken away without allowing me any opportunity to inquire as to the reasons, and I would still have an attorney likely if Judge Ayers had not colluded with them to set something on a day's notice knowing that I wasn't available, and all of that is in the record.

The 13th Circuit has not even identified the communications beyond a certain class of materials protected by judicial immunity that they've put into the confidential stack.

Judicial immunity doesn't apply at all to mandamus cases. I'm not suing for damages. So it's -- they fail what the law requires of them in multiple ways to the point that it's bad faith. They don't identify the documents that they have to per the law. They don't provide a privilege law. They don't cite any specific confidentiality provisions, and they don't attempt to redact what they can. They don't watch the video to weigh -- they're not doing anything that they need to do.

And I would ask -- not only did Judge Ayers roll her eyes, she lied about it, and then threatened me with getting the video. I just -- I don't understand how that could be considered anything other than precisely relevant to this, given what my arguments are, that she was still biased, she corrupted the case to the point where we certainly shouldn't be doing what Mr. Davis want us to be doing here today.

MR. DAVIS: Which is just having a hearing on the merits. That's all.

MR. HANSON: I wasn't done, sir. He invoked my mental health state. What does Mr. Davis know about my mental health state?

He has the option of getting my records. I've already signed releases, but I think it's pretty inappropriate for an attorney to sit and attack an opposing litigant over his mental health when he has the opportunity to investigate it and all he wants to do is denigrate it. He doesn't want to know the truth. He just wants to be a bully.

And it's been going on the whole time, Your Honor, and Judge Ayers would say he's a teddy bear if this happened. So it's such a pervasive bias that has affected every aspect of the proceedings. And, Your Honor, I just want to get through this. I want it to be over with just like I did in May 2024, but I want it to be done fairly so we can move on and co-parent.

I think that a transfer has to be done or, like I said, discovery, and then if they want me to do -- some of their motions, the voc and psych, fine, but guardian ad litem that should absolutely be off limits today.

THE COURT: Based on my understanding of the argument, what's been set for hearing today, including but not limited to, I believe, there was a prior motion after you named me in a lawsuit for disqualification of me; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: I don't -- there may have been one for all 13th Circuit Court judges.

THE COURT: I think so.

MR. DAVIS: I think it named Your Honor and the 13th Circuit Court Judges. That's my recollection. I'm happy to look.

MR. HANSON: And I know you're not going to like this, Your Honor, but I have to bring up one other point before --

THE COURT: Let's finish this one before we go on to another one.

MR. HANSON: I just wanted to brace you for it.

THE COURT: I just don't want to lose track of the thread before we go on to another one.

MS. HANSON: What are we looking for?

THE COURT: My understanding that there was a motion to disqualify me, either me as individually or the entire circuit that addressed the structural argument that --

MR. DAVIS: I thought there was. A motion --

MS. HANSON: It's not in this case. It was in the other case. It was filed in the 13th Circuit. The first judge before he was disqualified got it.

MR. DAVIS: There is a motion to disqualify all 13th Circuit judges and that's Dock 255. I thought there was one that also named this the Court, but I could be wrong.

THE COURT: Let me see. 255. Verified Motion to Disqualify all 13th Circuit Judicial Judges.

MR. DAVIS: I just got kicked out of hub. Sorry.

THE COURT: You see that, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I did not, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: You said 255.

THE COURT: That's the docket number, yes.

MR. HANSON: I can pull it.

THE COURT: That's dated 12/19/25, if that helps. The Court uses docket numbers probably most frequently than others do, so...

MR. HANSON: I got kicked out of Internet altogether.

MR. DAVIS: Yeah, I did too. I got kicked out of, which is probably the same thing.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm looking at Motion to Disqualify filed on 12/19/2025 at Docket 255. And then an order on same at 258 entered on 1/8/26. That order denied Respondent's Notice of Related Cases and Motion to Disqualify all 13th Circuit Court Judges.

So I'm finding the argument presented here today regarding the structural argument were addressed there, so I'm going to deny the request at this time.

MR. HANSON: And remember, Your Honor, I did say that I had --

THE COURT: Oh, I'm sorry. I thought it was unrelated -- I thought it was subsequent.

MR. HANSON: No, it was on that topic. I just didn't want to interrupt there.

THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

MR. HANSON: What I think the Court is missing is that there is a formal motion for sanctions now that will escalate it to contentious and adversarial structural conflict. And the relevance of the records -- I won't repeat myself there, but, Your Honor, I have a difficult time with the -- what is the motivating factor to force anything for Mr. Davis' side to go forward today given their course of discovery violations, obstruction, refusal to set depositions. The first I got any discovery responses was late last night, which I haven't had to chance to look at, but --

MR. DAVIS: Well, actually, Ms. Hanson, that's true. Strike that.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Go ahead, Mr. Hanson.

MR. HANSON: They haven't done anything to show any urgency with pursuing these issues given that my offers are standing out there for months and months. And they haven't alleged any, any change in circumstances.

There's no problems with the kids. There's nothing where -- I suppose that gets back into the stay argument some, but my argument is that the structural conflict at least the Court should allow me to complete that litigation and try to get the records that I find relevant to making these arguments.

If the Court forces us to go forward today, then it's forcing me to go forward with an incomplete record, which benefits the 13th Circuit because then it gets this hearing out of the way where then I don't have the argument anymore that there's a hearing coming up where it's the exact same motion that Judge Ayers' misconduct occurred in, and it's critically relevant. So it serves the 13th Circuit purposes in that sense. And it's just unfair. I've tried to pursue this piece of evidence that's critical to my argument for a year.

THE COURT: You're talking about the video again?

MR. HANSON: I'm talking about the video and the communications.

THE COURT: You're talking about the discovery.

MR. HANSON: And that's what's so frustrating is there are layers of concealment now that I have to unpack just to get simple discovery, but circumstances have changed since that order was denied.

Since the motion to disqualify where the case was denied, and I cannot imagine a bigger structural conflict than the one we have right here. Again, I need to address the findings of facts, whether I have constitutional rights that are being considered here.

Why the Court is ignoring the federal case law where due process is the floor. We can't go below the due process floor. And case law is clear that no man can be a judge in his own case. And we have that to an extreme here, so I just request the Court as to some factual finding as to why these new circumstances still have no impact on the Court's insistence on going forward.

THE COURT: Okay. Anything in regards to that request for factual finding which remain?

MR. DAVIS: That's up to the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right.

MR. DAVIS: If the Court wishes to, that's fine; if the Court doesn't wish to, that's fine.

THE COURT: Anything else, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: The only other thing would be that there are no factual findings on the denial of the motion to transfer that was heard back in June of --

MR. DAVIS: I have to object at this juncture. The Second District has ruled. This is continued filibuster. We're now at 9:55, approximately, 12.5 percent.

THE COURT: I appreciate the argument. You don't have to keep repeating the time.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I know what you're saying. If you want to make a record, I get it. I'm not going to preclude you from making it. I'm looking at clock too. I hear you.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead, Mr. Hanson. But, yeah, I mean, I thought we were talking about structural conflict now, not the transfer of venue?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, they are interrelated issues. They both involve the due -- The 14th Amendment and then under the U.S. Constitution in Article 9 under the Florida Constitution. And the Court is seemingly ignoring those arguments and facts, which is preventing it from getting appropriate appellate review.

I suspect that the PCA from the Second District confuses me, but there are no findings of fact on any of these issues that I'm aware of. And I believe that that is actually required of you to go forward.

Is there has to be some findings from the Court that explain why the structural conflict, federal constitutional due process floor is not -- is not impacted by the Court's actions. It's not violated by the Court's action. That's the purpose of filing an invocation of rights. They need to be addressed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: A simple denial of it and saying we are going to go forward, that doesn't -- that doesn't address what's required in order to ignore federal binding precedent on structural conflicts.

THE COURT: Okay. The Court is going to stand on its previous order. We can go forward.

MR. HANSON: And the Court is refusing to give me any factual findings on my notice of invocation of constitutional rights.

THE COURT: That matter is not set for today, okay. And I hear the argument. I'm standing on my prior order.

MR. HANSON: Whether it's set for today is immaterial. It's a constitutional floor --

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. HANSON: -- to anything that the Court goes forward with is ab initio -- void ab initio in light of the conflict, especially if the Court is going to refuse again to make any factual findings.

It looks like the Court is just burying its head in the sand to the simple fact that the 13th Circuit is hiding records, they're benefiting from pushing this forward. And rather than do the right thing, they just ignore the facts.

I think that's totally inappropriate when I've raised these constitutional issues for months now.

THE COURT: Okay. Anything else you want to put on the record, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Just the connection with the Florida Bar. We have --

THE COURT: I believe you already mentioned that.

MR. HANSON: That Judge Ayers complaint part that it's still pending against me in this investigation phase, and --

THE COURT: I understand that. You mentioned that earlier.

MR. HANSON: But, but that's relevant to the structural conflict because pushing this forward today is not only unfair in these proceedings, but it complicates things in the mandamus proceedings before me as well.

It's really difficult to try to consider this process and participate in it. It's just -- the Court is refusing to acknowledge reality, and the reality is there is this massive structural conflict.

So I just want to make that very clear for the record.

THE COURT: All right. Moving forward, I believe there are some discussion about stipulating to a vocational evaluation and a psychological evaluation?

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, I believe you said that we were going to go in order of when the motions were filed. And my May of 2024 motion was the first one that was going to be heard.

THE COURT: Okay. I completely understand. No, no. Time to take break, if we need to. Let's go. Is five minutes enough?

MR. DAVIS: I just want to run to the second floor to grab a water.

THE COURT: That's fine. We will come back at 10:10. Is that okay, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: Let's be back at 10:10.

(WHEREUPON, a recess was taken at 10:00 a.m. through 10:10 a.m.)

THE COURT: All right. I believe right before we took a quick break, there was some discussion as to whether or not there could be stipulations regarding a couple of motions. And then, I believe, Mr. Hanson, I believe you had indicated that you wanted to proceed in the order that the matters were set; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Typically, if we can -- if there can be some stipulations, we try to handle those, but if not that's -- are you saying that you don't want to discuss any stipulations or only discuss stipulations in the order that we get to them as they appear on the notice of hearing?

MR. HANSON: As they appear on the hearing, and I think I was kind of willing to resolve is the issues on the -- on the vocational eval and psych eval. I'm happy to go with what the law requires. I just want to research more and --

THE COURT: Research more what? I'm sorry. I don't -- research the law or what?

MR. HANSON: I don't want to pay. I don't see how there is a law that requires me to pay. I would object, if they expect me to pay. I assume they are asking for it, they would pay. So I think, yeah, it's just more complicated than -- my agreement to go with the understanding that I didn't have to pay for it.

Paying for my own waste of time, in my opinion, just doesn't seem reasonable. I just want to research it.

THE COURT: I understand, Mr. Hanson. I'm just trying to figure out the order we are going in, not the arguments for it.

So you're saying you don't want to address it now, but then you're talking about what you're willing to do with regards, so I guess I'm a little confused.

MR. HANSON: I guess, I'm trying to say it wasn't quite as simple as we're almost done with these two and just finish up the stipulations. That's why I want to do the order.

THE COURT: Well, I don't feel like we've really gotten into it. We just talked about maybe doing it. The Court hasn't given its opinion on it at all. That's what I'm just trying to figure out, what we're doing.

MR. HANSON: I prefer we go into the order that we decided.

MR. DAVIS: That's fine.

THE COURT: All right. Let's do that.

MR. DAVIS: 22 is up first. And, Judge, if I may address the Court, I know that the Court's got a computer screen, I imagine, with Hover, but if it's helpful for any reason, all the exhibits -- excuse me. Strike that. All the motions are in my exhibit book.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: In case paper copies are helpful to the Court.

THE COURT: Yeah. No. I appreciate that. What I have set first is Husband's Response to Motion to Compel Payments and Motion to Compel Evidence of Marital Assets and Financial; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And one other preliminary matter, Your Honor, if I may. At some point

I need to offer testimony today. I've never had my deposition taken. I've never had an opportunity to take any testimony, so I don't know how the Court wishes to do that.

Argument bleeds into facts, so, you know, I thought about it. I really don't know what the most efficient way is. I can testify about the motion by motion, I can try and testify about everything more generally. Whatever Your Honor prefers.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I mean, I was going to take them in the order that they appear on my -- on the notice of hearing at your request and the acquiescence of Mr. Davis. Okay?

So, typically, what I do when I have a motion is I ask the moving party if they want to do an opening statement. Opening statement in my mind is argument, and then if there is going to be testimony, I put any witnesses under oath, then I go from there.

MR. HANSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That's how I typically do it.

MR. HANSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So, as I was saying before, my understanding is that we have Husband's Response to Motion to Compel Payments and Motion to Compel Evidence of Marital Assets and Financial Info.

I believe everyone agreed that that is the motion at hand. I was going to say then is, Mr. Hanson, you may proceed with an opening, if that's what you you'd like to do.

MR. HANSON: Thank you, Your Honor. This was my first filing in this matter and my first circuit court filing ever. I did not have an attorney. I really wanted to avoid getting attorneys involved. And Petitioner and I had done well with living separately, 50/50 custody.

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance. We're talking about financial payments.

THE COURT: Compel evidence marital assets and financial payments evidence.

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. I was just trying to give a little bit of background of what was going on in the case when this was filed. It was back in May of 2024, so I think that's relevant for the Court to consider ruling on it now.

I mean, it still has relevance now. It's similar, but the circumstances when it was filed -- I can try and keep it more brief, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, please. I mean, I hear what you're saying. You think it's relevant, but how is it relevant? Just saying you think is relevant, you know, directs me a little bit, but I need some understanding of why it's relevant, not just that you think it is, if that makes sense.

I'm not trying to nitpick. I'm just trying to under -- It's hard for me to understand a counter to a relevant objection if you're not saying why it's relevant.

MR. HANSON: It's relevant to how simple the issues were, how one dimensional this entire case is.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: Everything is going well. We are separated. We're living in separate houses, 50/50 custody. I've provided the Court and Mr. Davis with all the texts by E-mail. I can work on getting you paper copies of it today, I suppose, if you need them.

But the texts support that everything is going well until May of 2024 when I start talking to Mrs. Hanson about mandatory disclosures and financial assets. And just, I believe, the Court has some information on this, but Mrs. Hanson kept her income separate from mine the last several years of the marriage and did not allow me access to the account.

And during the three or four years leading up to 2024, as the marriage was deteriorating, I was making significantly less money. And Sarah was making more money, and I was asking her to contribute more and she would never -- she would tell me that it was all going to credit cards and student loans. She wasn't able to contribute.

I never had access to all of that marital income. Things -- the mortgage, taxes, insurance, all the big things just came out of my accounts and I didn't worry about it for most of the marriage, but especially as I started having some clear problems, I was making less money, that just coincided with the marital problems because I was asking her mother about the accounts, and she reacted aggressively to any time I would bring that up.

So this filing was -- when it was clear that she was not going to cooperate with sharing any of the information about the marital -- marital assets that she had been.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And I give the Court background on how simple of an issue this is. It's a contentious one, but it's one that could be disposed of quickly.

All I was asking for is information. It wasn't something that had to lead to litigation. It was a peace-of-mind thing, and I pleaded with the Court for efficiency in it. Knowing that things -- that I had concerns that this could get dragged out. Then after that I hired an attorney -- and one other piece of background here that's important is that this May 22nd -- I'm sorry. It's Docket Number 22. It's filed on May 16th.

THE COURT: I have that.

MR. HANSON: The item that I was responding to was Mrs. Hanson sending me a barrage of 16 pages of interrogatories, which she knew that was exactly the type of busy work distraction that I wanted to avoid. So it was just an attack on me in an effort to dissuade me from pursuing this discovery.

Well, I got all of that discovery to her timely, and the stipulation between Mr. Davis and my counsel at the time -- and that's where Mr. Davis' delay tactics --

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance because he filed this in May of 2024. The allegations in the motion -- he didn't amend it -- are all prior to him retaining counsel, prior to this other discovery dispute being an issue.

THE COURT: Yeah. I -- Mr. Hanson, we're dealing with the portion of the motion that has to do with the compel evidence of marital assets and financial information.

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor, and part of my detail comes from I don't understand where I'm losing the Court with how simple this could be. Maybe I'm doing too much detail to try to get you to follow with what I see. And I apologize if I'm doing that.

THE COURT: Well, help me out with this: What is it that you're asking for in discovery? Motion to compel Evidence of Marital Asset. I mean, obviously, I have the motion in front of me but --

MR. HANSON: Right.

THE COURT: -- like tell me what it is that you want as far as opening goes. And we'll let Mr. Davis do an opening in response, and then if we need to start taking testimony, we'll do that. But, do you know what I'm saying?

MR. HANSON: I think so, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I think that would be helpful. You're entitled to present the case as you see fit, of course, right? But I'm just responding to your statement where I'm not sure where I'm losing the Court. I'm just trying to give you a response to that. Does that make sense?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. I think so.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: I was requesting marital assets going back seven years at that time. I was willing to compromise on it, but that's where the -- I put in the motion seven years because that's how long she had been putting assets separately.

I put together a joint account just days after we were married. She spent out of the account, never contributed anything to it, and it's -- it was a driving factor in what led to the divorce. My earning less money was clearly a factor, and then her refusal to share the information -- and, I apologize, if I'm getting into stuff that's happened since, but I think it's just relevant now to whether the Court grants relief here.

She has refused to agree to void the post-marital agreement even though --

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance. It's outside the scope of this motion.

THE COURT: I believe the pre-marital agreement is attached to the motion, right?

MR. HANSON: Either the motion or the response. I'm not sure.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. The response.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. It looks like it is there.

THE COURT: But --

MR. HANSON: What I'm trying to get at, Your Honor, is that fairness requires this discovery. It was a major issue at the time that we were trying to make the marriage work and a major issue at the time that the marriage failed. And Florida family law provides for broad access of information to ensure that everyone walks away believing they have a fair deal. That's what I was asking for here.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And it's time that the Courts move the case forward in a fair manner, and that involves granting this motion and striking objections requiring the timely response from Mrs. Hanson as well.

THE COURT: And, once again, Mr. Hanson, I'm sorry. I think I asked you before, specifically, what are you -- I guess, are you asking for mandatory disclosure 12.285 or what?

MR. HANSON: I was asking for her to produce seven years of financials.

THE COURT: But when you say, "financials," that can be a broad scope.

MR. HANSON: Mandatory disclosures.

THE COURT: That's why I'm saying, 12.285 mandatory disclosures?

MR. HANSON: Yes, sir, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the specific request. But you're saying seven years?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. That's what I was requesting for. I mean, I would compromise at less than that. I've gotten less than one right now when I've given her three.

THE COURT: Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, Your Honor. May it please the Court. So this motion was filed prior to Mrs. Hanson providing any mandatory disclosure. And while Mr. Hanson, despite being a licensed attorney, does not including a wherefore clause, which does, in fact, make it difficult for everyone to know exactly what he's asking for in this motion.

I think paragraph 34 is probably, so to speak, is wherefore statement where he requests the Court enter an order requiring Mrs. Hanson to provide bank statements that document her use of marital assets throughout the marriage to investigate whether the financial disclosures are accurate.

And it goes on -- the Court can read that, but everything about whether the marriage was working and why -- we are in a no-fault state. Why the divorce was filed, that's -- all of that is irrelevant.

The parties kept their bank statements -- bank accounts separate during the marriage. It wasn't just Mrs. Hanson, it was also Mr. Hanson. Notwithstanding, there is a prenuptial agreement in place. There is a separation agreement in place.

The Court previously ruled on this extensive documentation regarding discovery. Insofar as Mr. Hanson seeking mandatory disclosure, Mrs. Hanson filed a certificate of compliance with mandatory disclosure on October 22nd, 2024, and that's document 44.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: And a couple of days later, give or take, a handful of days later we had the hearing on the Motion to Compel. We were late on our mandatory disclosure, and I acknowledge that. Judge Ayers granted the Motion to Compel, found an entitlement to fees, reserved on the amount of fees and ordered us to comply -- to provide the records that hadn't yet been complied.

So very shortly thereafter, specifically, on October 31st, which is document 46, we filed our Amended Certificate of Compliance with mandatory disclosure providing the rest of the documents.

And then my office -- I received an E-mail from Vivian Cortez Hodz who was

Mr. Hanson's attorney at the time requesting -- it's in Exhibit 27. We'll get to it later or I can talk about it now, whatever the Court prefers -- requesting additional documents above and beyond mandatory disclosure.

I asked Mrs. Hanson; she said, "Sure, I'll send to them to you," and she did. So we filed our supplemental financial disclosures providing more information regarding her retirement accounts than the Rule 12.285 requires, and that was done on November 25th, 2024. So, let's see, 13 days after Mrs. Cortez Hodz requested it, and that's Dock 55.

The Court, Judge Ayers, entered -- these as they're known in this case, the Chase subpoenas come up frequently. We had a hearing on that, presented written argument to the Court, and the Court entered an order sustaining Wife's Amended Objection to Husband's Notices of Production from Non-party on December 20th of 2024. That's document 93.

Then the Court entered an order denying his objection and Motion for Clarification Rehearing on the Court's 10/20 -- excuse me. 10/10/2025 orders denying request for emergency hearing. That was on 2/10/25. And I missed the document number when I was preparing these exhibits. I apologize, but that's our Exhibit 30.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: And then entered an order denying his motion for clarification on 2/12/2025. That's Dock 129. That's also 31 in our exhibits, and entered an order denying his Motion for Enforcement and finding contempt for failure to comply with the Court's order on mandatory disclosure.

And the Court denied that because we had to hearing on that. And, ironically, Mr. Hanson's motion on the mandatory disclosure issue did not identify any document that was allegedly missing from your mandatory disclosure.

And when the Court asked him what's missing, Mr. Hanson wasn't able to identify any document that he believed was missing from mandatory disclosure. And, therefore, she denied his motion. And that's at document 130, and it's Tab 32 in the book.

So Mr. Hanson's motion at Dock 22 does not provide any particular time that he's seeking to compel. He has received mandatory disclosure. There are other motions he's filed regarding the Chase subpoenas and the like. I believe some of them were set for hearing today, so this particular motion should be denied.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor, just a couple of things. Mr. Davis referenced a pre-marital agreement. That has zero relevance to anything that's occurring right now. It's a red herring.

And as far as the marital -- the Certificate of Compliance is concerned, the -- wife and Mr. Davis worded them very strategically. And, remember, I talked to you about the June 28th, 2024 stipulated date of exchange for mandatory disclosures and I had to also do the interrogatory responses for that, so that's June 28 of 2024.

And, again, mind you -- and you'll see from the text messages -- the only is just getting discovery into marital assets. It was clear from the docket of May 22nd, 2024, so --

MR. DAVIS: That's res judicata. The judge has already -- so I object. Judge Ayers has already ruled on that in the hearing on the Motion to Compel where she granted it. So I don't know why we're talking about mandatory disclosure because it was granted.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson.

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, a couple of things. Number one, it brings it back to the central structural conflict here. He's relying on Judge Ayers, and the Court is sitting on evidence that's going to show just how dishonest and biased she is.

And the Court would seem to have handled this in the manner thus far where it's going to cover for Judge Ayers and me and my family are going to suffer from her misconduct while she enjoys a complete lack of accountability.

So I am arguing that the reliance on Judge Ayers is completely misplaced especially when there is critical evidence from December 2024 when she revoked my attorney without cause, without notice --

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance. It doesn't go to prove or disprove any material fact in issue in this motion.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, what I'm trying to figure out is what is it that you're asking for and what is it that you have not gotten?

MR. HANSON: I am asking for seven years of financials is what I'm asking for much. And there's also a wherefore clause in the motion right after Mr. Davis stopped reading --

THE COURT: I'm not worried about the wherefore clause. What I'm trying to understand is, specifically, what you're asking for. So when you keep saying, "seven years of financials," financials is a very broad term to me. It's hard for me to understand with specificity what you mean by that.

MR. HANSON: Like a mandatory disclosure. Like all evidence of --

THE COURT: Pursuant to --

MR. HANSON: Property interest.

THE COURT: -- 12.285; is that --

MR. HANSON: It's not pursuant to 12.285. It's more of a request for production. It's not -- it's not a perfect motion, Your Honor. Obviously, I'd never done a motion in circuit court or family law.

THE COURT: And I'm not saying you need to file a perfect motion. I'm just trying to understand with specificity the request.

MR. HANSON: I would like for Mrs. Hanson to reveal all financial assets and interests for seven years leading up to the request that I understand that I may have to compromise for lower a number.

THE COURT: Time frame is a little, is a little excessive in my mind.

MR. HANSON: And I think I even understood that when I drafted it. I just wanted to compromise at something. You know, she had me do three years from I think it was May of 2024 when I had --

THE COURT: Three years is I think around where the Court would land on that. But, once again, I'm trying to -- so, as I understand, as I understand it at this point, you're saying that I want these documents. And you're saying, "I initially asked for seven years; I provided three. I know I may have to compromise on that." Right?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: And, as I understand Mr. Davis' argument, he's saying he provided it.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, they didn't even comply with mandatory disclosure because what they did is they utilized their initial delay period to limit what they had to swear to.

So their Certificate of Compliance says that they swear they don't have any other interest in other accounts during the last 12 months. They were supposed to do that in June, but because they didn't do it until October and made no effort to actually comply with the stipulation, it shifted the period they swore to only 12 months before October of 2024.

Well, as you'll see from the text later, the marriage was over by October of 2023.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: So by delaying it four months, they were able to allow what likely would have been relevant months to fall off the map. That's one of my biggest problems with this is that their discovery violations are rampant throughout the case and have never suffered one consequence ever for it.

Even a post-hearing motion was due after the October 28th of 2024 hearing on discovery into some financial information, Mr. Davis was late.

MR. DAVIS: Objection to relevance. This has also been previously addressed by the Court. It's res judicata that. And it doesn't go to prove or disprove any material fact at issue in Mr. Hanson's motion that was filed at Dock 22.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Hanson, I understand that you're trying to provide some background, I guess, maybe. But that may be relevant, I guess, in the request for these things along those lines.

Once again, so you're saying that because they filed a Certificate of Compliance later than when it was due, it shifted the time in which they needed to provide documents; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: It shifted what they swore to.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: In other words, you're supposed to swear to the period going back from -- what the rule requires. And the rule is complicated. I've looked at it before.

THE COURT: I have to --

MR. HANSON: You probably know it backwards and forward, but I -- it requires certain things for certain time period. I believe it measures from the date of filing, but it certainly doesn't remember -- doesn't proceed back from --

THE COURT: It's okay. It's all right.

It's not the end of the world. Sorry. Go ahead.

MR. HANSON: I was just saying that it certainly doesn't proceed back to a year before they actually get around to filing it. In other words, they shouldn't benefit to having to swear less to the rule because they're late on the discovery and that's what they did.

And they've never actually sworn without some qualifier as to whether there's actually income there.

THE COURT: Sworn as to some qualifier as to whether there is actually some income there?

MR. HANSON: I can find it for you here in one of my motions on it, but it's always just -- so the first one was just the last 12 months, and then the second one I don't recall offhand. I'll be able to tell it to you in just a moment.

THE COURT: But let me ask you this: With regards to the Certificate of Compliance for mandatory disclosure at Docket Entry 44 and the amended financial disclosure at Docket Entry 46, is there -- are you saying that those documents were not received or that those certificates were not accurate?

MR. HANSON: They were received. They're not in compliance with the rule. They fudged it.

THE COURT: No, no, I understand. And that's not my question. I understand that that is your argument. But what I'm asking is like if they list, specifically, that they provided bank statements for 12 months for this period of time for this account, are you saying that you did not get those?

You're saying you shouldn't have got those or there should have been a different time frame?

MR. HANSON: I'm saying they didn't produce enough. Your Honor, it's very simple what's going on here. They're hiding marital assets, and they wouldn't even fully comply with mandatory disclosures, objecting to every discovery effort that I've made even though my motion to void the post-marital agreement that is pending, if granted, would result in giving her more money, so I shouldn't even have had to file the motion --

MR. DAVIS: Objection to relevance. It's way outside the scope of document 22.

THE COURT: Yeah. What I'm trying to figure out is, like I said, I'm trying to craft in my mind what might be a resolution of this manner. And in doing so, I'm trying to understand if there is some consensus as to what has already been produced.

MR. HANSON: What has already been produced is on its face incomplete and logically grossly off from what the actual numbers are. Otherwise, it's inconceivable that she would take the position that I'm going to keep objecting to you getting any discovery into my Chase bank accounts and anything else, even though just giving me some transparency would net me a lot more money assuming that she would be honest; she's choosing litigation instead of that.

THE COURT: I'm not worried about the effects at this point. I'm just trying to understand the requesting what's there, right?

So, for example, if I were to agree with you, Mr. Hanson, and I say, "Okay. We can do three years of mandatory financial disclosures," right? What I'm trying to understand is how to word that and craft that so that we can all understand what that means so we can identify time frame, and also to avoid any sort of duplicative disclosures pursuant to what's already been done.

MR. HANSON: Sure. I don't need anything that they've already sent me to be sent.

THE COURT: I don't think that you're asking for that. That's what I'm trying to figure out, what has been produced.

MR. HANSON: Sorry. I missed the question. Yes. Whatever has been produced, I don't need to receive those same documents again.

THE COURT: Okay. And there's no concern or claim that what is listed in those certificates of compliance mandatory disclosure you did not receive, right? You agree that what's in there you got?

MR. HANSON: What's in the filings.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HANSON: I would assume that the filings are accurate, but I haven't, you know, looked to make sure that they fit exactly with what was produced.

I'm not trying to be difficult, Your Honor, but I'm not asking for anything that's already been produced.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: But I can't say with certainty that their pleading matches up perfectly with what was produced.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Davis then, I believe, as I understand it, the request is for 12.285 disclosures going back seven years, but with the concession from Mr. Hanson that he understands he may need to compromise on that number back from the date of the filing of the request for mandatory -- what, what?

MR. HANSON: I thought it was the date of filing the Petition for Dissolution. I think it is.

THE COURT: Well I'm asking what your request is.

MR. HANSON: Oh, yes.

THE COURT: So you're saying three years, 12.285 disclosures with three years going back before the date of the filing Petition for Dissolution of Marriage.

MR. HANSON: The original petition, because there was an amended one. But, yes, the original one.

THE COURT: All right. And I have the original petition filed on 1/26/24, and that was filed as a Joint Petition for Dissolution of Marriage with Dependent Children; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. Okay. Mr. Davis, if the request is for three years of 12.285, going back three years before the date of that filing of the petition of 1/26/24, with the caveat that there's no requirement to produce anything that's previously been produced. Is there a response to that?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, Judge. May I have a moment.

THE COURT: Absolutely. Did you want a moment to confer with your client or a moment to review?

MR. DAVIS: No, sir. I just want a moment. Well, my computer, to be honest, with you, sir.

THE COURT: No worries.

MR. DAVIS: So, Judge, we have rules. We have the Florida Family Law Rules of Procedure that we all have to follow. There is no request prior to Dock 22 Request for Production or anything along those lines for anything outside of mandatory disclosure.

Mr. Hanson's motion doesn't ask for three years, seven years, five years. It doesn't ask for that. If he hasn't filed a request for production, then he's going about it procedurally incorrect. And to grant this motion that was filed prior to the filing of any request for production would be a complete deviation from the law. So the Court should deny this motion.

In response to the Court's question, there is a prenuptial agreement that has not yet been set aside. There's a -- we'll call it a post-nup. It's a marital separation agreement that has not yet been set aside. Those issues have to be addressed prior to the Court considering Mr. Hanson's additional discovery request, which this motion doesn't even properly request because there's been no request for production filed prior to the filing of Mr. Hanson's response to motion to compel payments and motion to compel evidence of marital assets and financial information filed February 16th, 2024.

THE COURT: Okay. So, as I understand it, Mr. Davis, you're saying that the -- this motion doesn't properly state what it is that he's requesting as we've tried to flush out in today's hearing, correct? And there are two agreements that you're saying need to be ruled on before even the discovery shall proceed.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir. And there's no request for production or request to produce that was filed prior to the filing of this motion.

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. DAVIS: So if there was a request for production filed and we objected to it and we are having a hearing on whether the objection should be sustained, overruled, what have you, sure. But we're not -- it wasn't -- this -- that's not what happened. And we're not trying anything by consent that was not pled in the four corners of his motion.

THE COURT: Okay. So, I guess, what you're saying is that if he had filed a request for production of mandatory disclosure for this time frame, and then that preceded as it would normally through the course and scope, either a response or an objection, and then that was set for a hearing, that's where we should be procedurally properly today, is that -- is that what you're saying?

MR. DAVIS: That's correct.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I would just add to Mr. Davis' comment about there being rules that there's discovery rules and there's rules of professional conduct, and whether that document strictly complies as a request to produce, I can't make that argument that it applies strictly, but you've got to -- you've got a mess here.

You've got Judge Ayers who did nothing fair the entire time that she was on the case.

MR. DAVIS: That's irrelevant to -- I have to object. It's irrelevant. It doesn't prove or disprove any material fact at issue. Interestingly, when this motion was filed and it was prior to my being retained by Mrs. Hanson, I think all we had had is a case management conference in front of Judge Ayers. So anything that Judge Ayers may or may not have done, not relevant to this motion because it was filed before then.

MR. HANSON: And, again, Your Honor, my request here is clear. I raised an issue over misconduct. I mean, there's information about physical assaults in there where -- the Court has powers in equity where it can look at this and say this person was struggling. And I acknowledge that I was having real struggles with my health then, and the stories remain consistent for two years. This is all he wants. It's time to order something.

So I would respectfully request that the Court uses its powers in equity to award at least three years and consider just how universal is the obstruction has been from Mr. Davis and the Wife.

Every time there's discussion of me getting some records -- even getting them to re-word their certificate of compliance, Judge Ayers wouldn't even have them reword their certificate of compliance and made me waste thousands of dollars and hundreds of hours of legal in trying to get it done. Every decision I've made has been with the goal of getting things efficient and, Your Honor I --

MR. DAVIS: Again, I have to object to relevant. It doesn't go to --

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I was -- I'm still talking.

MR. DAVIS: This is how it works. It doesn't go to prove or disprove any material fact at issue.

THE COURT: All right. I hear the objection. You may proceed, Mr. Hanson. But, once again, I'm really trying to -- I'm trying to narrow down on specific issues so I can check things. Does that make sense? I'm trying to -- I'm trying to move forward. And I, certainly, I've heard your arguments in total with regards to all the moving parts. And I'm not going to disagree with you that there are a lot of moving parts, but I'm trying to ask very specific questions and deal with issues individually at a time.

MR. HANSON: And I understand that, Your Honor, but do you understand my argument that the moving parts are a distraction?

THE COURT: Are a distraction?

MR. HANSON: Are a distraction because there's only two issues: There's the request for information and the attempt to obstruct and conceal it. Every action in this case can be seen through that lens.

And their reaction to the Court considering ordering three years is the same thing.

It's -- and I should also bring up, I've offered to resolve any issue that they want to resolve if they just would show some transparency on the financial end. And that has been a non-starter with them since day one. And I don't know if now is a good time to get into some testimony about the events that led up to this request in May of 2024.

Well, Your Honor, I respect that you want to move through things today. Ultimately, I think it will come down to it's not a perfect request to produce, but it does request relief, and I think that the facts justify it.

So I don't know that me arguing more is going to be productive unless you'd like to hear testimony on it.

THE COURT: I don't know that -- I mean, I'm not sure that any testimony is going to change. I mean, all of these things are just apparently legal arguments. That's with regards to discovery and scope of discovery and what you're asking for.

MR. HANSON: My argument is that the facts are so severe, and that there's been so much unfairness, and that we're here on a guardian ad litem motion.

THE COURT: Well, we haven't gotten to that part yet.

MR. HANSON: I know, Your Honor, but it's just that --

THE COURT: You want to go in order, so...

MR. HANSON: That's just the thing that's holding over my head. Like just the thought of a stranger coming in and bringing their attention to the divorce after we've been good for two years, it just -- it terrifies me. So I come back to that and that I still don't have any discovery to make my argument on that including the video. So there's a lot --

MR. DAVIS: I'm going to object to relevance.

THE COURT: Yeah. We're bleeding into the next -- next things, I think, but as I understand it, your request is for three years of mandatory disclosures going back from the date of the filing of the initial petition, correct?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor, I think that minimum is the appropriate.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Davis, as I understand your argument, you're saying that it was not properly pled in this motion, and there are other pending matters that need to be disposed of before the discovery should be ordered; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: Correct, Your Honor, and the rule -- for some reason I couldn't find it, but I certainly know is 12.350. And, in fact, Mr. Hanson's former counsel did file a request for production on 8/14/24, but that's not relevant to Dock 22. The Request for Production is Dock 38.

MR. HANSON: Which I believe is also set for hearing today.

MR. DAVIS: And we filed an objection to the first Request for Production and Motion for Protective Order, so -- timely, which we filed that on 9/10/24, and that's Dock 41.

MR. HANSON: And we should have that Request to Produce. I don't believe that was ever the subject of an order.

THE COURT: So you reference 12.350, correct, Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. I need to pull up the rule. All right. So with regards to -- I'm sorry. I was covering my mouth when I was speaking, and I apologize. 12.350, Production of Documents and things an entry of inspection for other purposes. "Scope: Any party may request any other party produce and permit. The party making the request or someone acting in the requested party's behalf to inspect and copy of any designated documents including electronically stored information, writing drawings."

And so correct me if I'm wrong, Mr. Davis, but you're saying that the request herein as articulated today, does not comport with this rule, correct?

MR. DAVIS: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. DAVIS: And the motion predates the request for production that his -- Mr. Hanson's former counsel did file on 8/14/24.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. 8/14/24, what was the docket on that again?

MR. DAVIS: One moment, sir.

THE COURT: Oh, no worries. I can find it.

MR. DAVIS: I've got it. It's 38.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor, one way to do this might be to get responses to this request to produce because I don't believe there's ever been an order on this. If that's more acceptable to Mr. Davis and Mrs. Hanson.

MR. DAVIS: Well, that's not set today.

MR. HANSON: You were advised that it was all on her hearings by the Court, I believe.

THE COURT: That request for production seems to be in large part overlapping 12.350, but it seems to be --

MR. DAVIS: That's typical. I acknowledge that's typical.

THE COURT: Now, I do want to hear a little bit more about the arguments with regards to the what you're saying are two -- and when I say, "you're saying," I'm not saying it's incorrect, but the pre -- a prenuptial agreement and post-nuptial agreement, correct?

MR. DAVIS: That's correct, sir.

THE COURT: And am I correct, Mr. Hanson, you are saying that those have been challenged?

MR. HANSON: The pre-marital agreement is completely relevant. The only issue is marital property and the pre-marital agreement doesn't address property. The post-marital agreement there were no disclosures. And that automatically invokes Casto v. Casto and the burden is on the non-disclosing spouse to prove reasonableness, which opens the door for discovery.

THE COURT: And it has been challenged; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: But I don't need to challenge it.

MR. DAVIS: That's not Dock 22.

MR. HANSON: I don't need to challenge it. It's not that --

THE COURT: One second --

MR. HANSON: Once there's no disclosures --

THE COURT: One second, please, Mr. Davis. I promise I'll give you the opportunity to respond.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir. I'm sorry.

MR. HANSON: It's Docket 146. That's got to be on the notice of hearing, but regardless Casto v. Casto doesn't require me to challenge it. I did and I'm risking a couple hundred thousand dollars or more by challenging it, but I want this peace of mind.

THE COURT: Respondent's Motion to Void Post-marital Agreement on Grounds of Duress, Coercion, Fraud and to Supercede Prior Orders on Discovery and Enter an Order Specifically Allowing Subpoenas for Chase and Other Financial Institutions and Ordering the Wife to fully comply with 12.285, Mandatory Disclosures; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: Docket 146, you say?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HANSON: Yes. And I just want to make my point clear is that in Casto v. Casto it doesn't require the motion to void. It's once there is --

MR. DAVIS: Object. I'm not trying this issue by consent.

THE COURT: I understand. Mr. Hanson, I feel like you're making a point that I'm -- I guess, I'm not asking you to make. I think I simply asked the question, was it challenged.

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: Saying you didn't have to is fine, but you did it, right?

MR. HANSON: Right.

THE COURT: So I'm not understanding why you're making that point.

MR. HANSON: I'm just making that point because it further reflects the inappropriate nature of the delays. Judge Ayers told me that -- hinted to me that, you know, you need to file a motion to void it thinking that I wasn't going to be willing to risk all that money to do it. I'm sorry --

THE COURT: I don't know what she was thinking or what you're thinking she was thinking. I don't --

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry, but that's the issue on the post-marital agreement is that there is admittedly no disclosures from wife, and whether the motion to void is there or not, it opens the door for discovery.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: May I respond?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. DAVIS: Mr. Hanson says the pre-marital agreement is not relevant; however -- just lost this. Sorry. Sorry. Just a second.

THE COURT: No worries. Starting on page 6 and --

MR. DAVIS: Going to page 7 of the pre-marital agreement that Mr. Hanson argues is irrelevant to discovery, "The parties mutually agree that all of the earnings, income and financial entitlements resulting from a party's personal services, skill, effort, work, investments, retirement or disability prior to their marriage, together with all of the property acquired or income therefrom shall be the separate property."

MR. HANSON: That doesn't --

MR. DAVIS: And it goes on to state about jointly-owned assets, spousal rights and dissolution, alimony, debts, et cetera.

So, I believe, the pre-marital agreement is also relevant.

MR. HANSON: On its face it's not. He's describing that pre-marital assets and producing income during the marriage stay separate, but income from employment, that is not what it's describing at all.

THE COURT: What's it describing?

MR. HANSON: It's describing if there's something is a pre-marital asset, it's going to remain a personal asset, and if it appreciates or earns money, that would remain a personal asset. It's not -- it was something that was discussed during the pre-marital agreement that we were not going to exempt -- marital assets and property were going to remain marital assets and property.

And I don't believe this argument has been made anywhere. I thought that we all agreed that the pre-marital agreement was irrelevant.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I'm getting -- perhaps I'm getting a little confused because you're saying you want three years of financial information going back before to the date of filing, but that is irrelevant because this agreement doesn't contemplate that.

MR. HANSON: It doesn't contemplate. You're telling me that you read that to read that is marital income? That's income from separate pre-marital assets, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, yeah. What it says here is, "The parties mutually agree that all of the earnings, income and financial entitlements resulting from a party's personal services, skill, effort, work, investments, retirement or disability prior to the marriage together with all the property acquired or income derived therefrom, shall be and remain the separate property of the party to whom the earnings, income, retirement pay or financial entitlements were attributable."

MR. HANSON: Right.

THE COURT: So. That's what it says.

MR. HANSON: But it doesn't say that's marital income, Your Honor. It clearly doesn't -- does not describe -- you can describe marital income in three words. You have to give meaning to every word in there.

When you do that, it talks about preexisting ownership and income from that. It does not talk about marital income.

THE COURT: Okay. And here's what I'm trying to understand. You're saying that -- so, as I read it, and perhaps I'm wrong. I just want -- I want to talk through this so I can understand each party's position, right?

But it says, "The parties mutually agree that all of the earnings, income financials resulting from the party's services, skill, work and investments," right?

MR. HANSON: What is after that investments.

THE COURT: Investments, retirement or disability prior to their marriage.

MR. HANSON: Okay. That's an important clause.

THE COURT: Okay. But what I'm talking about, everything prior to their marriage, right?

MR. DAVIS: I think it says -- the way I read it is if they were disabled prior to the marriage and they had income from, essentially, disability income.

THE COURT: Okay. So the argument is that the -- from your perspective, Mr. Hanson, is that this clause only refers to anything earned before the marriage and anything that was derived from those earnings prior to the marriage.

MR. HANSON: Clearly. And I don't even think this was noticed. I think this was back when Judge Ayers was looking at the initial discovery issues. So I would like to see where this is raised in anything for today because I would need to go back and look at that, but it is very clear that marital income -- there might even be a clause that say marital assets remain marital assets. It's never been a --

THE COURT: But what I'm trying to -- the reason I'm looking at it, Mr. Hanson, is I'm trying to understand the proprietary of the discovery request and whether or not it's reasonably likely to lead to discoverable material or the matters at issue in this case.

MR. HANSON: Right. I would like to just know where this has been placed at issue before the Court.

THE COURT: I was just telling you why I was looking at it.

MR. HANSON: Okay. But if they haven't raised it, but...

MR. DAVIS: I'm happy to answer that actually.

THE COURT: Do you need towels or anything?

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry. I just spilled just a drop of Celsius here. It wasn't my fault. Thank you.

MR. DAVIS: May I continue?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. DAVIS: Where it was raised as an actual issue was when Mr. Hanson's former counsel filed a Request for Production, an actual Request for Production comporting with the rules rather than what we're talking about in Dock 22 on August 14th, which is Dock 38, and then we, I, filed the objection to the Respondent's First Request, which was filed on September 10th, 2024, which is timely under the rules.

Paragraph 3 -- oops, sorry, 4 says, "On or about October 25th, 2016, the parties executed a pre-marital agreement. A true and accurate copy is attached hereto as Exhibit B. And I go on to argue that it calls for a complete waiver of various different things, and I make the argument that's not set for today. So I'm not going to go through it at this time, but when Mr. Hanson says, "I want to know where they made this objection," the answer is the objection was made on September 10th, 2024, roughly a year and a half ago. I was just extending the Courtesy of answering his question.

THE COURT: Attached to that objection is that Request for Production; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: I'm sorry?

THE COURT: I did that again. I put my hand in front of my mouth when I was talking. I'm sorry. And attached that to objection is the Request for Production as previously requested?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir, that's correct. That's Exhibit A.

THE COURT: Gotcha. Okay. Anything else on that matter, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. This had been dealt with -- I'm not able to -- unless the Court wants to take a quick break, I don't have the exact section that I'm looking for, but the pre-marital agreement has been a non-issue for the vast majority of the case, and it certainly does not change the marital assets as being marital assets. Income from employment during the marriage is always marital assets.

THE COURT: When you say, "is always marital assets," do you mean under your prenuptial agreement?

MR. HANSON: Yes. Yes, the prenuptial agreement didn't impact it. And that was the understanding at the time that we talked about --

MR. DAVIS: You can't testify about the understanding at the time of the entry in the agreements. It's parol evidence.

THE COURT: Objection to parol evidence. Any response to that objection?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I was a party to the contract, and I recall that being an issue because I would have preferred that it did separate out marital income.

THE COURT: But, as I understand the parol evidence, there needs to be some finding of ambiguity before we get into that.

MR. DAVIS: Correct.

MR. HANSON: And I don't think there's --

THE COURT: And you're saying there's no ambiguity, so we can't get into that.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry. I'm saying there's no ambiguity?

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HANSON: Correct.

THE COURT: That's my understanding of what you're saying.

MR. HANSON: I don't think that there's ambiguity. If the Court does, then, you know, obviously, that's the only thing that matters.

THE COURT: No, that's not the only thing that matters. I'm just trying to understand where we are, right? So if there's an objection based on parol evidence rule and you'er saying there's no ambiguity, then we cannot get in to that other stuff. We have to look at the face of the agreement, is my understanding. Is your understanding or different?

MR. HANSON: My understanding would be that if there is a dispute as to what the agreement means; in other words, I don't think that there is -- there's any anything is unclear about it. But, you know, if Mr. Davis or the Court suggest that there is something unclear about it, then I think that would open the door for me to be able to discuss it.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HANSON: But, again, Your Honor, we get down into these smaller issues. The bigger issue is that there was -- I'm sorry, Your Honor, I'll let you lead where you want to go next.

THE COURT: Okay. So, Mr. Davis, I certainly understand where you're coming from procedurally, okay, but what I -- my goal, certainly, and as I understand is -- and I want to be careful how I say it because I understand where we are in the case because we're talking about this case specifically and the length of time that things have been pending.

I want to -- I want to start to try to get things moving forward. Okay. And -- but, obviously, I have to protect everyone's rights and due process with regards to all that also. Okay? So I'm not going to preclude any objections, but I'm going to order three years of mandatory disclosures be --

MS. HANSON: Can I ask a question?

THE COURT: Let me finish before you ask your question. I'm not sure if I'm going to answer your question or not, but I'll give you the opportunity to do so. Okay?

So I'm going to order three years of mandatory disclosure going back three years from the date of the filing initial petition on January 26th 2024. Okay.

MR. DAVIS: Despite that not being noticed properly for hearing and there being a prenuptial agreement and a postnuptial agreement, which we respectfully take the position that that's the essential requirement of law.

THE COURT: I understand, Mr. Davis. Let me finish, please.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: That's what I'm going to order at this time. As I said -- as I started to say before, started going and was asked a questions and then interrupted --

MR. DAVIS: I'm sorry I interrupted.

THE COURT: I'm not going to preclude any objections to that. You can make your objections and we'll set that for a hearing specifically. Okay? But what I want to try to do is get timelines moving proceeding forward. Okay? I didn't order this discovery and say you have to produce -- you don't -- I'm not precluding any right to make an objection, all right, and then we'll have to deal with that specifically.

Because as you stated, it wasn't -- those objections aren't specifically stated for today, and that other thing isn't stated for today. And if there is an argument regarding the ambiguity or applicability of the prenuptial agreement, I want to give people the opportunity to hear about that.

But if there is a reading of this document that can be reasonably made to say that moneys earned during the marriage are marital assets, then the discovery is, I think, in balance. And if the argument is that that's not what the agreement says, and that's an objection that's made, we'll hear and deal with that later. Okay?

MR. DAVIS: I understand the Court's ruling.

THE COURT: Okay. And, once again, I appreciate you saying, "I understand." I get where you're coming from. I certainly do.

MR. DAVIS: And that's the Court ruling on Dock 22?

THE COURT: Correct. Mr. Hanson, anything with regard to that?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, just I feel like I'm getting closer, but they're not going to produce anything. They're going to kick the can down the -- further down the road, and I just I -- don't know how much longer it's going to be, but it demonstrated an unflinching intent to conceal this. And leaving these doors open is not going to move this case forward, but that's my concern. I understand your ruling.

THE COURT: I appreciate your concern. Noted. We'll cross those bridges when we get there. 30 days?

MR. DAVIS: 30 days if that's what the Court is ordering.

THE COURT: Okay. And if I didn't say it, I want to be clear, I'm not ordering the production of documents that have previously been produced. However, I would ask in strict compliance that you reference that, you know, documents for this time period were produced pursuant to this certificate of compliance. Does that make sense?

MR. DAVIS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Okay. All right. Next matter I have on the Notice of Hearing is Wife's Motion to Appoint guardian ad litem. Is that what we have, Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: Yes.

THE COURT: Is that what we have, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I believe that is the next one on the list. But, again, Your Honor, I got to bring up the structural conflicts, the missing evidence that 13th Circuit has that is critical to my arguments and is critical to the history of the case and the extent of the misconduct and corruption that's ruled over this case.

It's really difficult to understand how I'm forced to be moving forward with this under these circumstances where the Court is essentially in possession of the last attempt at it. And one thing I hadn't mentioned yet is after the April 4th of 2025 hearing, Judge Ayers requested that Mr. Davis write up a summary of the support for the guardian ad litem.

MR. DAVIS: Actually, a subject of a separation motion that is set for today, so I would ask that we address that in order just like Mr. Hanson has addressed.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I think that -- like I've told you, there is one issue in the case and they bleed together. And Mr. Davis is able to avoid spotlights on his misconduct by getting just really specific and one issue at a time.

You can't see patterns with one issue at a time. You need broader context to understand the extent of the delay, harass, burden and obstruct strategy. And this is the number one harassment mechanism that they've used.

THE COURT: Appointment of the guardian ad litem?

MR. HANSON: Yes, yes, Your Honor. My kids are -- they blocked their school from filling out child wellness forms.

THE COURT: But isn't this getting into an argument for guardian or not?

MR. HANSON: It is, Your Honor. I'm sorry, Your Honor. I didn't sleep at all last night. I'm losing track of my thoughts here.

THE COURT: As I understand it, you are raising the structural argument.

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. I'm sorry if I'm just doing the same thing again, but I just want it to be clear for the record.

THE COURT: Okay. The Court will stand by its prior decision with regards to that.

With regards to the Motion for an Appointment of the Guardian Ad Litem, just as before, I'll allow each party to do an opening and then take testimony and witnesses, if necessary, okay?

Mr. Davis, your motion.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, Your Honor. May it please the Court. There are two minor children at issue. They are elementary-age school children. They're both girls. We certainly acknowledge that 62.132(c)(1) Florida Statutes is a presumption that equal timesharing is the best interest of the children.

Mrs. Hanson's amended petition alleges that it is not in the best interest of the children to have equal timesharing with both parties. That it's in the best interest of the children to have majority timesharing with the mother.

As I've indicated in paragraph 6 of the motion, on May 16th of 2024, Mr. Hanson filed a motion that we just addressed is response to Motion to Compel Payments and Motion to Compel Evidence of Marital Assets and Financial Information at document 22 where he said the following: He has [redacted]

It's paragraph 21. He is undergoing [redacted] that's paragraph 22.

He will soon start daily [redacted] that will increase the time and cost of medical care. That's mental health treatment. That's paragraph 22 as well.

And that he acknowledged that when he previously refused to provide payments for children's expenses, he did it out of anger and frustration. So what we want is a guardian ad litem to and Mr. Hanson vehemently opposed to it even though there are other times that he's alleged that Mrs. Hanson engages in bad parenting and Mrs. Hanson isn't doing the right thing and that he should have majority timesharing even though he hasn't pled it.

So we need a guardian ad litem to look at his mental health records. He has offered to produce those to me. That is true. But I'm not the guardian ad litem. I can't get in there and make assessments.

We need somebody to go in there and make assessments, get the records, talk to his doctors, look at what he's taking for medication, look at what he's, you know, his medical history, any [redacted] that he may or may not be on, his [redacted] Talk to the children, find out what's going on behind the scenes because that's important in some of these cases and make a recommendation to the Court as to what's in the best interest of the children.

The irony of the whole thing, the guardian can come back and say he's a great dad and you should do equal timesharing. That is a feasible thing that could happen. So we want somebody to go and do the investigation. Mr. Hanson wants me to investigate, but I can't testify to the Court.

This is a third-party. Who benefits is the children who's looking out for the children, who's talking about the best interest of the children. I don't represent the children; I represent one of the parties. So me doing an investigation doesn't do us much good. So that's really the thing. Is they're at odds. He has a significant history of mental health according to what he filed himself, and he says I'm shaming him. He's made this argument before, belittling him, but I'm not. I'm simply saying this gentleman raised his mental health as an issue in the case by way of his own pro se filing. So that's why we believe that this case and this children need the guardian ad litem.

There's a substantial history of problems between the parties relating to the children, which I will, you know, bring forth by testimony. And that's where we are. I really think, if the Court is so inclined, that the Motion for Psychological Evaluation be part of the same testimony. And, quite frankly, the timesharing issues and the Motion for Temporary Relief.

If the Court doesn't want it, fair enough, but for judicial economy, I think it's all kind of tied together.

THE COURT: It's my understanding that part of the request encompassed in the motion for an appointment of a guardian ad litem is for the cost to be apportioned entirely to the husband, subject to reallocation; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. And there was not a specific individual listed in the motion as the request; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: No, sir. I have three that I can give the Court.

THE COURT: I'm not asking for that yet.

MR. DAVIS: Right. Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. Opening response, Mr. Hanson, to the Motion to Appoint a Guardian Ad Litem.

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor. And, again, with all due respect, the amount of corruption, dishonesty, gross and cruel behavior that I've encountered the last two years in the family law system is shocking. And I've heard horror stories about guardian ad litems. It's a for-profit system.

I've litigated cases in work comp for 18 years, and I know how hired experts work, and it's not for the good of the party.

It's not for the good of the kids. It's for the good of their wallets. And, Mr. Davis' statement, there's nothing in there to suggest that the kids could be any better than they are, and I don't think that they could be.

So he's saying that it's in their best interest to have a guardian ad litem --

THE COURT: I'm sorry, I was reacting to the comment: "There is nothing in there that the kids couldn't be any better than they are." I'm sorry. I'm just trying to unpack it.

MR. HANSON: What I'm trying to say, Your Honor, is my kids are doing -- they're thriving and excelling in every aspect of life. They don't talk to counselors, they think about the divorce, they don't hear anything negative about their mom from me. They're doing incredibly well.

And that's why Mr. Davis and Mrs. Hanson blocked their teachers from filling out child wellness forms. They don't want information about how well they're doing, and that's pretty gross.

They're here telling you that they want what's in the best of the kids, but they don't want you to hear from the teachers. I don't know how you can have any credibility when you come in and say that, and you don't pursue my records, you use an admission that I made, that was really hard to make because it was the right thing to do for my family, to move things along, to be honest, that I was going through a struggle. You throw that to my face --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I would ask that you address me.

MR. DAVIS: I was about to ask the same thing.

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, that's a pretty serious violation of basic good faith. If he thinks there's a problem with my parenting, he's going to throw something that I said two years ago in my face today and say that's why I need a guardian ad litem. Bury his head in the sand about how well they'e doing, avoid my deposition, avoid my medical records, avoid getting a psych eval.

He wants to corrupt my kids' lives. That's what he's doing. He's bringing in lies and bringing in unnecessary state interventions, strangers, who are going to talk about their futures.

They are on great paths. They're -- I've got to -- actually, I'd like to introduce this now, Your Honor, this is just their past month with me. I put it in the Internet, and had a -- I don't know if you call it a PowerPoint or a PDF. It just shows like their life with me the past month that I would like to introduce.

I'm in a position where I have to prove I'm a good father on some level. And there's not a good way to do it. People don't want to come in here and testify. They don't want to testify on my behalf that I'm a good father, so it's a hard thing to prove it, but, Your Honor, what's the best way to share this -- this slide show.

It was E-mailed to your office in the middle of the night sometime. Is there a way I can -- I've never done this before. You want it on my computer --

THE COURT: Well, I -- right now we're in opening statements.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: So I would ask maybe that we wait until, you know, request for admission of evidence until the parties are sworn in and we take actual testimony.

MR. HANSON: Okay. Okay. On the opening statement, part of it, you can't say that the kids need state intervention without suggesting that they're having any problems.

I don't understand how that argument can even be made to interfere with happy, health kids. Thriving with the 50/50 custody. And it's critical to look at the timeline here, Your Honor.

It perfectly demonstrates their delay of obstruct, harass, conceal strategy. You know, I don't want to repeat the whole thing, Your Honor, but June of 2024 is the stipulated date of production, which I was waiting by the computer. I was -- this is finally going to be over and I'm going to get it --

MR. DAVIS: Object. Talk about discovery on the guardian ad litem motion. It doesn't prove or disprove any material facts at issue.

MR. HANSON: No. Especially, if I can get the video of Judge Ayers and the materials from December -- of December 2024 and January of 2025 --

MR. DAVIS: Also irrelevant.

MR. HANSON: It will absolutely help me to continue to prove. I think I already proved that these are 100 percent retaliatory in nature.

THE COURT: Request for a guardian is retaliatory?

MR. HANSON: 100 percent. She knows that that would be the worst things that I would want for the kids. And she's just able to hang it over my head with no basis other than throwing my own statements from two years ago back in my face. There's nothing else that they're telling you, so there is no basis for needing it.

Any suggestion that I'm less than a great, caring, doting, loving father, is baseless. And the Court should really look at whether there is any evidence that this motion was made in good faith. You'll see based upon the text messages that you're going to see, mid to late 2023, I was having a really hard time, and, then again, in May of 2024.

Our conversations about the kids are normal. They are doing great. 50/50 custody. I'm struggling. I had a hurricane -- and, I'm sorry, Your Honor, I need to review one more fact. So five years probably working on the marriage. There's never a discussion other than 50/50 custody. We knew that --

MR. DAVIS: Objection to relevance.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, it goes to the retaliatory nature of the motion. And I'm going to tell you the timeline of the way they filed things. Always in agreement on 50/50.

October 2nd or 3rd of 2024, Hurricane Helene had just flooded my house. Three days after that, I believe, that they filed an amended petition for dissolution seeking primary custody. I was dealing with flooding and didn't see it.

My lawyers -- I had two lawyers at that time. Neither of them responded to it. And the response was apparently due December 13th of 2024 to this amended petition seeking primary custody --

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Relevance.

THE COURT: Can you please help me understand the relevance.

MR. HANSON: Sure. Sure.

THE COURT: We are needing a lot of time on this hearing, and there is a lot of side departure sometimes that help -- that cause me to lose the thread of where you're going.

MR. HANSON: Please stop me when that happens because I am going somewhere. I promise. I'm having a little trouble getting there as fast as I would like to today, but the point is they filed this motion out of the blue. No problems with the kids. No -- not late for school or missing activities or anything.

THE COURT: I understand that's your perspective.

MR. HANSON: Well, and it also reflected in the text message history that you'll see, but that October 2024 filing for primary custody was their creation of a bargaining chip.

When I talked to Mrs. Hodz after her conference with Mr. Davis, number one, suddenly it went from --

MR. DAVIS: Objection to hearsay and relevance.

THE COURT: I mean, we're in opening now. If this the things that you're going to testify to under oath, should we get to that?

MR. HANSON: I just want to make it clear that this is in the pleadings that Mr. Davis attempted to -- it was through Mrs. Hodz. I didn't speak to Mr. Davis, but Mr. Hodz suggested to --

MR. DAVIS: Objection to hearsay and relevance.

THE COURT: How is that not hearsay?

MR. HANSON: How is whatnot hearsay?

THE COURT: What Mrs. Hodz said to you.

MR. HANSON: The fact that he said it has independent relevance.

THE COURT: It's still hearsay, right?

MR. HANSON: Well, she heard him say that. She's -- I'm getting it directly from the person -- the listener. And there's independent relevance to him -- what she told me is that I would need --

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Hearsay.

THE COURT: Before you get into that, the objection is to you offering hearsay at this point in the hearing.

MR. HANSON: But you have the opportunity to judge my credibility, and I'm telling you what Mrs. Hodz told me.

THE COURT: Well, I understand, but there's still objection to hearsay, right? Like I can assess your credibility and still not allow hearsay.

MR. HANSON: But where is the hearsay, if I'm here --

THE COURT: But you're testifying to out-of-court statement that someone else made.

MR. HANSON: Right.

THE COURT: That's the objection and that's the hearsay that's being objected to.

MR. HANSON: But it has independent relevance. You don't have to -- it's not offered for the truth of the matter asserted at that level of the hearsay analysis.

The fact that there was a conversation about me --

THE COURT: What's it being offered for, then?

MR. HANSON: It's being offered for the fact that it was said, not that what was said was true.

THE COURT: The fact that she said something --

MR. HANSON: Hearsay statement -- hearsay has to be offered to prove the truth of the matter asserted in the statement. It's not offered like that.

It's offered to demonstrate that there was some conversation that connected -- if I just stopped all of the discovery issues, they'd just go back to the 50/50 after the October 25th 2024 filing. And when that didn't work and I said, no, this is the one thing that I want in discovery. That's when December 13th of 2024 comes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: That's when Ayers sets the hearing on one day's notice, and they attack with all the motions, so it's a progressive attack --

MR. DAVIS: This is about the Motion to Withdraw. It's irrelevant.

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. DAVIS: If he wants to have Mrs. Hodz come in and testify, he should have subpoenaed here.

THE COURT: I agree. And I think he's not saying what she testified to anymore, but I understand that timeline, and that's certainly argument.

I understand your argument with regards -- that's my understanding of the use of the term "retaliatory," right?

MR. HANSON: Right. And there's --

THE COURT: Now, what I have to decide is whether or not there's still a good faith basis for the motion or the Court could benefit from it or whatever. I think that -- is there anything else you want to say in opening in response to the motion?

MR. HANSON: I would also like to add that there were communications. As soon as I found the motion or the Amended Petition for Custody, I started contacting Mr. Davis and Mrs. Hanson about what are the concerns about the kids? If you think they are not getting something that they need, let me know. I can fix it. I want to make things better for them.

They never advised me of one thing I was doing wrong with the kids or concerns that they had with the kids.

THE COURT: Okay. Anything else for opening response?

MR. HANSON: Everything else can come out in testimony.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Mr. Davis, first witness.

MR. DAVIS: I'll call Mrs. Hanson.

THE COURT: Mrs. Hanson, please raise your right hand.

MS. HANSON: (Complies.)

THE COURT: You promise to swear to tell truth, the whole truth, nothing but the truth, so help you God?

MS. HANSON: I do.

THE COURT: Mr. Davis, you may proceed.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you. May it please the Court.

SARAH HANSON, called as a witness by the Petitioner, having been first duly sworn on oath, was examined and testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Ma'am, please state your full name.

A Sarah Sorgie, S-O-R-G-I-E; Hanson, H-A-N-S-O-N.

Q Who are you presently married to?

A Christopher Hanson.

Q Do you and Mr. Hanson have any minor children in common?

A Yes.

Q And what are their names and ages?

A [redacted] is eight years old, and [redacted] is six years old.

Q And where do you live?

A 4112 Beeswax, B-E-E-S-W-A-X, Lane, Land O'

Lakes, Florida 34638.

Q And how long have you lived there?

A I moved in there November of 2023, specifically, it was Veteran's Day weekend. I believe Veteran's Day was a Friday.

Q And where does your husband live?

A He lives at [redacted] -- I don't remember the zip anymore.

Q It doesn't matter. He lives in Hillsborough County?

A Yes, Hillsborough County.

Q And did you last live at Mr. Hanson's address when the divorce was filed? Is that the last place -- strike that.

Is that the last place you lived together as husband and wife?

A Yes.

Q All right. Have you and Mr. Hanson mostly abided by a schedule since y'all separated?

A Child swap schedule?

Q Yes, ma'am.

A Is it okay if I stay here or should I go in the chair or does it matter?

THE COURT: I'm fine with each party testifying from the table --

THE WITNESS: Okay. That's fine.

THE COURT: As a witness, you know, you're still not to read from anything or anything like that.

THE WITNESS: Right, Right. I apologize. The child swap schedule?

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Yes, ma'am. What has been -- what's your schedule generally that you've been exercising with Mr. Hanson?

A Currently it is every three nights, so every two and a half days. It's a rotating schedule. And, generally, we usually text each other 12 o'clock, 12:30. If it's a weekend. So, for instance, my third night with the girls is tonight -- today.

And so tomorrow I would text him and say, "Hey, 12:00 or 12:30," and we swap them off of Race Track gas station off of Linebaugh off of 589. And then he'll usually say, you know, 12:00, 12:30.

And then if either child is having fun, and it's a weekend day, one will ask, you know, "Can I get an extra 30 minutes or an hour, you know, we're going to be late," something along those lines.

If a school day, the pickup then is just after school, pick them up in the morning, we drop them off. There is other times I see them. Is that part of --

Q Sure. Go ahead.

A I do make it a point to go have lunch with them at the school on the days that they're with their dad. So, for instance, this past week they were with him Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and I picked them up Wednesday.

So we swap Sunday and Monday then, I go to -- I have lunch with them on that -- that's the routine for the past -- definitely in the past year. Last school year as well I would go have lunch with them.

And then for a period of time I would try and go to the practices; our [redacted] does gymnastics for three hours. Currently, it's three days a week at three hours. I believe last year I would go for the hour -- if it was Chris' time, I would go the hour before he would be there or, yeah, it would usually be the middle hour that I would go to watch her.

That I don't do as often though. Just with time and everything, and she's doing better with everything.

Q What has Mr. Hanson's position been regarding you attending [redacted] gymnastics on his timesharing days?

MR. HANSON: I would just object. It's vague.

THE COURT: Sorry. The objection to what does Mr. Hanson do on his timesharing --

MR. DAVIS: What is his position regarding her attending gymnastics on his timesharing?

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MR. HANSON: And I was just going to ask that he specify as to time frame. Is he talking about two years ago? One year ago.

THE COURT: Okay. I mean, I guess -- yeah, if you could lay -- I mean, I have no idea gymnastics was going on that long.

Are we talking about in the recent past? Historically?

MR. DAVIS: Certainly.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q How long has [redacted] been attending gymnastics?

A Oh, since she was three, four. [redacted] -- she was probably five. [redacted] would have been two or three. We got into it because for [redacted] I had always done a mommy-and-baby thing. We did a Yoga class, and I didn't do that -- with [redacted] I couldn't do that. I had [redacted] And so with [redacted] I looked into gymnastics, so she had been -- [redacted] would have been walking, so she was probably around two or three and [redacted] is two years older and so [redacted] started right around that time, so about four. She was four.

Q Okay. When you and Mr. Hanson separated, did Mr. Hanson have a position regarding whether or not you should or should not attend gymnastics during his timesharing?

A At the time of separation I -- it was not discussed. She -- at that time also [redacted] did soccer, and gymnastics wasn't discussed, but I know for soccer I was asked not to come on his days to watch her at soccer.

Q But Mr. Hanson didn't want you to attend the soccer practices if it was his timesharing day?

A Correct.

Q Did he tell you why?

A He didn't want to be around me, I presume.

Q Did you ever -- did Mr. Hanson ever take a position regarding you attending gymnastics practices during your timesharing day?

A Yes. I started attending more within probably a year ago ongoing because she was struggling with some things, and to support I was going. I received an E-mail -- at the time of the stay, when the stay was entered last August of 2025. After the stay was entered,

I received an E-mail telling me not to go to lunch anymore and that I'm not to go to her -- he knows I'm not seeing her at gymnastics, and I'm not supposed to go to gymnastics on his time either.

I attached it as part of my Motion to Lift the Stay with the Second DCA.

MR. HANSON: I would just ask where is object to hearsay.

THE COURT: The hearsay you're objecting to is her statement regarding an E-mail she received from you?

MR. HANSON: Right. Maybe it's best evidence rule, I get those confused sometimes, but if there is an E-mail, we should see the E-mail, not hear about the E-mail.

MR. DAVIS: We'll she's subject to cross-examination, and his statements are not hearsay.

THE COURT: Agreed. Your statements are not hearsay, and I will certainly allow you to cross-examine on that. Okay?

MR. HANSON: And Best Evidence Rule is overruled too?

THE COURT: I'll allow you to cross-examine asking for that. Okay? So I'm going to overrule it at this time subject to cross. You may proceed, Mr. Davis.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Can I go back and clarify one thing, though, on the child swap schedule? I had testified that the child swap schedule is what we're doing currently.

Just to clarify, at the start of the separation, which would have been November of 2023, it was -- in an effort to attempt to maintain friendly relations, it was more of a constant back and forth, you know, he was working at that time or if he was stressed or something, you know, "Let me know. I'll come and get them." The swap almost became a daily swap, which was really too much change and/or it became, "Hey, I can't have them. I'm really busy this week. Will you take them this week?"

So there was no structure in the very beginning. It started -- 2024 is when it became more structured as to the every three nights, and I think they were still in school, so it would have been spring of 2024. That's an estimate. I just thought I'd clarify that point.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Have there been problems between you and Mr. Hanson regarding the timesharing schedule?

A Yes.

Q And when did that start?

A Well, I mean, problems is kind of broad.

Q Did y'all have disputes regarding the timesharing schedule?

A Yes. I -- I want something more stable. I, you know, it's a rotating -- it's a rotating weekend. The kids don't have -- one parent gets the children for one Friday to Sunday or one Friday to Monday, excuse me.

One full weekend only occurs once a month for each parent because of rotating, so if it's three weeks. So I know it's like, "Okay. This is my last Friday with you. It's going to be three weeks before I get another Friday again" because it's a constant movement with it.

It really creates instability and chaos. I did propose a year -- it had to have been a year ago, I proposed doing every other weekend, and then I had proposed a Wednesday, a set Wednesday for him to have them on Wednesdays -- the kids on Wednesdays.

I mean, obviously, I am trying to get more than 50/50. So I proposed that initially; he said no. And so I proposed something different. I proposed every other weekend and then he also -- he could get every Wednesday, but then Thursdays we would rotate.

So the kids -- the girls then would not be with him Wednesday to a Sunday or with me Wednesday to a Sunday. It would be -- he would have them Wednesday, Thursday, and then I would have them that weekend. And then he would have them Wednesday; I have them Thursday, then he would have them that weekend. Monday and Tuesday would be with me. Those would be the two constant kind of days, the start of the school week.

THE COURT: I understand.

A And then I've been asking for a holiday schedule. We don't have a holiday schedule. The first time when I left in November, I had just moved into the new house, I had three piece of furniture with me. Things were a bit chaotic, so I didn't have them on that Thanksgiving. I was only a couple weeks down.

My sister came to help me. She helped me paint their bedrooms. My big thing was setting up their bedrooms. So she helped me paint their bedrooms and was busy with that. So I said, you know, "You can have them for Thanksgiving."

And then that Christmas, which was our first time being separated. My sister-in-law and brother at that time lived in Alabama. And she had just finished her round of chemo, and I wanted to go visit them for the Christmas holidays because it was going to be the first Christmas. Because normally they came down to us.

And so I had asked, "I'd like to leave the state and take the girls to Alabama." I -- he had -- he said a week was too long. He ultimately agreed to I think four days is what we drove -- we drove up. He had them Christmas Eve and Christmas morning. And that was the compromise. I would be able to leave the state then, and he got them that Christmas morning.

So he -- and my youngest sister, she was down for that time. So the four us drove up then. Christmas day I think we left around 2:00 or 3:00 -- 2:00 in the afternoon, which I don't recommend doing. Everything was closed.

But we drove up to Alabama and got there. I think it was like 8:00 o'clock. There's a time differential with where they're at, so that Christmas we were there. And so then I assumed that following Thanksgiving and Christmas to balance it out, I would have them Christmas morning and Thanksgiving Day; he wouldn't agree to that.

It had to fall, per him, on whatever day the rotation was. If Thanksgiving fell on my day, then I would get them that day. If Christmas falls on that day, then I got them that day; otherwise, he would get them if it fell on his day. Which, to my understanding, it doesn't matter. I guess that would be hearsay.

So that was trying to negotiate that Christmas, that was 2024, that was when he had Attorney Hodz, and Mr. Davis was involved at that point. And I was trying to get them that time. I, ultimately, I did have them that Thanksgiving because it fell on that. That would be last year. No, I had them -- I didn't have them Thanksgiving and I didn't have them Christmas morning.

Again, I didn't have them on those days, from what I recall. I did have them this last Thanksgiving because we played kickball. That would be 2025, so I did have them that Thanksgiving. And then I had them this Christmas morning because it fell on that day. But, again, we're swapping Christmas Day, you know, they open all their gifts, you do all this stuff. And then you play with them and then at 12:30, they're up and leaving.

So, for me, and I think when I read the holiday schedules with what the Court has, it says, you know, I think it's like a week and you swap weeks, something along those lines. So I -- I -- we don't have a holiday schedule. Last Mother's Day I did not return them. It fell on the rotating day. Halfway through the day, it would have been an exchange day because it was a Sunday.

I bought tickets for a magic show at the Straz Center for, I think, it was a four o'clock or five o'clock showing. I don't recall the exact showing time, but it was in the evening and so I said I wasn't giving them back. Mr. Davis was involved in some of those discussions, and I was -- I received harassing texts all throughout the day, and I was accused of kidnapping on Mother's Day.

Q So to be clear, Mr. Hanson was of the position that he should have timesharing with the children on Mother's Day?

MR. HANSON: I object. That's leading.

MR. DAVIS: Clarify.

THE COURT: I think it is clarification, I mean, but I don't know --

MR. DAVIS: I can ask it a different way.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Was Mr. Hanson taking the position that he should have timesharing during Mother's Day of 2025?

A I'm going to change your wording slightly.

Q Okay.

A I mean, yes, he wanted the kids back, which was still in the timesharing. It really came down more, in my opinion, to control and controlling me in the sense of I did not ask -- because I was told I did not ask his permission; therefore, I was in violation.

So, to me, it wasn't so much about necessary -- to me it was more about controlling and me having -- me being submissive to him was my interpretation of the text. But, yes, his position was he should have had the kids back at six o'clock or a certain time.

After the show we went out for pizza, and then he was insisting on having them back that night to staying the night with them, which I didn't agree to because, I mean, school is the next morning, and we were all having a nice time.

It's like I don't think it's unreasonable to just spend a whole day. They were expecting to come back home with me, sleep in their beds and all that. I wouldn't agree to that then, so the next morning I took them to school.

Q Did you have other disputes regarding timesharing?

A Yes. If swaps -- swaps are an issue if -- the swaps, he will not agree to a swap within a particular week. He wants to store up swaps to create days for, you know, eventually he'll have a week stored up of swaps, so if I need to swap a day, it's kind of like, "Okay. No, I'm going to reserve this day, and then I'm going to use it later on for like a vacation period or something like that." There is no set schedule for the vacation period --

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I was a little confused.

THE WITNESS: Sure.

THE COURT: When you said swaps, you're not talking about exchanges, you're talking about --

THE WITNESS: When I have them for a day --

THE COURT: Trading days?

THE WITNESS: Yes. So I have them on a particular day and --

THE COURT: No, I understand now. I just wanted to make sure I was understanding your terminology because sometimes --

MR. DAVIS: I was going to ask her to clarify that because I could tell the Court was --

THE COURT: Sometimes when people say, "swap" they're talking about exchange, the actual exchange.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. DAVIS: I got the sense it wasn't making sense to the Court, so...

THE WITNESS: So by way of example, most -- actually, just recently, a friend -- actually, she's my friend. She's also the gymnastics coach, but we've become friendly. She has two daughters around our daughters ages. They do gymnastics altogether. She was pregnant. She went into labor. I was on-call for her to go pick up her girls while her and her husband were, you know, with the baby because the hospital is actually by my house.

They're 15 minutes from my house, so I went and picked up the kids, but it was a school day. I took her kids to school, and I picked them up after school. [redacted] and [redacted] were at school as well, but that would be a day for Chris to pick them up.

In talking to them, you know, they were like, "Well, are [redacted] and [redacted] going to come?" You know, and I was like --

THE COURT: Talking to them?

THE WITNESS: Excuse me. Talking to mom. The coach is my friend. The mother of the kids I was going to babysit. They're asking if [redacted] and [redacted] were going to come by or if Chris and I could exchange a day so that I could have them -- [redacted] and [redacted] that Friday -- and I would do a sleepover with the four girls.

So I didn't even want to ask, but I did propose it. And I proposed, you know, "Can I, you know, I have them this Friday. I'm watching the two other young girls." I'm not trying to say their names, "And, you know, they can have a slumber party. You can pick them up on Saturday, and you can have them next Wednesday."

His initial objection was, no -- as I recall, you know, the initial objection was, "No, I, you know, it has to be" -- it was a Friday night for Wednesday night. I was like, Well, "Actually, it's spring break." So our girls were on spring break that week, so there was no school Thursday. So, in my mind, it was a fair swap.

Friday night is also usually gymnastics night and Wednesday night is also gymnastics night. So it was going to be an even trade. He wouldn't agree to that. He told me he had plans on Thursday morning so he couldn't agree with that. I asked for another date to be proposed, and the proposal was he would take a day and reserve it for sometime in the summer.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: I'm not agreeable to it, the accumulation of days, because we don't have a set schedule. I think I had originally proposed -- you know, I think it's standard for the Court to do a week of vacation, two weeks of vacation. There is something in there that's standard. We don't have that.

And so -- and we were going to have this hearing, so I was like, "I'm not going to agree to accumulation of days" because then it's like, "Okay. Well, I'm going to be gone for a week and doing something." And also I am challenging the 50/50, so...

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Let's move on.

A Okay. Sorry.

Q Have there been problems relating to your participation in gymnastics competitions?

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that?

A So [redacted] does gymnastics. 2024 was her first competition -- series of competitions, we'll say. It was her first -- competing for the first time. It was our first experience with it.

There was the -- there was a competition that was in Daytona Beach, so it was an overnight hotel stay. All of the team was going to stay in the hotel. All of the parents were going to stay in the hotel. It was a team event. It was a team thing.

I -- he had them for the full weekend, I believe. He didn't get a hotel for Friday night, and [redacted] was a bit distraught about it because a lot of people went up Friday night. The traffic to Daytona is really bad, so that's why they had done that.

But then Friday morning he did ask me -- [redacted] had dance class; so he was like so [redacted] can go the dance class why don't you take [redacted] to gymnastics. I said great. I'm always ready, willing and able to pick the girls up. So I got to -- I got there in the morning and I took her, but I was given the explicit instruction I was not to get a hotel room that would be distracting where the girls would see me. I was instructed that I was not allowed to participate in any of the team events, and then if I did go then he would not go with the girls, so --

Q You're instructed by whom?

A By Chris -- by Mr. Hanson that if I did -- if I was intending to go, then he -- because there was going to be, obviously, there was going to be a team dinner at one of the restaurants. And I was instructed that if I was going to go, then he was not going take the girls and they would go find something else to do.

Q So [redacted] would not be able to participate in the gymnastics competition?

A Not -- she would participate in the competition, but she would not be able to participate in any team events or get-togethers if I was going to be present after the fact.

Q Did he tell you why?

A He -- it's the same -- the kids are doing well; they don't need you there; you're a distraction; it's uncomfortable for both of us to be there at the same time, so I made a point -- I drove back that night. I didn't get a hotel room or anything. There was also --

Q Would you have stayed if Mr. Hanson had not have insisted on that?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Was this problem another year?

A Yes. With the competitions --

Q What year?

A 2025 was -- it was, again, a Daytona competition. I did have them that first night, so I did stay the first night. I took them up to stay that night with them; he did not come up.

I have no problem with him attending anything. I've never told him not to attend something of any of the festivities, but he came up midday the next day. He made it in time before the competition started, but we went up --

THE COURT: You're talking Saturday?

THE WITNESS: Yes. It was -- her competition would have been that Saturday afternoon and we went up Friday night because then they stayed Saturday night.

THE COURT: So Saturday would have been the exchange day?

THE WITNESS: Yes. And it was the exchange day. So -- and, again, there was going to be -- they were actually going to do the same team dinner they did the night before, I believe, but, again, it was the same rules applied. I was not to participate or go to any of the dinners or anything after the competition.

Something that was odd I thought also that trade-off, I remember. He was very insistent that [redacted] -- because [redacted] wasn't in the competition. She was just with me, you know, with us.

He was very specific that she had to be ready for his pickup when he got there, and I was like, "Okay." Mind you, the competition -- the hotel room is here, competition area is here, and there's a street, then there's the parking lot. So everything is right there; I wasn't off premises.

And so I thought it was because he was going to take her to the pool or do something with her. And I walked her out because [redacted] had started her competition or they had gone to do their exercises, and when he got there he had brought the dogs, both of the dogs -- his dogs. And I exchanged [redacted] so [redacted] went over to him. I was like, you know, she can stay; she doesn't have to go, but I thought they were doing something.

He's like, "No. No. She's coming with me." I'm like okay. So [redacted] went with him. They crossed the streets with the dogs. I guess, they checked in and then they came right back. It just stood out to me as very odd and of a controlling kind of nature, the fact that this is his time; she has to go with him at this time as opposed to just letting her go -- and she came over in the competition and sat and colored and it wasn't anything, but that just stood out to me with the pattern of stuff, I guess.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q To be clear, Mr. Hanson's position is if you went to the team dinner that night, he would take the girls and leave?

A Yes. That was my understanding. There is also a -- aside from the competitions banquets, there have been two team award banquets; one in each after the competitions. So January of 2025, actually, I think -- yeah, 2025. And the second one was February of 2026, so this past year. I was not allowed -- the first year I reserved and you had to pay tickets. I paid all the tickets.

Q When you say paid all the tickets, whose tickets?

A I paid Chris' ticket, my ticket and [redacted] ticket to attend the awards banquet for [redacted] through the gym. There is a team chat, of which we are both on, and the coach responded with a question mark. She says, "You know you bought three tickets." I said, "Yes, you know that's fine." And Chris immediately messaged me telling me I'm not to go. Telling me not to go -- I'm okay -- to the banquet and if I wanted to go, he will not go with the kids.

And so I said, "Okay." And so I messaged the coach, I said, "You know, I'm not going to be able to go -- I can't go." And she refunded me my ticket. I said, you know, "I'll keep his." I don't -- well, you know, he hasn't paid me back for those. That's part of my expenses. So I didn't go to the banquet. Excuse me.

And this past year it was the same thing. I didn't deserve this time, but I said, "Are you going to go to the banquet?" And it was, "Yes, if you're not going." But that wasn't the only -- if I wasn't going to go, so I didn't go. And then -- but that also occurred with [redacted] and soccer in August of 2024. [redacted] was in Soccer Shots Saturday mornings, and with the -- sometimes, you know, this happens. Like we don't do the proper exchange with all the equipment. And Chris had -- I remember one time he had the cleats or something, and so he showed up at the practice that was actually for [redacted] It was [redacted] practice that time because she was trying to do Soccer Shots with gymnastics, but -- he showed up and stayed and watched the practice. And that was fine, and we stood on the sidelines and we chatted.

And actually that happened more than once where he would come, which was fine. Then [redacted] was going to have her medal day in August, and I said, "Oh, I'll see you at your medal day," because we had an exchange, probably a Friday or whenever it was. I don't recall, but we exchanged and I said, you know, "I'll see you Saturday because I'll be at your medal day."

And I ended up that night, you know, he got word that I was going to show up, and he said don't, you know, I had to guarantee him I would not show up; otherwise, they would not go to medal day. He said he'd send me pictures. You know, to be frank, I'm not there to take pictures. I'm there to be supportive and, you know, be part of the moment.

So I guaranteed I wouldn't go because he said they would just go to Busch Gardens if I didn't guarantee, and so I didn't go. But that was the start of missing, you know, the little things. Sorry.

Q You need a second?

A No.

Q Has [redacted] in the past had difficulty prior to going to her father's --

MR. HANSON: I'm going to object to that. It's vague, requires speculation and lack of predicate.

THE COURT: Okay. With regards to any speculation, I'll allow the witness to testify with regards to her understanding, and I'll be giving it the weight it deserves with regards to predicate with regards to that.

I do want some things with regards to that. Would you lay the time frame that we're talking. I don't know if we're talking about the beginning of the separation? Yesterday?

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q In 2025 and even earlier, did [redacted] regularly cry before going to Mr. Hanson's?

MR. HANSON: Again, I'm going to object that it's vague, that it implies a connection when there's no necessary connection.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll allow you to cross --

MR. HANSON: Kids cry sometimes. What does it have to do with me.

THE COURT: It's a speaking objection.

MR. HANSON: Sorry.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule the objection. I'll allow you to cross-examine and give it the weight it deserves. I certainly understand kids cry.

THE WITNESS: Can I go further back and answer it?

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Certainly --

A For my -- for time purposes, both girls early on miss their mom, okay, they were four and six at the time of me moving out -- leaving, however, you want to word it.

There was -- there was a big struggle in the adjustment of, you know, "I miss mommy," and a lot of crying that occurred. We would talk -- is it okay if I talk about an incident?

THE COURT: You keep asking me questions. I can't direct your testimony.

THE WITNESS: I think I'm looking to you, but I think I'm trying to talk to -- there was an incident. It was Thanksgiving of 2023 where they were crying on the phone.

We do nightly phone calls. So they were crying on the phone, and I stayed on the phone because they were saying that they missed mommy. And I was trying to help and appease the situation. And they eventually stopped the crying. They went and brushed their teeth, but they wanted me to stay on the phone because they wanted to say goodnight when we came back, so I stayed on the phone.

Then they came back and we said goodnight, and they went to bed, so that was observing the crying of missing mommy. I did then receive a barrage of text messages from Mr. Hanson accusing me of spying, telling me that he was going to cut me off from talking to them on the phone. And that persisted, you know, I wasn't spying. I wasn't -- my kids are crying.

There was then during exchanges, you know, they were so rapid. There's a lot of missing mommy. And there is missing daddy as well, okay. I'm not going to say it's only me they miss. You know, if they had a particularly great time, it goes that way.

Ultimately, as the days progressed, so 2023 to 2024, the actual three-night exchange was proposed by the kids. Okay. That's the reason why I believe Mr. Hanson ultimately agreed to it.

[redacted] expressed, you know, she's the more vocal and opinionated one. So she expressed -- she said, "Well, what about three nights and three days?" And so we came to this compromise of the two and a half.

And in my drop-offs with her, I observe her being very anxious and having a lot of anxiety.

MR. HANSON: Excuse me. I just got to object and move to strike for lack of qualification, speculation, self-serving.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm not taking it as any sort of expert diagnosis or testimony. It's just observations of a mother.

MR. HANSON: I still. I don't see how you can see it as anxiety, but...

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.

THE WITNESS: Her face. I mean --

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Tell the Court what you observed.

A Her face withdrawal. There was a lot of -- on the exchange days become very tense days. To describe -- it's just -- both girls are shorter with each other. I think there's anger involved. I'm not a kid expert. I'll freely admit that, but they are more short-tempered with each other and, you know, it's like, "Listen, you guys," the exchanges themselves are very stressful.

But then the -- you know, I would be told. It's like, "No, you know, we haven't had enough time with you" or "We want to stay with you longer" or something along those lines. Those are the days where I'm not taking them to school and dropping then off.

So, listen, I'm elated. When I pull up and they're excited to see daddy, I feel good, okay. It is a good exchange in my opinion. If there is not either because there is a disagreement -- I don't know why they'er not excited every time, but they just weren't for a good period of time.

At school when I do the exchange at school, and by exchange, I mean I'm dropping them off at school. I'm saying goodbye, but they know I'm not picking then up that day. Particularly, with [redacted] it was, you know, "No. I'm going to miss you." That's kind of how the lunches started. I was like, "Well, I'm going to see you then." You know, "I can't come Tuesday, but, you know, I'll see you Wednesday. Would you like me to bring you some lunch?"

And so that's how the lunches started is "We're going to see each other now, and I'm going to talk to you tonight." But the -- it became more clingy, albeit saying goodbye, saying very hard in the mornings. This occurred for over a year, 2024 into 2025 with the adjustments. And, in my opinion, the adjustments were not really occurring to where they were accepting this shared timing thing that we have.

They weren't adapting, I guess, is what I felt. I felt like [redacted] was very stressed about it. She definitely has more anxieties. And I talk to her all the time. She is more vocal, so both the children are very different. [redacted] is very vocal, but she's also not.

Like she will withdraw. I've worked with her a lot. "You've got" -- you know, "Let's talk about this emotion you're feeling. If you're angry at me, tell me you're angry." And we've had very candid discussions where she even, you know, she expressed herself to me. She said, "I'm not" -- she said, "You're not going to listen to me." I said, "Yes, I will. Just tell me." You know, let me know too, you know, what am I doing wrong.

And she said, you know, one of the things she says she feels like she gets a lot of criticisms. Everyone is telling her the things she's doing wrong. She feels like she's never being told she's doing anything good. I apologized to her and I told her, "Listen, that's on me, then." "Like I need to tell you more that you're doing a good job." And she expressed shock that I had said that.

You know, she's like seven -- like six or seven at this point. I said, "No sweat, you are doing a very good job." You know, because what we were talking about was just doing better on something else that I thought was trivial, but to her it was a big deal. So kids are -- I don't know her world or what she's seeing or thinking, and I'm trying to understand it more with her, and she does express herself more.

[redacted] will not talk. [redacted] bottles everything up emotionally. She gets very angry when she has a tantrum, and if I ask her, "You know, what is bothering you," she will scream, "I don't want to talk about it" and there is no getting through that wall with her, so I don't really know what's going on with her on the inside.

In light of all of this that was occurring, and nothing on the judge -- nothing on you, Your Honor, but I wasn't getting any relief with the Court as to what we could do with the situation or having them assessed.

I did reach out to Mr. Hanson to have them go into counseling. I do feel like they would benefit significantly from counseling. The other thing I did suggest also is because they would say that they missed mommy. And, listen, if they say if they miss daddy, I would always -- excuse me, I'm trying not to say the word always or never, but I would offer like, "Like, do you want to call him right now?" "Do you want me" -- you know, what's going on?

There was a time we were at Elevate -- this is just an example. [redacted] -- we were at Elevate. [redacted] had had a birthday party at Elevate, and then we were at Elevate again, subsequently, and she said she really missed daddy. I said, "Do you want me to invite him?" She said, "yeah." And I texted him to invite him to come and hang out with us. Just to say, "Hey, you know, my sister-in-law is here," which who he knows.

THE COURT: You invited him?

THE WITNESS: I invited him. He didn't come, but, you know, just trying to help them out. I did also want to get them a phone. I wanted them to be able to call --

THE COURT: Sorry. Real quick. You said you had asked dad if the girls could get counseling?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: What was the response?

THE WITNESS: No.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Go on.

THE WITNESS: Well, it was more involved than just a no. It was, "Tell me -- give me the argument as to why. Why do they need it," you know kind of thing.

And there is no getting through, in my experience, there's not really a logical argument I can put forth towards him to change his mind on something. That's my past experience, so the answer was no.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q What do you mean by that?

A I -- we've been married -- we were married -- we went through marriage counseling. If -- this is going to be really hard to try to explain. If Mr. Hanson thinks something, that becomes fact for him. Okay. This is my observation.

There is no convincing him of anything different, at least coming from me. I am branded a liar, I will be -- and then I'm just trying to manipulate facts or I'm accused of gaslighting, whatever it is. And it can be extremely insignificant. An example -- I have several examples, but I'll just talk about a couple one was coming to mind.

I was stopped at a stop light. He had suggested -- this is when we were married, towards the end. He had suggested that the girls -- that -- at one point he suggested that we see the Paw Patrol movie when it came out.

And it had come out, and I was sitting at a stop light. I don't know, bored, and I started looking at my phone, and I pulled up movie times at Paw Patrol, just looking at them. I looked at -- I was looking at opening night. I didn't buy a ticket. I didn't make the suggestion.

I was just looking at opening night. I was curious if a kids movie gets sold out because at AMC, you can reserve seats. So I was curious if it was reserved or not. And he's like, "What are you doing?" I was like, "Oh, I was just looking at Paw Patrol" --

Q Moving forward to get to the point.

A Okay. Sorry. And, ultimately, that became a massive argument and fight. And my explanation of I was just looking at the times; I didn't buy the ticket; I didn't suggest we go. And he told me that it was an attack on him, and there was no convincing otherwise. So this was other thing of me being cruel to him by looking at the movie times.

Q Is it a common occurrence?

A Yes.

Q Is it a common occurrence during the divorce?

A Yes, yes.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry. What was a common occurrence? What's the common occurrence? I don't understand what she's referring back to?

THE COURT: She's saying instances of times when anything that you do not agree with becomes fact in the way that you react to things, is my understanding.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Well, let's go back to [redacted] and [redacted]

THE COURT: Real quick, Mr. Davis. We're at about 12:20 and I do want to give a brief break for lunch.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I'm not asking for extended period of time, but is there -- I don't know how much more direct you have?

MR. DAVIS: A fair amount.

THE COURT: Okay. So why don't we take a break now, if that's okay.

MR. DAVIS: Certainly.

THE COURT: Because we just finished one topic and it sounded like you were going into another topic.

Is that okay, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE WITNESS: I was going to mention one more thing in connection with the counseling. Can I testify to that. That would be much shorter.

THE COURT: Yeah. That will be fine --

THE WITNESS: Just so I can --

THE COURT: Yeah. I want --

THE WITNESS: -- because I don't want to forget.

THE COURT: So I want a clear breaking point, so if it's regarding a prior topic, that's fine.

THE WITNESS: It's just, it's just I was going to point out with the counseling in connection with the kids, I had also asked permission for a phone to give them phones.

THE COURT: Oh, you did mention that you were going to get a phone. Sorry I interrupted you.

THE WITNESS: So, yeah, so I wanted to get them a phone so that they could call. In the current day and age, it's cell phones the parents have for them to have access to me, if they're missing me randomly, they want to call me or text me, they have to go through their father's phone or get permission from him.

Or even with me, unless my phone is sitting there and they grab it and send a message, you know, they don't have -- they just don't have free access to it. And so I had asked him to get them a phone to which was a staunch no. And my argument though because I did try to say, here's a good point, the kids have free access to each parent whenever they're missing us. It does not have to be a smart phone. There are phone that exists that are just for calling or just for texting.

I'm not trying to give my kids access to YouTube and, you know, the Internet, but they can certainly pick up the phone. And another valid point I feel like it was pretty valid was, you know, kids in the 80s and 90s, early 2000s had full access to a divorced parent through a landline. Everyone has phones back then.

I do come from a divorce household. If I needed to call my dad or my dad wanted to call me, I picked up the phone and I called him. Right now, I mean, we're in this advanced age of technology, but I have two kids that don't have access to a phone to get it. And it was a staunch no. And when they went back after the exchange, they were questioned and, you know, searched or whatever about whether I had actually given them one or not. So I thought that was -- so the phone, they don't have a phone.

MR. HANSON: I just have to object to --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: -- speculation on question and search.

THE COURT: Okay. As to what happened when the kids went back to your house?

MR. HANSON: Right. How on earth does she know what happened at my house?

THE COURT: I understand. I'm not -- I will certainly allow you to cross-examine on that. I'm not going to, you know, I get where you're coming from in regards to that.

All right. So coming back at one o'clock enough time for you all?

MR. DAVIS: Certainly.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. I don't want to rush anyone. I, you know, I don't know if anyone has any dietary needs or anything like that, so I'm proposing that if there is no objection, then I'll come back at one o'clock. Thank you.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry, Your Honor, can I leave the stuff here?

THE COURT: Yes. Please take whatever you want with you because I want to secure the Courtroom so there aren't any allegations of someone going through other people's stuff. Okay.

So whatever you leave in here, the Courtroom will be locked, but take whatever you want to take with you. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Yes, sir.

(WHEREUPON, a luncheon recess was taken at 12:22 p.m. through 1:05 p.m.)

THE COURT: All right. Back on the record. Are we ready to proceed?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I believe you were in your direct on your first witness. Mrs. Hanson, correct?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q As a result of some of the difficulties that [redacted] was having with respect to exchanges, did you get her involved in some type of counseling?

A I did.

Q And what did you do?

A The girls go to [redacted] [redacted] School. They've been going there since they were two, both of them. Well, the two-year-old class. [redacted] was three.

There is somebody who had put out pamphlets for kids with anxiety issues. Biblical -- she's a biblical counselor. She's with Heart and Song Counseling, and I reached out to her.

I told her how we were going through a divorce and had gotten pretty contentious, and I felt it was negatively impacting the -- my daughters more so -- I think it's -- I would like both to have counseling.

[redacted] was in speech, and I can't afford her to be in counseling. I just can't afford it with paying her speech. I explained to her the situation, and she said she would meet with [redacted] And so I'm paying for it, I haven't asked for reimbursement of it, and it's -- I try to do twice a month with her meeting with this woman and so I put her in with her.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, this is the first I'm hearing of this, and I have to strenuously object.

THE COURT: Object to hearing about it or object to what?

MR. HANSON: Object to the fact that she's taking actions on my children due to this Court's delays in misconduct and bias and corruption against their interest.

THE COURT: Object -- I'm sorry. Go ahead. I apologize.

MR. HANSON: She's -- she's focusing the kids' attention on the divorce for her own personal, selfish, greedy motives. There's no need for these kids to be in counseling. I talked to her teachers about it. They are happy, healthy kids. It serves her and her corruptive, greedy motives for her to put them in counseling, and it's appalling.

I'm the father of those kids. I'm there half the time, and it's absolutely appalling that she's making unilateral decisions about their health without me.

THE COURT: Okay. So, as I understand, you're objecting to, I guess, it's ore tenus motion to stop the kids from going to counseling; is that --

MR. HANSON: No, for a recess, Your Honor. There are so many problems with the proceedings in here right now. That -- I don't want to go over them again because I understand that you're intent on proceeding, but I deserve some findings of fact in terms of -- do you agree that the Ayers' video is relevant to the issues today, or is the Court's position it's just not relevant.

THE COURT: Well, we've already handled this issue. You're re-raising it?

MR. HANSON: But you haven't -- you haven't said what the facts are. You avoid the facts to do what you want to put things off. But the facts are -- it's your responsibility to find facts and to put them in an order so that I can get them appealed.

It's a problem if we just avoid them, and --

THE COURT: It may be -- and I'm not be flip about that, okay. My point is that you've raised this before; I've already ruled on it --

MR. HANSON: But you haven't. You haven't found any facts on it. You avoid it. You don't rule on it. You just say I'm going to ignore it.

THE COURT: I can make the ruling without findings of facts, and if the Second DCA says I need to find facts, then I'll do so.

MR. HANSON: You're harming our family.

THE COURT: I apologize. I'm sorry you feel that way --

MR. HANSON: It's obstructive at this point.

THE COURT: Is there anything else?

MR. HANSON: I would like a recess. That is extremity upsetting news to me.

THE COURT: How long?

MR. HANSON: A week? Two weeks?

THE COURT: The Court: Denied.

MR. HANSON: Okay. Well, Your Honor, do you understand why I'm upset.

THE COURT: I do.

MR. HANSON: I'm trying to protect my kids from --

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. HANSON: -- focusing their attention on this ugliness. And she unilaterally did that without the Court's involvement, without my involvement. And it seems like the Court will just excuse it like they do everything on Mr. Davis and Mr. Hanson's side.

And it's just getting really hard to sit through such a joke of a process where you're not going to order them to do anything. You didn't order them to do anything on the Request to Produce.

They're just going to delay it more, and you won't even say whether the video is relevant. You just hide from the fact that the circuit is hiding critical evidence in the case. And I don't really understand how I can be trapped in such a circumstance when I'm consistent and forthcoming for two years enduring this, and it just seems like there is no end.

So I think that that comment alone and that development of what I tried to avoid for two years is happening without the Court involvement, without my involvement, despite the active litigation for two years. I would hope the Court sees a problem with that too.

MR. DAVIS: We couldn't involve the Court because Mr. Hanson keeps kicking the can down the road one way or the other. This is the first time we've been able to be in court on substantive motion regarding the children in slightly over a year, and hearing that it was slightly over a year ago, Judge Ayers couldn't rule on it because he filed a second motion to squash.

MR. HANSON: Actually, Judge Ayers couldn't rule because you refused to put anything in writing, so it was impossible to swear a guardian ad litem. And that's in the record. You were asked to do it; I filed a Motion to Compel you to do it --

MR. DAVIS: And that's been resolved by Judge Ayers.

MR. HANSON: And she let you hide from it. She let you continue --

MR. DAVIS: Actually, that's your assumption, Mr. Hanson. That's why we're here on a Motion for Psychological Evaluation --

MR. HANSON: That's because the 13th Circuit is hiding records --

THE BAILIFF: Folks.

THE COURT: Right. Mr. Hanson, I'm going to ask you to address me again. Okay?

MR. HANSON: You're going to ask me to do what?

THE COURT: To address me, not address Mr. Davis.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I hope you can appreciate what's going on here to some extent, just as a human, have some understanding that --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, you've objected following an answer to a question. I'm trying --

MR. HANSON: Well, it's not just a question, it's new information harmful to my kids.

THE COURT: I'm trying to explain where I am, and I want to give you the opportunity to talk, which is why I stopped when you interrupted me. Okay.

And I hope you understand that when I'm trying to recite where I am, and you're saying that it's not just an answer to a question. I'm not saying it's everything to you or to her, okay, I'm just telling you where I am. Okay.

There was testimony that came out; you've objected to that testimony. And I'm trying to understand what legal objection you have or what request you have. You requested a recess of a week or two weeks, which I denied.

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, it's not just an objection to the testimony, it's an objection to active medical engagement with my kids that I knew nothing about until right now --

THE COURT: I understand. That's what the testimony is saying to you. I get that.

MR. HANSON: But it's more than testimony. It's the kids are involved in invasive treatment that I'm not involved with. And isn't there a requirement as the agreement that we had as 50/50 that these things have to be discussed with me and approved with me?

THE COURT: I don't know if you're asking me the question. I'm not -- I'm not answering those questions now. So that's why I'm asking is this an ore tenus motion or what is your request? And the only thing I've heard you say is a recess of a week or two weeks, which I've denied.

MR. HANSON: Okay. I guess, Your Honor, I just have to suffer through it and keep fighting.

THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the legal objection or the request right now? That's where I'm at.

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor, this is so new to me that I don't even understand where I need to go to research it exactly, but it's my understanding that it's a problem that in a contentious divorce one party unilaterally, without discussing with the other party, is pushing the kids into treatment.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I'm not agreeing or disagreeing with your understanding. What I'm asking is what you want. What is the request of the Court.

MR. HANSON: I would like some time to be able to research what my options are.

THE COURT: Okay. And I'm denying that at this time as far as a recess from these hearings for you to do research on that.

MR. HANSON: And it would be helpful for you if you get through this hearing today while still hiding the video of Judge Ayers.

THE COURT: Why would that be helpful for me?

MR. HANSON: To get through this so then the hearing is over, and then Judge Ayers, the video of her misconduct, sort of gets sweeped a little father under the rug.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Is your request for a break so that we don't finish this hearing or so you can do research on this issue?

MR. HANSON: So I can do research on this issue, but what the Court is doing and ignore the structural conflict in acting out the personal interest, the conflict against fairness is a major problem independently.

THE COURT: I understand that's your position. It's the third time you've raised the structural argument. I'm going to stay with my decision on that --

MR. HANSON: And you're going to continue to refrain on commenting on whether the video is relevant.

THE COURT: I'm not changing or going back on anything I've done so far with regard to that issue. Okay?

MR. HANSON: So you don't just don't have an opinion on whether it's relevant?

THE COURT: I am not giving an opinion on it at this point.

MR. HANSON: And you're not going to watch video?

THE COURT: I didn't say that. But, Mr. Hanson, we moved passed that issue.

Mr. Davis, you may proceed.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q What was your intention in getting counseling for [redacted]

A I didn't know how to address her anxieties anymore. I didn't know what to say, and I've been wanting -- I wanted to get them help. I just want her to have someone to talk to. The person is not a mental -- she's not a mental health counselor. It's, I believe, her title is a biblical counselor. It's a Christian-based school, and so they meet -- I don't know what they talk about. I don't have updates. I don't get reports. It's nothing like that.

It's someone for [redacted] to talk to in a safe setting so she can get proper guidance on anything she has stress over. It can be anything, it can be her friends, it can be if she's bothered with me, if she's bothered with her dad. It can be anything.

My -- I never told her to hide it, okay, I just want to put that out there, but I told her she didn't have to talk about it with anybody, that she was seeing somebody. My biggest fear right now in relaying this is that something is going to happen or she's going to be questioned about it or something bad is going to happen or the school is going to be attacked or this counselor is going to be attacked.

I just wanted to get her help, and I knew it would come out eventually, but there was no animosity in doing it. I'm trying to help her, and she has helped. It's benefited her greatly on the days that she's met with her and she -- we have really good goodbyes. That anxiety that is there is not there as often.

She's doing much better since she started seeing her. And, again, it's not consistent. It's once or twice a month. And sometimes I schedule it, and she's not available or she doesn't make it, but it has been beneficial to her.

THE COURT: Is there an incident where [redacted] actually had to actually care for [redacted] and put her to bed during Mr. Hanson's timesharing.

A Yeah.

Q Can you tell the Court about that?

A It was during the nightly phone calls; they were at a hotel.

Q Why were they at the hotel?

A The house, my understanding, was being remodeled, so they were spending time at hotels while the house was being remodeled. I don't know which hotel they were at. I remember it was late. It was after 9 o'clock when they called.

Q What time is her bedtime?

A On a weekday, the goal is 8:30 -- between 8:30 and 9:00 just because we get home from gymnastics late, both houses do, but on a weekend, I mean, 9 o'clock;

9:00, 9:30 is probably the norm just based off timing and kids want to have a little more fun at night, so it's not -- it used to be 8:00, 8:30, but it used --

Q Okay. What happened next?

A She had called, they had called. It's a video call when we talk to them. And on the video call I was talking to her and Chris was not -- he was in the room, but he was on the bed. And I don't know if -- I don't know if he was passed out. I don't know if he was sleeping or what happened, but on the phone -- I stayed with them on the phone the entire time.

And she went to show Chris that her hairbrush was cleaned out. She was like, "I cleaned out my hairbrush," and he grunted and that was it. And then she preceded to put [redacted] to bed. She read her her bedtime story. I stayed on the phone because they asked me, "Can you stay on the phone?" I said, "absolutely."

They stayed on the phone and she put her little sister to bed and they walked around and I said, you know, "I'm going to stay on the phone with you until you're asleep or in bed." And they walked around and turned all the lights off in the hotel room, and then they went into the bed. And Chris didn't make a sound the entire time other than that grunting when she pointed out the hairbrush.

And I was distraught after the call because I didn't know where even what hotel they were in, and she would have been 7 or 8. Well, she's 8 now. It would have been the summer of -- after all the hurricanes, summer of 2025 when that happened.

Q Does Mr. Hanson have a history of alcohol use?

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A All throughout dating, he drank heavily. We met in 2009.

Q Let's talk about more currently.

A Currently he drank heavily during [redacted] first year of birth. He did put it aside. He didn't go to A.A. or anything, but I know the girls know what a happy hour is, and I don't -- I'm not there currently, so I don't know if he's back to drinking heavily or if he's drinking when they're not around.

I know he'll go on dates so, you know, I know there's drinking involved, but I don't know to the extent at this point, but there is a past of heavy drinking of straight vodka.

Q Does Mr. Hanson have a history of [redacted] use?

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A He [redacted] He [redacted] while we were together. Even recently for the separation for his back, really bad, [redacted] He is a [redacted] but he's been [redacted] based on recommendations of doctors and what not. I know he'll get [redacted] but [redacted] to subside.

And I know last -- after the hearing last April during the trade, he had really red eyes and I don't know why.

Q That caused you a concern?

A Yes.

Q Does Mr. Hanson have a history of using prescription [redacted]

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A Yes. He uses [redacted] --

MR. HANSON: I need to object. They can have all the medical records. They were offered releases. This is speculative nonsense, hiding their heads in sand as to reality and then testifying about stuff they don't know.

THE COURT: So your legal objection is speculation?

MR. HANSON: Speculation and best evidence and argumentative. It's intentional ignorance for the opportunity to slander.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: Interestingly, Mr. Hanson offers these records, but never provides them. If he intends to provide them, he can just send them on over, but he didn't.

And it goes to circle back to earlier and he said that's why we need a guardian ad litem to review -- a neutral third party, not me. A neutral third party.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to overrule the objection at this time. You may proceed.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q I'm sorry. Tell the Court about Mr. Hanson's [redacted]

MR. HANSON: I'm going to object. This is speculation.

THE COURT: That's the same objection because you said speculation before.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I don't know. That was my objection. I'm sorry it was made again.

THE COURT: Okay. Same ruling.

Overruled. You may proceed.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Go ahead.

A No, he uses -- I mean, he has to use the medication for his [redacted]

Q Does Mr. Hanson have a history of anger management issues when you were together?

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A He gets very angry over things. He's very -- he stays calm, generally, I mean, even during the first hour, I felt he was very calm. To me, that's him being calm, but anything can set him off to be angry. And it can be something that you would perceive -- or that I always perceived as, you know, "I don't know why you're so upset with me right now?" So -- and then just loses control over the anger.

I don't know how else to describe it. I've never been hit. I'm not saying that he physically hit me. He has hit walls, but it's -- it can be small. The movie -- the Paw Patrol movie is the example I gave earlier. That's one of them of just getting, you know, just belligerent over that, yelling and screaming.

Listen, fights happen. I'm not saying that I'm a saint and we've never fought and I've never yelled, but it's more about the anger over what it is and the loss of control that occurs thereafter.

Q Have you observed Mr. Hanson become angry and lose control with your daughters?

A When we were together, the girls would only stay with him if he gave the okay. So if mentally and physically he was well enough on his own assessment, for example, I was going to the grocery store. I was like, "Hey, can both girls stay?" He was like, "No, take them both today." Either, "My back is bothering me today or I'm not in the mood" or something along those lines.

That was when we were together. After leaving, I received -- I have received text messages from him extremity irate for things. I mean, part of the anger management blows up on the text messages for me --

MR. HANSON: Object. Again, can I see the text messages?

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: Legal objection is best evidence?

MR. HANSON: Best evidence. Hearsay. If she's got text messages, let's look at those.

THE COURT: I understand. And as, again, with the prior time you objected regarding this, I'll allow the testimony. Certainly, you can cross-examine on this.

I don't believe it's hearsay if they're talking about communications between the parties.

MR. HANSON: But I -- she's implying that there's a record of it. How am I going to disprove that there's a record? I can't go through text messages and disprove it.

THE COURT: How to craft your cross?

MR. HANSON: No. I'm asking you to hold them to the Rules of Evidence. If she's going text -- if she's going to say that there is a text message, then she should produce the text message.

THE COURT: I heard you say that before, and my interpretation of your objection and the Rules of Evidence is such that I'm overruling that objection. Like I said, you can cross-examine her about it. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: All right. You may proceed, Mr. Davis.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q I'm asking you if there is a history of the angry text messages; I'm not asking you about one specific.

A Yes.

Q There is a history?

A Yes.

Q Have you seen him get angry with the girls?

A Yes. And one of my reasons for referencing the text messages is he wanted to start spanking them and so he had texted me about spanking them, saying that they were dishonest, weak. I have -- it's a quote somewhere, and I can't remember the exact quote. And he wanted to start spanking them. And I said, "absolutely not."

I understand spanking is a form of discipline for different parents and different kids. Our girls have never been hit, and I think it would absolutely demolish them if something like that would happen. And when you have anger management issues, you're not spanking for the appropriate reasons, in my opinion, and in my experience, you're hitting just because of something else that you're frustrated about, and so I'm very much against that.

And, yes, and he has, you know, in my experience with the girls, I mean, it's like I've gotten messages where, you know, "They're being ridiculous; take them." Before a tea party -- we have tea parties. Last year before the tea party, it was supposed to be a trade day, so I would get them before the tea party started.

I was getting my nails done and they came running through the back. I got messages from him with him telling me how terrible they were, and he's just going to drop them off now. So things of that nature, and that's not the only time it's occurred.

Q Was there a time when Mr. Hanson got angry at [redacted] and guilted her about her not attending [redacted] dance competition?

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that and when it was.

A Okay.

Q And when it was.

A It was -- it wasn't her last competition of 2025, but it was towards the end or the middle of one of her competitions --

Q What month?

A It would be fall of 2025. I'm going to estimate and say -- oh, no it was October. I know when it was. It was October of 2025. Either late October or beginning of November, and I know that because [redacted] had --

Q What happened?

A Sorry. [redacted] had -- I informed him I was not going to bring [redacted] to the competition -- to [redacted] competition.

Q It was your timesharing?

A It was my timesharing day.

Q And what was [redacted] doing?

A [redacted] was playing with her cousins.

Q At your house?

A At my house. They were playing Legos. The competition is about hour and a half away to two hours. It was in Winter Haven and it was at night. It was like 6 o'clock, in the evening, 4 o'clock, 5 o'clock. We weren't going to get home until late.

So I texted him to let him know, "Hey, I'm not" -- you know, "Do you have any objection?" I don't think I had asked for it, but I wasn't going to bring [redacted] And the response -- my initial text I got said, "Yes, that's fine." You know, like, let her know that his -- Claire, who is his girlfriend, and her daughter would be coming. And so I proceeded to tell [redacted] that she wouldn't be coming.

Q Is that what [redacted] wanted to do is stay home?

A Oh, yeah. I mean, she'd rather play with her cousin than go to sit for an hour in the car -- sit for two hours in a car. I mean, she's a kid. And so she had fun with her cousins, but my phone blew up.

He was furious that I wasn't bringing her to the competition, that he offered to babysit if I needed to babysitter, which I didn't. I was like, "I don't need a babysitter." This is just something that will be in her best interest is to stay and play with her cousins, and so I didn't bring her.

And then that night when they were talking on the phone, I was -- I overheard the discussion where he told her how sad it was and it was such a sad day because she didn't go to the competition. And because she decided not to go to the competition, everyone was super sad.

And at the end of the call -- and I did interpret it as he had been drinking that -- during -- before that call, and that's my interpretation and --

Q Did he appear to be trying to guilt her?

A Yes. 100 percent. At the end of the call when she was saying goodbye she was all excited to talk about her day. She was, like, "Well, can I tell you about my day? You know, I had fun." And it broke my heart because it was clear -- he was, like, "Okay. Fine go." Like it was all about how he felt, not about how she felt, and it crushed me.

Then I end up having lunch -- I had lunch that week after the fact, and then she told me that she won't miss anymore of [redacted] competition. And I said why, and she said just -- "I won't miss them." She wouldn't tell me why.

And I said, "Sweetie, it was my decision. It was my decision to not bring you to the competition, and I wanted you to stay and have fun with your cousins," so I can take the weight off of her because it was clear that she was sad about it. And so I felt like she had been drastically guilted for not going, even though it wasn't her decision.

Q Does Mr. Hanson have a history of [redacted]

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A He doesn't sleep. He doesn't sleep. It's -- listen, I understand it's an issue and it's something that happens, but it impacts your moods if you don't sleep. Living with him -- me living with him, I mean, I've known him or 18, 17 years. He does not sleep well, and then sometimes it will hit him, and he will crash.

But the -- not sleeping directly -- I'm not a medical professional, but I know from experience and just from life and a lay person's perspective, you have to sleep or it messes with your elations. But, no, he does have [redacted]

Q Does Mr. Hanson have a history of [redacted]

A Yes.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A He has expressed to me his own [redacted] I don't understand [redacted] I don't understand it. The [redacted] What's it called? The [redacted] I believe, he went for treatments. That was a facility I had looked into because part of the fighting in the marriage was he kept accusing me of not being supportive, so I found this place that wasn't drugs.

I think it's [redacted] that they use, so we went to the counsel session for that. And he disclosed that he has [redacted] that he's dealt with since at least college, from what I recall. And that he doesn't like [redacted] because he doesn't like the way it makes him feel.

And they said that, you know, this would be a great substitution for it. I will point out that within a week after that, he went off on me saying I was only trying to [redacted] and I was still not supportive. And then I learned after the separation, I guess, he started doing the treatment, but I don't know how they turned out or what happened with them.

Q Is there a time in the past when Mr. Hanson intentionally left you and the children stranded out of state?

A Yes.

Q When was that, ma'am?

A It was August of 2023. I was --

Q Take a breath. Start when you're ready.

A We were in Michigan. He had gone up. He had driven up there with the dogs. It was the second week of -- it was the second week of the girl's school in August. They start mid-August -- or, no, I think they started second week of August, so probably the third week of August I was asked to fly up there to visit.

It was kind of a last-ditch effort, I guess to save the marriage because he had stopped the counseling at the point. And I agreed to go, and I went with the girls. And the plan was I would fly up, and then we would ride together because he had the dog.

So the four of us, dog counted -- no, the four of us -- five with the dog -- would drive to Kentucky, and then take a plane from Kentucky back to Florida. And in -- I -- the night before we were going to leave, the girls were staying the night at their cousin's house, and we had eaten tacos at someplace, and I wasn't feeling well after a drive back from his aunt's.

His relatives all live up there. It was a winding road and I have extremely bad motion sickness, especially when someone else is driving, and I wasn't feeling well. I was working that night -- just with my job I had to work.

And so it was after 11:00, and he came to -- he wanted to engage in intercourse and I farted. And when I farted, it was involuntarily. I didn't do it intentionally, but he flipped out and about how disgusting I was and how embarrassed he was.

I don't know why he was embarrassed. We were the only two in the room, but, I guess, he was relaying everything to his family. I don't know. But he went off. I buried my head and went to bed.

The next morning he woke up still lit about how horrible a human being I am and told me I had to get a rental car and get out of the hotel, and I said I wouldn't leave my kids.

And then by, I think, by 1 o'clock the rental car was ready, and he took me in and the girls to the rental car. And I had to drive across two states I didn't know. I threw up in Indiana because I was still sick from the night before, and then we boarded the plane and came home, and that was August of 2023.

Q Is there a time in February of '24 when Mr. Hanson made you leave [redacted] singing lesson?

A Oh, yeah.

Q Tell the Court about that.

A So 2024 was still when I was trying -- I thought we were being friends after I had moved out because I had moved out November, 2023. And so the singing -- she was taking singing lessons, and it was near my house. We were going to exchange at the singing place -- the lesson. I had told the girls that, you know, I would stay and listen.

And as soon as he walked up and saw and said that I was going to listen, I'm like, "Oh, mommy is going to stay." I got the look. The mean eyes. That's what one of -- that's -- okay. I got the look. And I knew I wasn't to stay, and so I departed and I left.

Q Okay. Even though you told the girls you were going to stay?

A Yeah. I told them they was a change of plans and I forgot I had to do something because he made it clear that I was not to go in the room. That's why I left.

Q Was there a time in April of '24, when Mr. Hanson would refuse to let you pick the girls up midday when they didn't have school?

A April, 2024?

Q Let me ask you this --

A There was in April -- what I recall of April of 2024 was he was supposed to go to a dinner. I was supposed to babysit for them, again, still trying to work through stuff. A friend of his was getting married. I believe it was April of 2024. He was supposed to go to dinner with all the guys because he was in the wedding party.

He proposed that I get back together and dismiss this divorce proceeding; I wouldn't do it. I said no. And the reaction was that -- it wasn't good. Ultimately, he said, "You're not going to watching the kids tonight." Like, "You're not going to babysit for me." I was, like, "What are you doing with them. Are they going to be with a stranger?" Like, "What's going to happen?" My understanding is that he, ultimately, took him to the dinner with him and then brought them back home.

Q So tell the Court just generally --

MR. HANSON: I'm going to move to strike that. What does that imply, going on and on.

THE COURT: I don't take anything by it. I'm not going that make that a part of the ruling. I'm, certainly, not going to make any ruling based on that comment on some amorphous statement.

Sorry. You can proceed, Mr. Davis.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Tell the Court of kind of a summary of why you believe having a guardian ad litem appointed is in the best interest of your girls.

A I know what goes on inside the house.

Q What do you mean by that?

A I've lived with Mr. Hanson, and I know that there's a private life and there's a public life. It's not just directed at me, okay. It -- I don't want it to think that way. It's the totality of just everything he's dealing with, you know, if it's a job, if it's stress, if it's something, you know, anything.

I have -- I have the unique understanding of what goes on inside that house. Nobody else has that, okay. Anybody outside sees the -- I don't know if it's the persona or sees what the public image he wants them to see.

I don't think in family law -- and this is just my own thing -- I think that everyone goes through -- I think divorce is a relatively common thing. I think, you know, divorce lawyers see a lot of the same stuff. I think judges see a lot of the same stuff.

And I don't want it to be perceived as I'm just trying to get custody. I'm not trying to get back at him. I don't have anything like that. I don't care, okay, I want a divorce. I want my kids to be safe, happy and healthy.

But as little kids they don't know how to grapple with some of the things that I think that they witness, that I know that they probably do witness on a day-to-day basis. And I believe generally that a guardian ad litem can come in and assess the situation.

If the guardian ad litem says 50/50, that's fine, then let them say 50/50. But for an obscure legislature, judge, or lawyer or someone else to come in and say it's absolutely 50/50 here when they've never been inside that house, and they don't know what goes on in that house.

And I know the spouse who may be perceived as, you know -- well, I don't know, I mean, apparently, it's vengeance. I mean, he said, you know, it's all out of vengeance. It's not. This has been my top priority is I'm concerned over my kids.

After leaving and having a self of calmness and peace that I never had in the house, I'm like,

"Something's wrong." Okay. I finally was at a place where I know that it's not, it's not normal what's going on in that house. And I think a guardian ad litem can come in and assess that.

I am not -- I'm not saying that he never sees his kids. I don't believe in that. Okay. I have siblings. I have a relationship with my dad, okay. I have siblings who never met their fathers. In their 20s, they went and found them. I think it's very important that kids, adults, people, as you're born here have a relationship with both parents.

I am genuine on that, and that's based off of my own -- what my siblings I know went through, okay. So I'm not trying to say that, but I do think a guardian ad litem can assess and get a different view point to educate the Court or as to whether 50/50 is proper in this situation.

And, again, if she comes back and says, "It should be 60/50." Okay. If she comes and says, "No, 50/50 is," that's fine. But when my kids turn 18 or when they turn 20 and this is all gone. This is all done -- hopefully, hopefully this year, but maybe next -- but once this is all gone and now they're left in that house.

And, let's say, you don't award the guardian ad litem, hypothetically, let's say that you don't, and then you enter an order now we're stuck with that 50/50. If they come back to me in their 20s and say, "Mom, didn't you -- you left," excuse me, "You left. Why didn't you come back" or "Why didn't you help us," I can say with certainty, "I tried." Okay.

And I think the guardian ad litem is my best way of presenting to the Court why it shouldn't it be 50/50. I mean, my testimony is not to try to say he's a terrible father, he shouldn't be around his kids. That's not my point. I just -- I want someone -- there's enough in there I think that someone should come in and assess whether it's proper.

I got out, and I have to give them the lifeline, and this is the only lifeline -- this is the only lifeline I know to give them through this process. So that's I didn't want a guardian ad litem.

THE COURT: Okay. Has Mr. Hanson gone so far as to say that he can't co-parent with you with the discovery issues pending in the divorce?

A Yes. He said that multiple times. He's also refused flat out to pay. We had agreed to pay 50 percent of the expenses each. He has put in writing in E-mails that he will not pay a dime until I give him whatever discovery he's asking for.

Q Obviously, that's for another motion set today, but I think it's relevant here. How much does Mr. Hanson owe you right now?

A It's close to 25,000. I think it's 25,800-something, but that doesn't include like I would send an expense E-mail out this month. I would send an expense E-mail, but so that doesn't include the stuff from March or the April 1st charges for gymnastics and speech, and the health insurance premium and things of nature.

Q Mrs. Hanson, I'm going to show you what's been marked as identification as Wife's Exhibit 20. Do you recognize that document?

MR. HANSON: What is the document?

MR. DAVIS: Exhibit 20. It's in Book Two.

A Family Law Financial Affidavit Long Form.

Q And this is your family law financial affidavit?

A Yes.

Q And do you recognize it?

A Yes.

Q Dated October 22nd 2024?

A Sure. Yes.

Q And you'll acknowledge that both financial affidavits or at the time you filed it, did it accurately reflect your income, expenses, assets and liabilities?

A Yes.

Q And have you depleted a significant portion of your savings since you filed this financial affidavit?

A What was the savings amount? Oh, yeah. For sure.

Q Okay. For example, your Chase savings. At the time was [redacted] Do you know approximately how much you have now?

A 20,000.

Q And there was another example your Ameriprise investment account was [redacted] How much do you have in that now?

A That I don't know. I don't touch that. That's my retirement account or I'm using for retirement account.

Q All right. And are you asking the Court to order Mr. Hanson to pay for the guardian ad litem?

A Yes.

Q And tell the Court why.

A I'm less than -- it takes both pay checks of mine to pay my mortgage payment. I have, obviously, I have attorney's fees because they're all on my credit cards. I have -- I live on my credit cards on a month-to-month, and the girls tuition is on one of the cards that I don't touch. That's -- because that was what Mr. Hanson's half to pay, so I haven't touched that one. I just make the payments as I can.

I am trying to make it through. I can't refinance my house to try and get a lower pavement while I'm still married. I'm getting withdrawn more from my money -- from my bank account, the paycheck, because I have to file married but separate. That's a higher tax bracket, I've learned. And so my liabilities at this point exceed what my income is, and I'm trying not to touch the 20,000 in savings, just so I can make the mortgage payment and see how long it goes.

I mean, I'll keep the credit cards. I'll max them out if I have to to pay for whatever I need to pay for, but it's getting pretty crushing at this point. And he hasn't paid me for his half. He's on my health insurance. That's part of what my expenses are. I'm paying for all of their gymnastics, all of their activities, the school. Everything goes on my credit cards. And so I've been -- well, I've been fronting it.

I've been giving him the 50 percent amounts of what I'm asking him for the -- he -- for the past year and a half. He paid at the initial separation, initial year, and I was relying on that, and now I don't -- I don't have that and the mortgage payment. I'm just trying to make sure I make that.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you. Your Honor, at this time I'll offer into evidence what's been marked as Petitioner's Exhibit 20 and as Petitioner's One.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I object to hearsay, and then I got to find -- you said, Volume 220.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. The document was offered into evidence, and the objection was hearsay?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: Hearsay. I believe this corresponds with the fudge certificate where it doesn't swear to the appropriate date so I object to it based on that as well.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to overrule the objection based on hearsay. And the document behind Tab 20 will be received as Petitioner's No. 1.

MR. HANSON: And, if I may, Your Honor, I would also add that it's stale and irrelevant to any current issues. It's two years old.

THE COURT: Okay. With regards to I think you said something about a fudged date of filing or --

MR. HANSON: So that's --

THE COURT: Verification.

MR. HANSON: They took advantage of the four-month delay where they just said that they were -- that they swore that there was no other account interest in the last 12 months, but because they put it off for four months after the stipulated due date, they were able to get out of swearing for those four months.

THE COURT: Okay. And then with regards to the staleness of the evidence, certainly, there was testimony -- as a matter of fact, I'll allow you to cross examine on it, of course. The document on Tab 20 will be received as Petitioner's No. 1.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you. May I address the Court when you're finished.

THE COURT: I have to mark this. All right. The documents behind Tab 20 in Volume II of petitioner's notebook will be received as Petitioner's No. 1.

(Petitioner's Exhibit No. 1 received in evidence.)

MR. DAVIS: Thank you.

THE COURT: Yes, Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: Are we only doing the guardian ad litem motion or is it the Court taking testimony for the psychological evaluation and the parenting? It makes no difference to me.

THE COURT: One at a time.

MR. DAVIS: One at a time, yes, sir. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q Mrs. Hanson, I'm going to turn your attention to Exhibit 33. You recognize this E-mail string?

A Yes.

Q And this is the E-mail string regarding [redacted] gymnastics banquet in 2025 that you previously testified to?

A Yes.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, Your Honor. May

I offer into evidence what's been marked for identification as Petitiioner's 33, as Petitioner's 2.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I would just ask that the entire E-mail chain be included, which I am not sure if this is the entire chain or not.

I can see the entire chain, which it looks to be. I don't have an objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Then the documents behind Tab 33 will be received as Petitioner's No. 2.

(Petitioner's Exhibit No. 2 was received in evidence.)

THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, You Honor.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q I'll show you what's been marked for identification as Petitioner's No. 34. Do you recognize that E-mail string?

A Yes.

Q And can you tell the Court generally what it's about.

A I mean, should I just read it or?

Q No. Tell me what it's about.

A It's following the hearing he's accusing me of fraud.

Q Mr. Hanson is accusing you of fraud?

A Yeah.

MR. DAVIS: All right. Offer what's been marked for identification as Petitioner's 34 and as Petitioner's 3.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: It's just the E-mails from February 14th. Just that one E-mail. I guess, there's a second one from February 12th.

I have no objection.

THE COURT: Okay. Then the documents behind Tab 34, will be received as Petitioner's Number 3.

(Petitioner's Exhibit No. 3 received into evidence.)

THE COURT: You may proceed.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you.

BY MR. DAVIS:

Q I'm going to show you what's been marked for identification as Petitioner's Exhibit 35. Do you recognize the E-mail string?

A Um-hum, yes.

Q All right. And does the E-mail string accuse you of weaponizing the children, abandonment of cooperation and parent's failure to adhere to long-standing custody agreements?

A Yes.

Q Does it make multiple complaints about what he, Mr. Hanson, alleges that you have done?

A Yes.

Q Does it also make other demands relating to your case?

A Yes, discovery depositions.

MR. DAVIS: All right. At this time I'll offer into evidence what's been marked for identification as Petitioner's 35 as Petitioner's Four.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Again, no objection to the attachment, but hearsay and information within it, I reserve any objections.

THE COURT: Reserve any objection, like, what do you mean by that?

MR. HANSON: So if there's something in there where Mr. Davis says that he heard something from his client, I would object to that information being used for the truth of the matter asserted; in other words, it could be hearsay in the E-mail.

If you want me to read through all these E-mails right now, I can to see if there is. But I don't object attachment, but if there's objectionable material in there, independently, then I would have an objection to that.

THE COURT: Okay. I guess, I guess, what I'm trying to work out is when that objection would be raised or -- because if it's received into evidence, then I will review it. Do you know what I mean? And that would be up to the presence of the parties or whenever I can review it.

So I don't know when you would raise that subsequent objection that you are reserving on?

MR. HANSON: And I got this information this morning, you know, the materials for the hearing. You want me to try and review it all right now and see if there's anything objectionable, I can, but there are several of these few pages and it will take sometime.

You know, it's more of a -- there might be hearsay or other objectionable material in there that I just want to reserve the objection unless you want me to take the time to read all of these now.

THE COURT: Well, like I said, if you're asking for an objection to be preserved or the right to make an objection to be preserved, I feel like I need to rule on it now before I move into evidence.

MR. HANSON: Okay. Then I got to go back and read all the other E-mails too then, you know, especially with the things have gone on. I have to be very, very careful to what I agree to. So, you know, if you want to give me a few minutes, I can look at these. Mr. Davis can tell me the numbers --

THE COURT: Well, the other ones have already been admitted.

MR. HANSON: Okay. I would have thought the Rules of Evidence generally apply. I didn't know that an objection to -- I would need to make an objection to preserve the Rules of Evidence, but that would have been my intent to preserve the Rules.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I just want to make sure I understand. You are saying that you didn't know you needed to make an objection to preserve that objection?

MR. HANSON: Well, the Rules of Evidence apply, right? I mean, the Rules of Evidence are applied to what you look at to reach your ruling. And when there's, you know, a 10-page document, if there's hearsay or other inadmissible material in it, I think that there's still applicability of the Rules of Evidence. Does the Court disagree.

THE COURT: I'm not under examination here. I'm trying to understand what you're saying. So you're saying that if no objection is made, it's automatically preserved and like an Appellate Court just needs to apply any objection that may possibly be made on their own or -- I'm trying to understand what you're saying.

MR. HANSON: What I'm saying is that these are long exhibits and you're asking me in three seconds whether there is an objection.

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. HANSON: And if I'm doing my job right, I would look at the document and see if there's anything objectionable.

THE COURT: Okay. And you're asking for that time now, right?

MR. HANSON: If that's -- yes. Yes. I suppose I am.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And have you already admitted the other ones where I don't have a chance to look at those anymore? Is it just 35 that I have a chance to look at?

THE COURT: I did because I asked you at that time if you had any objection, and you said no to each one of those.

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: And then we moved on. And now we're on the documents behind Tab 35.

MR. HANSON: And, again, Your Honor, I won't object. The issues here are very simple. The Court will do what it wants to do, but it's not going to hinge on one of these E-mails.

THE COURT: All right. Documents behind Tab 35 will be received as Petitioner's Number 4.

(Petitioner's Exhibit No. 4 received in evidence.)

THE COURT: You may proceed, Mr. Davis. I'm sorry. I said did --

MR. DAVIS: I didn't know -- I didn't hear you say, "You pray proceed."

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I'm sorry. If I didn't --

MR. DAVIS: I was just waiting for the Court to --

THE COURT: No. Maybe I said it in my head and thought I said it. You may proceed.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll tender the witness.

THE COURT: Okay. Any cross-examination, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes. There is quite a bit, and I have a quite a bit of testimony to offer myself.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, we're doing cross now.

MR. HANSON: Okay. I just wanted to let you know --

THE COURT: I did not make any assumptions about you not having any.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. At Judge Ayers' hearing where I want the video, I wasn't even allowed to testify. She was going to rule against me.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Mrs. Hanson, I'll probably call you Sarah by accident.

A That's fine.

Q Are you fine if I call you something else?

A No. I don't care.

Q You mentioned quite a bit about what goes on in that house like it was a house of horrors of some sort.

What goes on in that house that you know that is so severe? What are you referring to?

A Your temperament. Things that get said. Your anger. If you don't -- the uncertainty of, you know, I mean, for me, when I was getting in trouble, the uncertainty is always that. Walking an eggshells.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I have sent a video to the Court a couple of times. I think as recently as this week. It's a Ring video. May I either resend that to you or figure out a way I can play that to the Court and enter that into evidence.

THE COURT: Okay. Through this witness or?

MR. HANSON: Yes, yes. It's a video of this witness in the home during this period.

THE COURT: Mr. Davis, are you familiar with this exhibit? Do you know what it is?

MR. DAVIS: I've seen it.

THE COURT: Any objection to it being played?

MR. DAVIS: Well, he has to admit it first. I'm not trying to be smart, but...

THE COURT: I understand, but -- because I don't know what it is. I haven't seen it.

MR. DAVIS: I don't think it's super relevant, but it's fine.

THE COURT: Okay. Typically, what I do with like videos and things along those lines is because we're not allowed to receive like a flash drive because we don't know where it's from or whatever and that kind of thing.

So, typically, what I will ask you to do is log into Zoom, you can share your screen, and we'll play it up there.

MR. HANSON: Okay. I think I can do that. Actually, I might need someone with more computer skills to walk me through. Oddly, I can't read that well or without my glasses. I just wanted to tell you.

THE COURT: I try to tell you that this is the screen that shows up there. I was trying to find the "preferences" so I can give you the Zoom information.

Do you have it, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I'm in Zoom. Generally, I just need, I guess, a meeting to join.

THE COURT: Yeah. Meeting ID is 969.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry. I got to figure out where to type it in. Do I hit join first.

THE COURT: I think you can join the meeting.

MR. HANSON: I think that's how it works. Please tell me again, Your Honor.

THE COURT: 969-8050-9625.

MR. HANSON: Okay. And then I just have a link here. I'm trying to, like I said, do I share screen.

THE COURT: I don't see you in the Zoom room yet.

MR. HANSON: Oh, I see my own picture and think I'm in there.

THE COURT: Typically, you need to ask to share screen. Give it a second, then the request will pop up on my end, then I have to hit allow.

MR. HANSON: Share.

THE COURT: Maybe turn off your microphone. Try joining in. It says "disabled." You have to request permission to share.

MR. HANSON: And it says that -- it says "disabled share."

THE COURT: If you can see my screen in there, I have two of you in here. One of them is muted.

MR. DAVIS: I think the Court can mute him up in the right.

MR. HANSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No problem.

MR. HANSON: So I click screen share and it says, "disabled share." It says, "Host disabled screen sharing." "Okay." Is my only button.

THE COURT: And I'm never on that end, so, typically, my understanding is there is a request permission to share.

MR. HANSON: Oh, maybe it's under more.

THE COURT: I'm sure as you can understand I don't have the automatic sharing on.

MR. HANSON: It looks to me like it's a set something of some kind where it doesn't give me an option to request it, but let me try a couple of other things.

THE COURT: I mean, all I can say, Mr. Hanson, is people do request it all the time, and I think that's how --

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: Sir, can you see my screen up there? You see my thing? Do you have one of these?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: If I hit that, that's like host tools for sharing.

MR. HANSON: Mine is a green share screen button, but it looks like that, otherwise, and then is that immediately to host disabled.

THE COURT: You should be able to share.

MR. HANSON: Okay. This is November 7th of 2023, which is an important date when it comes to this it's at 7:15 a.m.

THE COURT: November 7th 2023.

MR. HANSON: Sarah is still living in the house.

(WHEREUPON, Mr. Hanson, sharing screen; video playing.)

MR. HANSON: That's what it was like living in my house when she was -- after her $100,000 payment is -- it was -- and, I'm sorry, Your Honor, I'm not arguing to you, but I'm asking questions here, Your Honor. I apologize.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Do you recall that day, Mrs. Hanson?

A November 7th of 2023?

Q Yes.

A I believe, I believe that's when I filed for divorce the first time.

Q It was also when you were pushing me to sign documents related to purchasing your home where I was going to be on the promissory note as well, right?

MR. DAVIS: Relevance. Outside the scope.

THE COURT: How is it relevant?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, Mrs. Hanson, just went on a two and a half hour petty, divorce problems, exaggeration of two years suggesting that my house is a house of horrors.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: This is what my house was like when Mrs. Hanson was still there. It was -- I was walking on eggshells.

THE COURT: I understand that, and that can be part of cross. But I guess my question is -- the objection came after you said, "This was the day" -- I don't remember the exact words that you used, "but pressuring me to sign documents regarding the purchase of the home," right?

MR. HANSON: Right.

THE COURT: That specifically, how is that relevant?

MR. HANSON: Because Mrs. Hanson made it seem as though I am this controlling, anger-management, problem person, and it's the opposite of true.

THE COURT: I understand that, but how is the specific question about signing documents that day relevant?

MR. HANSON: Because she was bullying me into signing something that I was scared to sign, and that is consistent with our history and our relationship is I was the one trying to get along and I still am.

And we're going to go through all of it where Mrs. Hanson's testimony is a gross exaggeration of a few stories that are true --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I'm asking to please focus on just the question. Yes, we will go through all of it, but that's not what we're talking about right now.

MR. HANSON: Yes. I understand that.
THE COURT: So --
MR. HANSON: What I'm getting at is that Mrs. Hanson's rationale for wanting a guardian ad litem is largely that I was controlling and angry and aggressive, and the opposite is true in that when she needed me to sign something --
THE COURT: So you're saying it's relevant because it shows something contrary to what her testimony was?
MR. HANSON: It shows that she was the bully, angry, aggressive force, not me.
THE COURT: All right.
MR. HANSON: And there's no actual -- I'm sorry, Your Honor. I'll continue with questions whenever -- I don't know if you're done talking to me about this issue. Fine, I'll --
THE COURT: I'm trying to understand your objection. I'm asking you to respond to the objection with regard to relevance.
And I'm trying to direct that a little bit so we're not talking about everything that she testified to, just the specific question that you posed that was objected to.

MR. HANSON: But I need to address everything she testified to because it's simply not accurate.

THE COURT: I'm not saying you can't. I'm not saying you can't, but right now we're addressing an objection to one specific question. And I'm not saying you won't -- and you said, "Are we're going to address all of it?" And I said, "Yes, we are, but not right now." Right now we're talking about an objection to one question.

MR. HANSON: Separate from the video, the question about this was around the time where you were pushing to me to sign this document?

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. HANSON: I think that's critically relevant because she was pushing for her to leave the house and go to 50/50 custody at the time.

THE COURT: Okay. With regards to the objection to it being outside the scope,

Mr. Davis, do you want to strictly adhere to the scope of direct and cross and have him recall her on his direct?

MR. DAVIS: That's up to the Court. That's fine. If you want to go outside -- Your Honor, but it probably makes more sense for efficiency --

THE COURT: I'll allow it if the parties are okay with it.

MR. DAVIS: If Mr. Hanson will agree, I'll agree.

THE COURT: Do you understand that question, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I didn't follow, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So, very typically, when we have direct and cross, cross is not allowed to go outside the scope of the direct.

MR. HANSON: Right.

THE COURT: Okay. However, a lot of times in family law we will allow both sides to go outside the scope of the direct so you don't have to go through the formality with resting on this witness, staying within that scope, and then recalling her on your direct -- does that make sense -- or in your defense of this motion?

MR. HANSON: I think so. I would rather do them separately, I think. I mean, the direct seems like it was so broad to me that I think most everything will be within the scope, but if there's things that are outside the scope, then I can do them separately.

THE COURT: So you'd rather not go outside the scope of direct?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I do want efficiency too, but I think -- I think I prefer to proceed that way, but if it's slowing us down, then I'm okay doing the other option as well.

THE COURT: Okay. Then we will allow each party to go outside the scope of the direct on cross. Okay?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HANSON: All right. So I'd like to submit the video.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Real quick. I still haven't ruled on the actual objection yet.

MR. HANSON: Sorry.

THE COURT: I'll overrule the objection. I'll allow it. So, I guess, the question is: This was the day that you were also forcing me to sign documents -- or forcing -- I'm sorry. I keep using the wrong words, but pressuring me to sign documents about the purchase of another property; is that correct?

MR. HANSON: The day of or the day before. Very close.

THE COURT: Okay. Mrs. Hanson?

THE WITNESS: Having you sign off on my house so I could buy it, that went on for at least a week.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Right. I think it was just the day before or the day of --

A This was the day you said you wouldn't sign, and so I filed for divorce because the only way I would be able to buy a piece of property is if we were legally divorced.

Q And you filing for divorce, you admitted that you did not make any financial disclosures in conjunction with the post-marital agreement, right?

MR. DAVIS: Object. Relevance?

THE COURT: Relevance with regards to the motion for a guardian ad litem?

MR. HANSON: We're going to do it -- I mean, I still think it's relevant because my argument still is that it is 100 percent retaliatory and baseless. And the fact that the finances or the driving force from me since 2024 is -- it's critical to my argument that everything that Mrs. Hanson and Mr. Davis are saying with respect to the guardian ad litem is baseless and retaliatory in nature due to the finances.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: The only goal is to conceal the marital income and assets, and this is just distraction and harassment.

Your Honor, frankly, given the number of ethical violations that have occurred, the Court's complete lack of consideration or attention to those and continuing in this matter as though everything has gone normal is problematic. And especially when there's no findings on these constitutional questions, which I think is problematic.

THE COURT: Okay. I will overrule the objection. And I'm taking this as the fourth time you are raising those arguments, and the Court is going to remain with its prior ruling on it. Okay?

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Okay. As far as the gymnastics events, the one where you decided not to take [redacted] that was the first one that Claire was going to be at, right?

A After I told you I was planning on not taking her, you told me, "Let [redacted] know that Claire and Enzo will be there."

Q And your testimony is that you had no idea that Claire was going to be at the gymnastics meet when you first told me that [redacted] was not going to go?

A I knew [redacted] was going to go when -- I knew Claire was going to go in the text message, but my idea to not bring [redacted] and let her stay, I had no idea if Claire would be there or not.

Q Did you tell me that [redacted] was not going to go before or after I told you that Claire was coming?

A Before -- my opening text to you was letting you know, "Hey, I'm not I'm looking -- I wasn't planning on bringing [redacted] I was going to have her stay with her cousins." That was my first -- that's what opened the discussion.

Q So your testimony is that when you decided to leave [redacted] with her cousins the day of that gymnastics meet, you had no idea that Claire was going to be there? That's your testimony, right?

A My opening statement to you -- you told me in your first text to me back, I acknowledge you told me Claire was going to be there and Enzo was going to be there --

THE COURT: And I'm sorry, but who is Claire.

MR. HANSON: A girl that I am dating.

THE COURT: Sorry. I'm just trying to put people in place, and I'm trying to understand what the relevance of that might be.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q But my question is very simple: When you first told me that [redacted] was not going to be coming to that gymnastics meet, did you have any idea that Claire was going to be coming at the time that you told me that [redacted] was not coming?

A I'm not trying to legal gymnastics with you, but the way you're wording it when I finally said, "Hey, she's definitely not coming," I did know that Claire was coming; however, when my opening text to you telling you, "Hey, I'm going to leave [redacted] behind," I did not know that she was coming.

I have no problem with Claire hanging out with the kids.

Q Because [redacted] told me that you wouldn't let her come to gymnastics --

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Calls for hearsay.

THE COURT: Mrs. Hanson, hold on one second. There is an objection.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Sorry. No, I apologize.

THE COURT: The objection, Mr. Hanson, to the form of the question is that includes hearsay, is that correct, as to what the children said?

MR. DAVIS: Yes.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: It's the independent relevance that she said it, Your Honor. The question for Sarah is whether it's true or not, but the fact that she said it. I'm telling you --

THE COURT: But how do we know if she said it or not.

MR. HANSON: I'm here. You can judge my credibility. It's the fact that it was said that's relevant. It's a question for Mrs. Hanson. The fact that [redacted] said it to me, I'm perfectly capable of declaring, Judge, my credibility.

You don't need to judge [redacted] credibility as to whether it was said, but it was said. And it raises a question of is that true, did you tell [redacted] she couldn't come.

THE COURT: Okay. Based on the form of the question, I'm going to sustain that question.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Did you tell [redacted] that she couldn't come to the gymnastics meet the day that Claire was coming?

A I told [redacted] during lunch after she didn't come that I'm the reason that she didn't go to the gymnastics meets, and it wasn't here decision. That's what I testified to earlier too.

Q My question is when you all were making the decision about whether [redacted] was going to come, did you tell [redacted] or did you prevent her in any way from coming? Your testimony is 100 percent [redacted] decision that she didn't want to come?

A No. I -- we didn't have a discussion with [redacted] like that. I told [redacted] -- I went over to [redacted] and said, "Hey, she's playing on her top bunk with Legos -- playing Legos. They were building Legos with Leo. " And I said, "Hey, we're going to need to get ready for the competition" -- I don't want to get her in trouble. I'm not comfortable testifying to this with you.

She -- I told her after the fact, "You tell daddy it was my decision you didn't go." And she was fine not going; she was playing with her cousins.

THE COURT: Are we done with this video, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor, I did want to submit it as my first exhibit, but I can, I guess, stop sharing screens.

MR. DAVIS: I have no objection. I don't know how the Court is going to receive it, but...

THE COURT: Was it -- it was -- it was -- did you say it was E-mailed to the Court.

MR. HANSON: It was E-mailed two or three different times. The last time it was two or three days ago. I can send it right now to whatever E-mail you want.

THE COURT: If you wouldn't mind sending it to my judicial assistant. Obviously, copy Mr. Davis on it.

MR. DAVIS: Was it just that video?

MR. HANSON: That's the only video that I'm entering at this time.

THE COURT: Yeah. I would ask that the E-mail that you send just contain that video.

MR. HANSON: Do you want me to do it right now? Do you want me to make a note. It shouldn't take that long to back up. I don't want to hold you up.

THE COURT: As long as I receive it before Monday.

MR. HANSON: Okay. I got the E-mail drafted. And you said, just the link?

THE COURT: Just the link, please. And in there just, you know, include the link and say, you know, Respondent's Exhibit Number 1.

MR. DAVIS: I think it's one, isn't it?

THE COURT: Didn't I say one?

MR. DAVIS: I thought you said 4.

THE COURT: No, Respondent's Exhibit Number 1.

(Respondent's Exhibit No. 1 received in evidence.)

BY MR. HANSON:

Q And you testified about a guardian ad litem at the April 4th of 2025 hearing as well, right?

A That was the -- one of the pending motions to be heard, yes.

Q Was your testimony today different from your April 4, of 2025 in any way?

MR. DAVIS: Object to vague. Although it's in my exhibit book. I have no objection to it being admitted and for the Court review it, although it's a long transcript, if the Court wants to.

MR. HANSON: And the video is something that just has to be reviewed in any credible the Court. There is a video of judicial misconduct and bias that has corrupted this case since day one. And if the --

MR. DAVIS: Whether or not Judge Ayers rolled her eyes or not has nothing to do with the parties.

THE COURT: This is about the sixth time the argument has been made. I'm not changing my rule.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. And I really think that's a big problem.

THE COURT: I understand. I am well aware that you think it's a problem evidenced by you bringing it up multiple times --

MR. HANSON: Do I have any options to --

THE COURT: I cannot advise you as to your legal options.

MR. HANSON: All right. I'll look into that myself.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q So let's look at what your concerns were exactly. You said that I drink alcohol heavily when [redacted] was a baby, and she knows what a happy hour is. Is that your testimony that I heard?

A Well, I think it's a mischaracterization. I -- I'm not with him the house with you anymore. You drank heavily throughout our courtship and in the first year of our marriage, and then [redacted] was born in our second year of the marriage, and you still drank.

And then did testify that you stopped drinking, but I do believe you are drinking again, and I know that the girls know what a happy hour is.

Q What makes you think that -- what do you mean by drinking again?

A Chris, you would drink vodka. You would drink straight vodka.

Q That's not my question. What do you mean by drinking again?

A What do you mean?

Q You just said --

A Because I said I don't -- I'm not in the house with you, so -- but you have a proclivity to drink, and I don't -- so I don't know the frequency of which you are drinking. I do not know what you are drinking, but for many, many years, I mean, you can drink a bottle of vodka.

Q It just seems slanderous to me to focus on things that are seven, eight years ago. And I want to remain focused on the time periods that matter here.

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Argumentative.

And calls for legal conclusion as to the time frames that matters here. That's for the Court to understand.

THE COURT: I understand. I'm not making any determinations based on that, Mr. Davis.

MR. DAVIS: I understand, but it's also argumentative.

THE COURT: I understand. Mr. Hanson, I would ask that you stick to question at this point in the hearing. Okay?

BY MR. HANSON:

Q When was the first time that we talked about divorce?

A The actual divorce? You put it in an E-mail before going to one of your client's birthday parties.

Q Was it after you assaulted me in the car going back from Bone Fish?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Assumes facts not in evidence.

THE COURT: Hold on.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Do you want me to rule on the objection?

MR. HANSON: Yes, of course, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Any response to the objection?

MR. HANSON: I can ask another question first.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: I was just trying to move it faster.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Did you assault me in 2018 driving back from Bone Fish?

A No. I did not assault you.

Q Did you strike me with a closed fist?

A No.

Q Did you -- do you know the incident I'm talking about?

A I assume you're referring to after -- I'm assuming Bone Fish.

Q Yes. So you know the incident leaving Bone Fish that I'm referring to?

A Yes.

Q What happened in your words?

A Well, okay, we were at dinner with you, your dad, your dad's girlfriend, and [redacted] was a baby. And you were drinking vodka Martinis straight, and your dad's girlfriend was drinking.

And I saw her suck on an ice cube from her drink and give it to [redacted] to take -- this is at the end of dinner, and so I took the ice cube from [redacted] and I said we would go outside to play.

When we went outside in the front of Bone Fish, there were cars -- it was by the parking lot where it was at, and so I put [redacted] in the car because it was safer. It was away from -- it was just better.

And then when you guys came out, I went to get out to bring [redacted] to say goodbye to everybody. And you said no. You accused me of ruining the evening, and then you got in the car behind me.

And [redacted] was in -- and then when you strapped [redacted] into her car seat, you -- she started crying because she doesn't like to be in the car seat. I was pregnant -- and I was pregnant with [redacted] but pregnant enough the belly was sticking out near the wheel.

Oh, it probably would have been around January or February when that happened. And [redacted] started screaming and crying, and you started laying into me about what a horrible -- I don't remember what you said. I mean, it's it was eight -- it was a very long time ago, and you we were complaining about me. And then I told you I didn't like you. I just --

Q Did you swing your fist at me?

A I did not swing my fist, no. I've never made a fist and thrown it at you.

Q Have you ever admitted in writing that you hit me in the car?

A Admitted in writing?

Q Yeah. Have you ever acknowledged it in a text message or in an E-mail?

A I mean, not that I know of. If you accused me of it though when we were going through all our fights, I would have apologized. I mean, it's entirely plausible.

I know in deposition though when you were questioning me, you acknowledged that you moved so I didn't hit you. And I remember that in deposition where I said, "Well, you just said I didn't hit you."

Q No. You hit me twice, and then I moved so you couldn't hit me anymore, but you were still swinging.

Did you cross multiple lanes of traffic going on North Dale Mabry as we were driving back from Bone Fish while you were swinging at me?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Compound. Assumes facts not this evidence, and the first part was argumentative.

THE COURT: Any response, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Which pardon was argumentative.

THE COURT: The first part. I believe that you are referring to Mr. Davis' part where you said, "No, you hit me twice, then I moved so you couldn't hit me a third time."

MR. DAVIS: Yes.

THE COURT: I'll sustained with regards to that. You're not under oath. That's in response to her answer, so that -- I'm going to take that as argumentative more than like testimony.

MR. HANSON: Did you -- I'm sorry.

THE COURT: The next objection was assumes facts not in evidence and compound; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. Any response with the rest of those?

MR. HANSON: I mean, I can break it down. I was trying to move things along.

THE COURT: Okay. Please break it down.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q All right. You were driving back from Bone Fish; is that right?

A Yes. I was driving.

Q We had to go on North Dale Mabry; is that right?

A Yes. That's the route I would have taken.

Q Were you driving erratically?

A No.

Q Did you cross from the right lane over into the left-turn lane to turn left onto Kennedy?

A I mean, I would have had to have gone into the left-turn lane to turn left on Kennedy from Bone Fish.

Q Did you cross two lanes really quickly?

A I have no idea. If there was an opening, I would have crossed it.

Q And then once we got on Kennedy and we we're going back towards West Shore, did you again cross all lanes of traffic while you were screaming and swinging?

A No, and no to all of it.

Q Was that the first time that we started talking about divorce?

A No.

Q Is that when I stopped sleeping in the bedroom?

A Not that I know of, no.

Q I didn't start sleeping in the closet after that?

A You rarely sleep. You have [redacted] and most of the time you were rarely in the bed even before that, well before that. We didn't get along even when [redacted] was a baby before [redacted] was born.

Q Was this drive home from Bone Fish a changing point in your relationship?

A Not that I know of.

Q You think that our relationship was the same before and after this incident on the way home from Bone Fish?

A Chris, I don't think we had much of a relationship before Bone Fish.

Q Did you ever apologize to me for what happened on the drive home from Bone Fish?

A I have no idea. I'm sure you demanded that I do, and I'm sure I did at some point. I mean, even the texts messages you send over, I apologize for multiple things.

Q Were you yelling at me when you apologize?

A No.

Q And you were pretty far along with [redacted] at that time. You were halfway through the pregnancy, if I remember right.

A I believe so. Yeah. I said my belly was sticking out. It was that close to the wheel.

Q While I was working at home, did you ever come up behind me and choke me unconscious?

A Unbelievable. We covered this in the deposition, Chris.

Q It's just a yes or no question?

THE COURT: I wasn't at the deposition, so that doesn't help me at all.

THE WITNESS: I mean can I re -- I don't think it's a yes-or-no question. I'm allowed to explain or expand on that, right? I'm not -- okay. I apologize.

THE COURT: Okay. So I need you to answer the question. Your attorney has a right to redirect.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: I did not come up from behind. I disagree with your mischaracterization. I did not come up from behind and choke you.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Did you choke me unconscious to the point where I, actually, was out and I woke up suddenly?

A There was an accident where that occurred, yes.

Q Did the accident occur when your arms were around my neck squeezing it?

A My arm was around you giving you a hug, and then I jokingly put my arm around your neck and then, yes, you went unconscious.

Q Have you ever choked anyone else unconscious?

A No, I think you know that.

MR. DAVIS: Stop.

THE WITNESS: Your Honor, okay. I apologize. Go on.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Did you tell my friends that you choked me unconscious?

A After you told them and one of your friends was aware because the next day we were at Busch Gardens or the water park.

Q Did you tell them that I should feel emasculated because you choked me out?

A No. I've never even used that word.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Mr. Hanson, can I know the time frame we're talking about?

MR. HANSON: I was working at home. It would have been around COVID.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Have you ever raised your fist to me and told me you wanted to hit me?

A Not that I recall.

Q Do I have any friends or including my brother -- do I have more than one person that's close to me that has told me that eventually you would kill me?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Calls for hearsay.

MR. HANSON: I'm asking if she's heard it? If she's heard my friend say, "Eventually she's going to kill you."

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: It's a yes-or-no question.

THE COURT: Let me handle the objection first, okay? So the question is: Have you heard any of my -- anyone I'm close to say that she's -- that, essentially, he's saying that I'm going to kill you?

MR. HANSON: Saying that based upon knowing us in our relationship that eventually she would kill you.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. DAVIS: Number one, it would be speculation on their part. Number two, it's hearsay. And, number three, it's relevance.

THE COURT: Okay. With regard to speculation, I don't know if it's speculation. She either heard something or didn't hear something. All right?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, it would be speculation if somebody said that, but they're speculating. But, yes, I understand that. I'm not trying to be argumentative.

THE COURT: That's okay. I'm just trying to work through the objections. I'm not trying to be argumentative either.

You know, I'll allow her to answer the question, but I'm not entirely sure -- I'm not entirely sure this is making me not want a guardian in the case.

MR. DAVIS: I was just thinking the same.

THE COURT: Do you know what I mean? Like --

MR. DAVIS: If she's as awful as he says, then we need a guardian ad litem.

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, that -- that plays into the problem that we have here is that they don't want a guardian ad litem because of any problems with the kids.

They want it to distract from the financial concealment.

MR. DAVIS: No, we don't.

THE COURT: I mean, I understand you keep saying that, but we're here on -- right now I'm just trying to deal with this objection.

MR. HANSON: I understand that, Your Honor, but like I've told you --

THE COURT: And, like I said, I've allowed the question --

MR. HANSON: There is one lens to view this case through where it all makes sense. And that is since my first filing I've wanted to get financial discovery; they delayed it first hoping that I would go away.

They used going back to 50/50 custody as a bargaining chip. They attacked the four motions after not doing anything right as my attorney was revoked from me for no reason --

THE COURT: Heard you say that.

MR. HANSON: So all of that supports the story that they filed it as retaliation and as a litigation strategy. I don't know how there's any other way to view it.

MR. DAVIS: I have to feel like I have to say this: Never have we ever offered to withdraw this motion for any reason. There's never been a moment since December of 2023 --

MR. HANSON: And I'm not saying that.

MR. DAVIS: -- no, '24.

THE WITNESS: '24.

MR. DAVIS: When, '24.

MR. HANSON: And I'm not saying that. It was in late 2024 after they had filed just the petition, three days after the hurricane hit me --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, you're going to get an opportunity to argue this in closing. I just want to get through the questioning -- the cross-examination of this witness now, and there was an objection --

MR. HANSON: I understand, but --

THE COURT: -- that I overruled.

MR. HANSON: -- it misstates the truth. It was not the December 13th motion that they offered to withdraw. It was the October 2024 change in custody position that they filed right after the hurricane where that was the bargaining chip, so it was before December 13th of 2024.

THE COURT: And, again, this is argument. I'll allow you to make the argument. I'm just trying to get through this question.

MR. HANSON: Okay. I'll just respond to --

MR. DAVIS: To be clear, we've never changed our position since it was filed either.

THE COURT: Davis, I hear you. I'll allow you to argue that position too.

MR. DAVIS: I just --

THE COURT: I know you want to make the record clear --

MR. DAVIS: It feels like a personal attack, which I know he's been trying to do for a long time. So I just feel like I need to make that clear. That's all.

THE COURT: I understand. All right. I mean, I believe I sus -- I overruled that objection.

You can answer whether you heard someone close to him say you're going to kill him.

THE WITNESS: No.

THE COURT: Thank you. Next question.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Have you ever communicated by text about friends of mine suggesting that you would kill me?

A You mean have you told me that in text messages?

Q Right.

A Chris, you send a lot of text messages.

Q I know. And it's -- it was really difficult and embarrassing to review it last night.

Do you know how many times more likely it is that a daughter from a broken home will be sexually assaulted than a home that's together?

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance, and calls for facts not this evidence.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, it explains the multitude of text messages. Why I was trying to work things out is that I did not want that consequence. And Mrs. Hanson knows that it's 15 times more likely.

So when I made fun about all of the text messages I sent, I think it's relevant to note that I was trying to avoid having my daughters grow up in a situation where there's 15 more times likely that they had suffer a sexual assault.

MR. DAVIS: We're in a no-fault divorce state; it doesn't matter.

THE COURT: And if that's your position, I understand that that's your position.

I don't know how questioning her about why you were sending the texts is better than you testifying to that.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, she -- there's a lot of things that were said that really need correcting and that's my intent.

THE COURT: Okay. Then let's get to that as opposed to why you were sending them.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q During the years that we were staying together after of the Bone Fish incident, did you ever role your eyes at me when I would suggest sex or sigh or act like it was a big chore that you didn't want to have to go through?

MR. DAVIS: It's irrelevant, but --

A What?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, if you would give me a little leeway. What happened in Michigan -- what Mrs. Hanson described in Michigan is very, very different and it important --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: -- the fact that she used sex as a way to make me feel low and unwanted is a necessary predicate for what happened in Michigan.

THE COURT: I'm not sure I understand that. I'm -- as a family law judge, I don't get into -- I'm not -- I don't micromanage intact marriages. Do you know what I mean?

MR. HANSON: I do understand that, Your Honor, and this is the last thing I want to get into. This is the last --

THE COURT: It's pretty far afield from the things that I think would probably be relevant towards appointing a guardian ad litem.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, it goes back to that issue where it's not about a guardian ad litem. It's about concealment and harassment and it's --

THE COURT: Okay. So your argument is how she interacted with you during intimate times when your intact marriage is relevant towards the concealment and harassment that you're claiming is the basis for filing this motion in 2024?

MR. HANSON: Not quite that directly. It's that the course of the marriage the last few years followed a pattern where I would try to make things work, Mrs. Hanson would push me a way, and just be absolutely cruel in ways that I'll get into.

And she didn't want to just walk out of the marriage. She wanted it to be mutual for me to make the decision.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And she treated me cruelly for years.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: Trying to make it so she didn't just walk out on the marriage.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And I still don't understand what the problem was.

THE COURT: But even assuming that's true, right, you're saying that that is directly relevant towards a retaliatory filing.

MR. HANSON: Yes, because I believe that everything that was occurring during those years was she wasn't having any expenses, she wasn't having to pay mortgage, taxes, insurance, anything like that.

She's saving money, and I believe that was the reason the marriage fell apart is that she did not want to help with expenses as I started making less money.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And the cruelty that occurred in those years really from 2019 when she hit me going home from the Bone Fish until when we actually divorced, it was a pattern of -- she would be cruel and suggest divorce and try to push -- push it out that way, and I would push back towards we can figure this out.

And at the time I didn't realize this, but in hindsight and looking over the text last night, there was never any intention of making it work. There was an intention of making it seem like she wasn't walking out on the marriage.

What she did in Michigan is something that is the most traumatic event of my life and it's -- I'll get into some questions about that in now.

THE COURT: Can we get into that, then? Because she testified with regards to that. I really -- even if everything you're saying it true, and I'm not saying it isn't. I'm saying that I don't think we need to rehash that here.

You can make that argument, but let's -- if you want to get into the Michigan incident, let's get into that.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. Okay.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q So why did I drive up to Michigan?

A You were done with the marriage counseling. You didn't want to participate it in it anymore and you left.

Q Isn't it true that I asked you around that time that you needed to make a decision on whether you could be nice to me and respect me at the house, and I just couldn't live in the house anymore and I had to get away?

A You always -- Chris you had a pattern of accusing me of that. I mean, my -- I don't understand. I think that was something you frequently accuse me of that I wasn't nice.

Ultimately, when we would talk you would say I needed to treat you the way I treated the kids. You accused me of being jealous of your relationship with the girls, and I kept telling you I wasn't.

Q So when I drove up to Michigan, you mentioned that I had invited you and the kids up. Isn't it true that you and I had a conversation where you said that you were ready to make an effort at really getting married again?

A I said it all the time to you, but you never accepted anything I said. I would get three strikes, and then you would tell me we would have to sit and talk. The marriage counseling was very beneficial. It was through the Gottman method, and part of it is each side gets to talk and say their perspectives, and then you apologize on either perspectives.

And there'd be instances where then you'd be like, "I tried to let it slide, but I can't," and then when you would talk, if I tried to say, "Well, this is what I was doing," you would tell me that I was lying.

I only paid for the marriage counseling. I can't believe you just said that I never put in any effort. I found the marriage counsel. I was begging you for counseling right after we got married because of the prenup.

Q Are you aware of what -- of whether the counselor ever told me that there is nothing that I could ever do to make it work with you?

MR. DAVIS: Object to hearsay.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, any response to that?

MR. HANSON: Yeah. It's to the extent that opinion side of it's relevant, it's a medical opinion, effect on listener, it's independently relevant whether the actual matter asserted is true or not, whether the counselor was right that I could never make it work with her is secondary.

The important part is that the counselor told me that, and I believe that the counselor told her that as well. That's why I'm asking the question.

THE COURT: I guess. I guess the question is framed, did you hear the counselor say this is different than the counselor said this; would you agree?

So I think the second question would be hearsay; the first one I will allow her to answer, if she can. I think it's a fine line. I think you're couching here something really close to hearsay in the form of a question. But, specifically, in that regard, did you hear the counselor say that?

THE WITNESS: He did not say that. He did not say that because Chris told me he said that. And then I asked the counselor at a group session if he had said that, and he said, "I would never use words like that."

BY MR. HANSON:

Q It was after we ever had any group counsel sessions. I went to him by myself and it happened?

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I will ask that you please refrain from testifying during your cross-examination.

MR. HANSON: Yes, sir. I will try.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. With regards to topics, are we at -- are moving on to a different topic or are we still?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, there is so much that came out on direct. My notes are not great.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm sorry.

MR. HANSON: So I'm trying to --

THE COURT: No, that's totally fine. I was going to ask for a quick break. Generally, I like to do it between topics, but if that is not easy to do, that's fine.

MR. HANSON: It's okay, Your Honor, now is a good time.

THE COURT: All right. We'll take a quick break. We'll come back at 3:00 o'clock. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

(WHEREUPON, a recess was taken at 2:50 p.m. through 3:05 p.m.)

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Hanson, continuation on cross -- continuation of cross, excuse me.

MR. HANSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q When we were struggling with our marriage, did we take personality tests together?

A Yes. After, after the counseling. I had asked for it.

Q Was there a certain result that you were excited about?

A I was shocked at how on point the personality test I thought was me. I couldn't believe how I thought it nailed me.

Q Did it show that you had more masculine traits than I do?

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance, and there's some admissibility issues that psychological testing that personality tests -- nobody is here to interpret. It's hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay. Relevance still.

MR. HANSON: She was cruel about it. She would tell me that I'm more feminine than she is, that she was more masculine than I was.

THE COURT: Okay. When I'm saying relevance, I'm not asking you to give me facts surrounding the question. I'm asking you to tell me why the question is relevant to the issue at hand.

MR. HANSON: It's the same idea, Your Honor, that there were years where it was efforts to make it work on my part and cruelty in return. And in an effort to just make the divorce happen, but make it mutual.

And I was just so committed to trying to make it work that it was a cycle where it would happen again and again where I would be hopeful that it would work and the cruelty and anger would come back. And that's important to my overall argument with this guardian ad litem issue is 100 percent retaliatory and unnecessary, fabricated to assist with the overall delay, harass and conceal argument.

And the way that she treated me during these months and years before the litigation started is relevant to the truth here and, Your Honor, none of this is anything that I want to be discussing, but this the position I'm in.

I'm not going to be able to move on without a fair process here and without getting some answers about years of deceit and difficulties with my career and asking for help and being met with, "Nope, I can't help with any money. You're not going to get access to my account." And, Your Honor --

THE COURT: This is way far afield to responding to the objection, sir.

MR. HANSON: I understand that. I don't mean to do that, but the relevance --

THE COURT: But you keep doing it a lot and I keep asking you not to and just respond to the objection on the table.

MR. HANSON: It's not intentional, Your Honor --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: I'm just -- there's information that needs to come out and it's not. It's a five, six now seven-year disaster of facts that matter, but they're ugly and they're dense. And I don't think that we need to be getting into all of this. I think that there could be --

THE COURT: But you're asking the question.

MR. HANSON: Right. But, Your Honor, I've been waiting for two years for and answer to a simple financial discovery. So I'm just trying to make sure that my rights and our ability to move on is protected and that requires me to be detailed --

THE COURT: But, Mr. Hanson, and again, and I'm sorry to interrupt you, but I do have to stop you because, again, now you're talking about financial discovery.

And my question has to do with how she felt -- how is how she felt about the results of a personality test relevant?

MR. HANSON: It's relevant because her motive all along was to try and make the divorce seem mutual.

THE COURT: And you said that before with regards to the question regarding her reactions when you were asking her to be intimate, and you agreed to move on from that.

And I said, "Even if that is true."

MR. HANSON: Well, Your Honor, I mean, maybe we have a different understanding of what's relevant or maybe I know more where I'm going to make it relevant and maybe you will agree.

THE COURT: At this point there's an objection on the table with regard to it, so I'm asking you to try to articulate that for me.

MR. HANSON: And I think I did, Your Honor. I think you were thinking I was going too far with explaining it, and it's not my intention to start testifying. I have a lot to say, but I know that's not what's on the -- what I'm supposed to be doing right now.

THE COURT: At this point I'm going to sustain the objection with regards to how she felt about the results of the test personality test. Okay?

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Did you ever use the personality test to try and emasculate me or feel less than you?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Relevance.

MR. HANSON: I don't understand how that is irrelevant when I'm saying that I was bullied and harassed for years while she concealed financial evidence, and now the bullying and harassment has Mr. Davis on board and, for large part, the Court on board too, and it's just everyone is gaslighting me now.

And I think all of that is important as part of this story because it shows just how -- how far off from reasonable handling of this simple discovery dispute we've come.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: And it seems like the Court is actually considering ordering a guardian ad litem on a case where the person pushing for it --

THE COURT: Sir, this is -- this is argument now.

MR. HANSON: Okay. But argument and relevance or hand-in-hand. I'm trying to get you to let me ask the questions I need to to show the relevance. And I agree I've bled too far into argument at times, but I do think that this line of questioning is relevant.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Davis. I'm sorry. I thought you wanted to say something.

MR. DAVIS: I decided not to say it. Thank you.

THE COURT: I'm going to sustain the objection. I don't believe it's relevant.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Before you came up to Michigan to visit me, do you remember having a conversation where I -- actually let me back up before that.

Did you ever tell me that you had tried to get along with me as long as we didn't have a sexual relationship?

A No, I never said that. And, for the record, we had sex the night before in Michigan.

Q With the kids in the hotel room?

A Yeah.

Q That was pretty unusual, right?

A I don't want to go into detail.

Q I don't either, Sarah. I really don't.

A I mean, I don't know why you're bringing up sex, so...

Q Because it was the first night that we were going to be in a hotel room or a house without our children as a married couple. The first night --

A What?

Q -- was at this hotel in Michigan. And before she came to Michigan -- you want me to ask questions or -- I'm sorry, Your Honor, I know that I'm not doing this in the right order right now. I don't -- just tell me what to do?

THE COURT: You're in cross.

MR. HANSON: I know. Okay. So no objection. Discussion.

THE COURT: There is no objection on the table. Right now you're just testifying.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Before you booked your flight to Michigan, did we have a conversation about trying to get back together and making it work?

A Yeah. We had those conversations frequently.

Q But that was part of your decision to come up to Michigan was that we were going to try and make it work?

A I mean, you want to know why -- my decision to come to Michigan was I knew I had to go to Michigan in order to show you that I was willing to try and make it work, but I did not want to go to Michigan, but it had nothing to do with trying to make it work with you.

It was because the kids were in school the second week and I didn't want to take them out of school, and I had to pay the expense of the ticket on the flight back.

Q It was the first night that we were going to be in a hotel room without our kids or a hotel room or house without the kids in it?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Asked and answered.

MR. HANSON: Did you answer the question or no?

THE COURT: I'm not sure I heard an answer to the question, so.

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q It was a big deal. And the text message was so -- it was nice, and I was excited about it, and before you made the decision to book the flight, do you recall when I asked you -- you understand that I do want to be a loving married couple. That's the only way that it will work is if we actually tried to care for each other, not just not hate each other. Do you remember that?

A No. You had called -- you had called and there was something that you had said. It wasn't that -- I mean, what you are saying right now is the same stuff you would always recite after everything, but you would always put it on me to be the caring, loving couple.

I mean, it was never -- you had no changes to make in the relationship, according to you --

Q Just please wait for a question. I'm trying to stay on topic --

MR. DAVIS: Well, I'm going to ask the witness be able to answer the question.

MR. HANSON: I wasn't trying to be rude, Your Honor. I know you're getting frustrated with me. I'm just trying --

THE COURT: I'm not getting frustrated with you. I'm getting frustrating that the Court's requests aren't being followed.

You keep testifying during questioning, but I think you asked her if she recalled that. And you are allowed to answer, ma'am, but I think it would help the Court a lot if you just answer the question directly as best you can.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: And if there's something your attorney feels he needs to redirect you on, then he can do that.

THE WITNESS: Okay. Sure.

THE COURT: Thank you.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q And I don't know if I got a yes or not. Did you recall the question about are you willing to make the effort to become a loving couple again and the long pause that there was before you said yes?

A I recall you asking me a question. I don't believe that was the question, and there was a pause that you called me out on for pausing.

Q Okay. And then the night when we were finally going to have time to ourselves, you were working, right?

A And so were you.

Q And when I did start to get into bed and say something about sex, did you lift your left leg towards me?

A No.

Q What was the timing like in terms of me getting into bed and asking about sex versus you farting? Was it responsive?

A It -- I had the laptop on my lap. I was still working, and you did climb into bed. I don't know at what point the fart came out, but it was a fart.

Q So you're denying that it was responsive to my request?

A I didn't fart intentionally in response to any request; it was a fart.

Q The next day I made sure that you got to a rent a car, right?

A You sure did. I mean, I booked the rent a car; I paid for the rent a car.

Q But I made sure that you got there. You weren't in any danger. You weren't stranded?

A You drove me to the ren a car.

Q Right. I made sure you guys got in there; said goodbye to the girls?

A Yeah.

Q Did you ever tell [redacted] that -- strike that. Does [redacted] ever not tell the truth?

A I'm not bringing -- I'm not testifying to this on my kids. I'm sorry. But I cannot say whether or not and this is something that will come back on them. I can't testify to that. Whether my kids or lie or not? They're kids.

Q Of course kids lie. I don't --

A I don't understand -- I have to object to that question. What's the relevance of that.

THE COURT: Mr. Davis, do you want to talk to your -- is she appearing on her own behalf?

MR. DAVIS: Technically, she's co-counsel, but that's not withstanding. Like I understand where the Court is coming from. It really isn't relevant. I think we're really going far afield.

MR. HANSON: Well, I'm going to get into some alienation attempts with this --

MR. DAVIS: Well, if she's alienating the kids, all the more reason for a GAL. Let's go. Let's hear it.

MR. HANSON: Mr. Davis, you are one of the most corrupt, dishonest people I've ever met in this world. And the fact that --

MR. DAVIS: I know. I'm corrupt and -- (Cross-talking)

THE COURT: We're taking a five minute's break, and I'm asking you again, Mr. Hanson, please direct your comments to me, not Mr. Davis.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. Your Honor, I'm going to be asking the Court to make some findings of fact about --

THE COURT: You can. We're going to take a five-minute break and we'll resume after that.

(WHEREUPON, a recess was taken at 3:15 p.m.

through 3:20 P.M.)

THE COURT: All right. I believe the question on the table was and, I'm sorry, I cannot recall which child we were asking about. Was it [redacted] or [redacted]

THE WITNESS: [redacted]

THE COURT: [redacted] The question was: Does [redacted] ever not tell the truth. And your objection was to relevance; is that correct, ma'am?

THE WITNESS: Um-hum.

THE COURT: Okay. Relevance.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, again, I don't want to get too much into argument, but please tell me to shut up if I cross that line. But there's issues with [redacted] where she doesn't tell the truth sometimes like all kids, but her mom told her that I can't see inside her brain so she can tell me whatever she wants.

THE COURT: Her mom told her -- so mom was saying as mother to the child, you're saying she's said, "I can't see inside your brain."

MR. HANSON: No, she's saying, "Dad can't see inside your brain. He can't tell you that you're not telling the truth." And when she's not there -- and I might be going to far with the argument, Your Honor, but the relevance is that she's emboldening a six-year-old at the time, maybe a seven-year-old to thinking, "I get to lie all I want to dad. He can't see inside my brain."

And it became a real problem for some period of time, but that's, you know, I just turned it into argument instead of question, so...

THE COURT: Any response?

MR. DAVIS: Well, the next question would be hearsay, if we're talking about what the child said.

THE COURT: And, I mean, that's not entirely on the table yet.

MR. DAVIS: Can I address the Court.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. DAVIS: It isn't responsive. You know, what these folks need is a 61.20 evaluation instead of a guardian ad litem. That's really what they need.

The Court can, obviously, do that sua sponte on the Court's own motion. I don't have a motion on the table, but that's psych evals for everybody.

THE COURT: I believe before we started in order, there was some discussion about agreeing to that, there was just some question as to cost, right? Am I wrong?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, we need to get out of this system that's been two years. We were much better than this until May of 2024. What's happened to us in the justice system is really, really, really tragic. And it didn't have to, and it's going to be a big story for a long time now.

MR. DAVIS: Well, that's sounds like he's trying to threaten everyone.

MR. HANSON: Well, no. I'm trying to tell you accountability and the truth have a way of rearing their head no matter what you do. And just from the litigation that's going, it's getting worse and worse for those involved.

And eventually accountability will come because the mandamus cases are as clear as can be, we've got a federal suit that's drafted that is even stronger. And I just need out of this system because you're tearing us apart.

We've -- if you look at our text messages, we're able to co-parent at times. She is so intent on concealing these records, she will do anything to do it. the Court should have ordered them a long time ago, and there's no excuse for not doing it. There's no excuse for not doing it earlier; there's no excuse for not doing it now.

You're tearing our family apart, you're hurting your kids, and it's really unthinkable that we're acting like none of this happened. the Florida Bar is literally hiding evidence about his misconduct.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I'm sorry you feel that way.

MR. HANSON: It's true. I'll prove it all.

THE COURT: I'm not asking you to prove it all or not prove it all. What I'm asking is did you -- my question was very simple. It had to do with whether or not there was an agreement to go to a psychological evaluation?

MR. HANSON: All of that stuff is just tearing us apart more.

THE COURT: So, no, there isn't?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I am so taken aback by some of the things that are said today --

THE COURT: You can't answer the question of the Court?

MR. HANSON: The question about the psych.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I just want to be out of the system. I want answers --

THE COURT: I don't understand that as a response to my question.

MR. HANSON: How do you think that a psych eval for anyone is necessary more so than just reviewing the evidence that's at issue.

THE COURT: How do I think? I'm sorry. I'm not in a position to answer questions at this time.

My only question to you is: Were we not in the position at the beginning of this case in which you said you would agree to a psych and a voc eval?

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor --

THE COURT: And if you're retracting from that, that's fine. I'm just trying to understand where we are.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor --

MR. DAVIS: While he's thinking about that, may I address the Court. I'm referring to a social investigation study, which is the whole thing, but that includes a psych evaluation for everybody.

The point was if his arguments are that Mrs. Hanson is bad and has issues and is alienating and everything else, why not just go that way. Psych evals for everybody. We get to the truth. We get to the bottom line.

Mr. Hanson is concerned with the truth; we get to the truth.

MR. HANSON: Can we also have an evidentiary hearing about Mr. Davis' conduct in this case where the Court will actually make findings?

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I --

MR. HANSON: I don't know why the Court protects him. I mean, he's broken every rule. He doesn't deny it.

MR. DAVIS: I have --

MR. HANSON: Well, then let's have it -- let's put you on the stand and let me ask you questions.

MR. DAVIS: This is -- I'm not a party at this case. Mr. Hanson doesn't seem to understand that --

MR. HANSON: No, I understand it --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson --

MR. DAVIS: Mr. Hanson's position is --

THE COURT: I'm going to ask you please to direct your comments to me. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Mr. Davis is an absolute menace.

THE COURT: I understand you think that --

MR. HANSON: And this Court is responsible to some degree for allowing him to continue to do what he has to my family. There's no excuse for him to do what he's done, and the evidence is clear that it's always been harass, disrupt, delay.

And it's really, really outrageous that no one will acknowledge those simple truths. I mean, the Florida Bar who is in charge of protecting the public from unscrupulous lawyers is hiding E-mails that they use to cover up misconduct for him.

And instead of coming clean, they have a judge who refused to exercise jurisdiction. They're making it hard to get the record to the First District Court of Appeal.

It's -- I don't know how people in the Court system can continue to act like this is just normal. It's -- the Court system has duties and obligations to the truth. And, Your Honor, I know you don't want to look at any of this and you're not under oath and you don't have to answer my questions, but you have to see some of this for the just complete muddy, disgusting, hateful, dishonesty that it is that's infected my family and it didn't have to happen.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you agree or would you consent to a social investigation?

MR. HANSON: No, Your Honor, I do not agree to anything that's invasive especially with my children. You know.

THE COURT: Goal is just going to be federal court from now on.

I don't think that the state courts have any intention of coming clean or helping me, so federal courts will be my only option.

I'm going broke; Sarah says she's going broke. I don't know if we'll be able to afford our kid's private school. And I know the Courts won't be liable for it, but they'll be responsible for it. I mean, it's the Court that's done this, so things are getting so ugly and bad for my question --

THE COURT: Just answer the question, sir.

MR. HANSON: I said, no, I will not agree to any social investigation. Our family doesn't need that. Our kids are in private school. It's just --

THE COURT: I'm not asking for why. I'm just asking for yes or no. Okay. Then we were still on the question -- Mr. Davis, I hear you with what you're saying the Court has an option to do sua sponte. I'm going to decline to take that up at this time. I'd like to get through this hearing.

As a general statement, I'm going to ask Mrs. Hanson if you can answer the question if [redacted] doesn't ever tell the truth.

THE WITNESS: [redacted] --

THE COURT: I'm sorry.

THE WITNESS: That's okay. I don't know. I mean, I -- she's a pretty good accountant of like when she witnesses something, she's great at repeating it. With teachers, she's the go-to for the hall monitor. If two kids are having a scrapple. Her interpretation of things in talking to her, I know she has a different interpretation of things sometimes. I'm not going to call my child a liar though, if that's what we're trying to get at, and I think things get misunderstood by kids.

THE COURT: Okay. Next question, Mr. Hanson.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Sarah, I don't think either of our kids are liars. I think they're the most incredible people in the world, but kids lie --

A I have text messages from you saying otherwise.

Q Well, then please share those text messages --

A I'm not going to go through, but --

Q That's my question now.

A -- you've called them liars.

Q Well, show them to me because someone can be a liar. They can still lie and still be a wonerful person, especially a six- or eight-year-old. It doesn't mean that it's okay to lie.

A Yeah. I'm not endorsing lying.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, show me the text message you're talking about, please. You referenced me saying -- denigrating the kids.

A You can ask your question.

Q I'll wait for this one, please.

A Well, no, I --

Q You made a representation. Let's see what I've said about our kids.

MR. DAVIS: I might ask that we not further delay this hearing.

THE COURT: I hear you, Mr. Davis, but she literally interrupted him and said, "I have these messages." I think she opened the door to this.

MR. DAVIS: I wasn't saying -- I was just --

A It has to do with the spanking. Actually, it's quoted in the interrogatory answers.

Q What date are you looking at, please?

A I'm looking to the Answers to Interrogatories. I had a quote where you wanted to spank them. "Daddy said you are a liar."

MR. DAVIS: Right there.

A No. This one says, "My first morning in the house, he told him" -- but maybe the word lie. Okay. Actually, no, here's a scenario. I mean, this was a situation where.

I mean, [redacted] told me you told her she had to confess. You had her in the shower telling her she had to confess to you that she was lying about whether she heard you get off the bike and come in from the playground.

And she said, "I didn't hear you." And you said, "Yes, you did. You're lying about that." And you had her confess and she was in the shower and she was very upset because -- and then her -- she was upset because she confessed that the lie wasn't that she heard you; the lie that she had to say that she heard you. And she was very distraught by that.

Q Were you there?

A No, but --

Q And, I believe, you did say that sometimes kids have their own interpretations or they might say their own thing, right?

A Yeah.

Q So maybe she did lie to me. That's possible, right?

A Okay. But, I mean --

Q Just say yes or no. It's possible she lied to me, right?

A In that instance?

Q Yes.

A I believed her.

Q I understand you believed her, but it's possible that a seven-year-old lied because she wanted to take another lap around the playground?

A I'm not --

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Calls for speculation.

MR. HANSON: Is it possible?

THE COURT: Hold on. I need to deal with the objection first. The question is: Is it possible that she lied, and the objection is calls for speculation.

I'm going to overrule that. I'll allow you to answer the question if you think you can. I understand that we're talking about her child and whether or not the child is possible or capable of telling a lie.

MR. DAVIS: I understand the Court's ruling. I'm not arguing.

A I'm not comfortable calling my daughter a liar, okay. So I've already said she might misinterpret things, they might misunderstand something. And to correct me and on the text I was referring to is October 11th of 2024. You said you wanted to start spanking the both girls because they were selfish, dishonest, and weak.

Q October 11th of 2024. Let's finish what we were talking about there. And do you understand that I'm not calling the kids a liar or saying that what [redacted] did was a big deal.

I'm saying that you intervening and emboldening [redacted] to tell me whatever she feels like and I can't -- and I can't know whether she's lying or not is problematic.

Do you understand that we need to have some sort of a united front and not try to --

A I never said that to her. You keep saying that I embolden her to lie to you. I never had a discussion with her on something like this. I have no idea what you're talking about.

Q I thought you just said you just testified that you had a suggestion where she said that she didn't hear me and that I made her lie and confess?

A That was in like 2024. That was on -- that was on a phone call conference. That was a very quick thing. She was unburdening herself, in my opinion. And it wasn't -- there was no drawn-out discussion on that. I told her I believed her.

Q Can you read the whole text message for me that you just referenced where it said that I would --

A I don't have the whole text message here.

Q Oh, I have it here. It says, "That's great on what you said about things at your house. They're amazing kids" --

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Improper impeachment.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. HANSON: I have a question about the texts that I'm going to read. Is that not acceptable? Can I read the text and then ask the question?

THE COURT: I don't know. I don't know what the question is. And you've asked her if she would read the whole thing, and she says she doesn't have it, right, so it appears as if you're now trying to either impeach or contradict her testimony with this, and I think that's improper impeachment.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q When you testified a moment ago that you had some notes that suggested that I wanted to spank the kids because they are dishonest, selfish, and weak.

You would agree that has a certain angry and despiteful tone, right?

A You want to spank my kids, so, yeah, I would say I was angry.

Q No. I'm talking about the way you characterize the text message?

A What? I just -- I read it from the -- from what's in the interrogatory.

Q I'm looking at the actual text message, and it's nothing like what you are describing?

A Okay. Well, hang on because I have -- I pull up the conversation if we're going to discuss this. No, it's right there. It says, that -- I mean, do I read what he texted to me where I quoted that from? I don't really know what to do with this?

THE COURT: Are you saying you found it now? Because you said --

THE WITNESS: Yeah, I found it in the actual full text.

THE COURT: Okay. Can you read it?

THE WITNESS: It said, "Okay. That's great. What you said about things are at your house. They are amazing kids, so no surprise there, but there are issues where they are becoming dishonest, selfish, and weak." "I'll do some research on it." That's referring to spanking from the prior message, "but I've talked to some other parents who have made me want to consider it as an option."

Again, for the record, the "it" is the spanking. [redacted] you know that I only care what's best for them long term. It's not always easy. $2,000 for a kid's birthday party is insane to me. We could do Adventure Island cheaper than that," and then it goes on about the beach.

I said, "I'm not in charge of other kids. I'm not okay with mine being spanked, especially these two."

BY MR. HANSON:

Q So, you would agree, that I wasn't talking about spanking them out of anger? I was trying to raise a conversation with you about whether it would be a good idea to consider something like that; is that fair to say?

A No. I disagree.

Q So you think that text message where I say I would do some research on it is like an angry, like I'm going to hit these kids message?

A It went on for several texts back and forth, and I think the act of spanking these two little girls by a grown man who I think has anger management issues is a huge problem.

MR. HANSON: And, Your Honor, I'm almost as frustrated as you are, but I'm frustrated too. There is a long exchange here. I mean, it's 3:46. It's relevant in terms of it shows a thoughtful --

THE COURT: I'm not sure what you mean when you say I don't know if I'm as frustrated as you are?

MR. HANSON: Because I wanted -- her answer makes it sound like it's an angry -- like I've got some anger management problems or something.

There's long text messages here where I'm talking about pros and cons about it. I've never spanked either kid.

THE COURT: I understand. You can --

THE WITNESS: I can clarify.

THE COURT: Please -- you can argue that she's taking it out of context and ascribing a meaning to it that it's not there. That's part of the argument you can make.

MR. HANSON: But then I got to go through all of these texts and it's another 15 minutes. And that's what I was debating in my mind --

THE COURT: I can't tell you strategy wise whether or not you should or shouldn't. That's up to you, but what you're saying I understand and that's argument, and you can make it. I'm not precluding you from it.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Have you ever expressed any concerns about my parenting to any doctor or medical provider?

A What do you mean?

Q Have you ever, ever expressed any concern about anything I did as a parent to either of our kids to any doctor or medical provider?

A I've had questions. I've question the pediatrician on some thing whether it was normal or not.

Q What's that?

A The kids at this age them walking around naked all the time in front of you. You were there when I questioned her.

Q I don't -- strike that. I changed jobs in 2021; is that right?

A You changed jobs from Rissman to Burton, but I don't recall the exact year.

Q To Sandy Brooks, but a different firm.

A Okay.

Q My income went down, right?

A That's what you represented.

Q I started asking you more about trying to help out; is that right?

A Not in 2021 when you transferred jobs.

Q Gradually between 2021 and 2024, I was asking you more about helping out with expenses because I was making less money?

A Okay. Well, I did help out with expenses. I was helping out with expenses.

Q But my question is gruadually between 2021 and 2024, I was asking you more and more about where your income was going, whether you could help with more of the expenses, right?

A No. I was helping with expenses.

Q Did you ever contribute anything to the mortgage when you lived there?

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevancy as it pertains to this motion.

MR. HANSON: Again, it's retaliation, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I'm really trying to understand the retaliation argument. You're saying that you asking her to help with expenses during the intact marriage before the date of filing is related to the retaliation that you're saying is the filing of this motion because as I understand your retaliation argument, you're saying that this motion was filed in retaliation?

MR. HANSON: So retaliation -- thank you, Your Honor. Retaliation probably is not the most precise word. It is obstructing and harassing.

THE COURT: So this motion is filed for the purposes of obstructing and harassing?

MR. HANSON: Right. So the sole issue, financial discovery. And what was going on in the marriage is I'm making less money, asking for more help. She's saying, "No, I can't help. All my money is being spent on credit cards and student loans."

THE COURT: I get that.

MR. HANSON: Then she gradually eventually leaves the marriage, but really difficult times where it was close to ending, and it happened as I'm asking for assistance.

As my income goes down, she wants out, and I can't get any discovery. I can't even get her to complete mandatory disclosures. But -- and now we have it --

THE COURT: But what I'm trying -- I'm sorry. Go ahead.

MR. HANSON: And then you look at that in conjunction with the timeline of the just delay, do nothing, file the amended petition for primary custody, and then the all-out attack with motions on December 13th as Judge Ayers set a hearing on one day's notice. That timeline and I'll get into --

THE COURT: But as we sit here today, I'm trying to figure out if right now, it would help this the Court to appoint a guardian ad litem to help make a determination on the issues that are before the Court.

MR. HANSON: And what I'm trying to explain --

THE COURT: Like that's where I am at right now.

MR. HANSON: It is such a non-issue, it's hard to believe.

THE COURT: The parenting issues are a non-issue; is that what you're saying?

MR. HANSON: I think Sarah loves her kids, and I want them to have a loving mom. I don't -- I mean, part of me now wants to consider more than 50/50 custody, but the kids are -- at my house the kids have been so amazing and bright especially --

THE COURT: But you keep saying that. You keep saying that, and I hear you loud and clear that you're saying, "Kids are doing great. We don't need anybody else in these kids' lives because they're perfectly fine."

MR. HANSON: And I don't think anyone else has said anything differently.

THE COURT: But I'm trying to understand how whether or not you asked her to help out with more of the expenses a couple of years before the date of filing is relevant to how they're doing now, and the issues I need to determination going forward --

MR. HANSON: It's to show you --

THE COURT: I'm sorry. I'm not quite making the -- I'm not quite making the connection.

MR. HANSON: It's to show you that her conduct even while we were theoretically still working on the marriage is consistent with someone who is concealing assets and looking for a way to get out with the assets as I was making less money --

THE COURT: But even if that's true, okay -- and, once again, I'm not saying it is true, but I'm saying that for the sake of argument. Even if you prove that point in that hearing, how does that help me to determine whether or not we should have a guardian.

MR. HANSON: It shows you --

THE COURT: Because guardians don't typically deal well financial issues.

MR. HANSON: It's a pretext. It's a distraction. It's an obstruction. I'm trying to show you what's simply true.

The timeline of their obstruction and delay combined with while we were supposedly trying to make the marriage work, it's all consistent --

THE COURT: I hear you.

MR. HANSON: But the guardian ad litem is so offensive to me because it's such a non-issue that is not a real problem. It's a distraction and it's working.

THE COURT: I heard you. I heard you.

But, like I said, if they're saying there are these issues that we need to have determined with regards to determinations upcoming that are pled in an amended petition regarding timesharing, all right --

MR. HANSON: I'm telling you that that's being done as a distraction to try and avoid producing any discovery.

THE COURT: Okay. And then I have to weigh whether or not I believe that to be the case weighing the credibility of the witness and weighing the credibility of your testimony too, right?

MR. HANSON: And, hopefully, all of the relevant evidence?

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HANSON: But that's an issue right now.

THE COURT: But what's determined to be relevant is in part what I have to do also. I mean, in family law, I'm the finder of fact, and I have to call these balls and strikes too.

MR. HANSON: And that's why this Ayers issue, it just can't be ignored like it has been.

So do you want me to continue, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I do want you to continue. I mean, we're still in cross and there's redirect and that's only one witness, and we're at 4:00 o'clock almost.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q I've sent you E-mails and texts from before May of 2024 when you first got into the Courts telling you all I wanted was some transparency, and I would cooperate with whatever you wanted with the divorce and time, right?

A No.

Q How about this as a compromise? You waive any objections to financial discovery, and I'll waive an objection to a guardian ad litem? Would you agree with that?

A We've already been ordered to produce three years. Do what?

MR. DAVIS: Say yes.

THE WITNESS: What do you -- why.

THE COURT: Hold on. Real quick. It sounds like you're making an offer?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: You guys want to talk about this.

MR. HANSON: I want to be able to get the financial discovery before the kids get involved in -- with the guardian ad litem.

MR. DAVIS: Three years.

THE COURT: Do you guys want to talk about this?

MR. HANSON: Waiving any financial discovery. If the guardian ad litem is going to get involved, I want a waiver of any --

MR. DAVIS: You want 20 years? I mean --

MR. HANSON: We weren't married 20 years.

MR. DAVIS: I know.

THE COURT: Well, I think it's fair to say -- what's the scope of -- what's the exact offer on the table? Do you know what I mean?

(Discussions were held off the record.)

THE COURT: Everyone agrees we're off the record.

(WHEREUPON, a recess was taken at 3:50 p.m.

through 4:05 p.m.)

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, do you agree?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: All right. Back on the record. When we went off the record, there was some discussion about perhaps stipulating to financial disclosure and a guardian.

After some discussion off the record, it is apparent that there is no agreement to be made, so we're back on the hearing continuing with the hearing. Fair enough?

MR. DAVIS: Yes.

MR. HANSON: I would like to know what discovery Mr. Davis has provided?

THE COURT: So one of the statements before was they did not provide any discovery until yesterday; is that correct, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: I recall earlier in the hearing, I recall talking about a Notice of Mandatory Disclosure --

MR. HANSON: So that's mandatory and they haven't even done everything that's mandatory. Judge Ayers let them off with what's mandatory.

THE COURT: Your statement was they didn't file anything until yesterday.

MR. HANSON: Any discovery. I don't consider Mandatory Disclosures and not even complying with them responding to discovery --

THE COURT: Sorry. I consider that discovery, so maybe there's just a semantic difference --

MR. HANSON: Well, it's mandatory. And they haven't even done what's mandatory. And then they haven't responded to Request to Produce for non-objectionable stuff where there's Motions to Compel pending.

I asked you to enter an order on that and you wouldn't even enter an order for something where there's no objecetion such as a Motion to Compel --

THE COURT: I would like to get back to cross-examination at this point.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I don't see how we're going to finish this motion today --

THE COURT: I'd like to get as much done as we can, and then we'll reschedule.

MR. HANSON: But, Your Honor we can do so on discovery. There is a Motion to Compel --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I am going to decline to move away from this motion at this time because you very, specifically, said you wanted to handle them in the order that they are listed.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, you are playing games to again delay things.

THE COURT: Games?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. I disagree with you.

MR. HANSON: Okay. We're going to get nothing done today. We're going to be in this horrible fight and hatred and disjusting mud-slinging because you won't get evidence of your fellow judge committing gross misconduct destroying a family.

You'll protect her ruling class position as a judge more than my kids who may suffer their whole lives because of this because you up there on the bench have to protect each other.

And no matter what evil you do, it just gets to go along as business, and us commoners just have to deal with the pain and corruption as you all see fit. There's video of it in this case. You all are hiding stuff when you're not even naming what you're hiding. And you expect me to think that is a fair process. This is so absurd, Your Honor.

This is, really, really maddening. I mean, it's -- and I don't think that you can disagree with me, Your Honor. I don't think that anyone can. It's just at matter of fact.

I mean, you have a video of a judge rolling her eyes and lying and saying I'm going to get it to prove it, and then the whole circuit hides it. Other circuits helps them hide it. the Florida Bar helps them hide the misconduct.

How am I supposed to come to court and think that my family is protected or that my life matters or my kids matter?

THE COURT: I'm sorry that you feel that way.

MR. HANSON: Okay. Well, can you answer my questions, Your Honor? Do you think those are some concerns.

THE COURT: I disagree with your assertions, and I'm sorry you feel that way.

MR. HANSON: Which ones? Which ones do you disagree with?

THE COURT: You can pick. I'm not here to answer your questions. I'm asking to you continue with your cross-examination of this witness.

MR. HANSON: Well, again, I would like to state on the record that I did find for the prenuptial agreement in Section E, it specifically defined that marital income becomes marital assets. So the prenuptial agreement is a non-issue.

I can show you where that is. In giving them the out of saying -- if you guys want to object, you still can --

MR. DAVIS: Judge, I'd like to ask --

MR. HANSON: I'm talking. I'm talking, sir.

MR. DAVIS: He's talking --

MR. HANSON: No. Why is he allowed to interrupt me? And he's allowed to make fun of me, and --

MR. DAVIS: I'm not making fun of him.

MR. HANSON: -- making fun of me for having some [redacted] and you haven't said a think, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I absolutely did. I said I understand that you say that, and if you want to file a motion, we can address it.

MR. HANSON: You saw it with your own eyes.

THE COURT: And I told you you can file a motion if you want to address it.

MR. HANSON: Okay. So you're just going to give me more work to do -- it's -- I'm working 70 hours a week right now.

THE COURT: I'm sorry about that.

MR. HANSON: Yeah. And you could fix some of it right now, but you won't. I don't know if you're hoping that I'll just lose it and have a heart attack or what the delay is, but --

THE COURT: I'm sorry that you think that. That's not it at all.

MR. HANSON: Well, what is the delay reason then? Why can't the video just come out? You're the 13th Circuit.

THE COURT: I'm not sure that I would agree with that statement that "I am the 13th Circuit."

MR. HANSON: I imagine you could access if you wanted.

THE COURT: Here on a Motion to Appoint a Guardain Ad Litem, and this issue has been brought up repeatedly today --

MR. HANSON: And I believe it's gross misconduct --

THE COURT: I'm asking you to continue your cross-examination of the witness that's on the stand.

MR. HANSON: So the Court's refusing to look at the previously-discussed prenuptial agreement language in order to actually force them to do something today? We're going to stick with you guys just keep objecting.

THE COURT: I'm sorry?

MR. HANSON: So I thought that we were talking about the three years that you ordered them to produce.

THE COURT: We're going back to the first motion?

MR. HANSON: Well, yes, Your Honor. I thought that the reason that you said, "Well you guys can just object to stuff. You don't actually have to produce stuff." I thought that was because you thought the prenuptial agreement was shaky on whether marital property -- whether marital income became marital property.

I found it, and it is absolutely defined as marital property.

THE COURT: I haven't made a determination on that yet. If that's going to be one of their objections, then I said we he will deal with it when we get there.

MR. HANSON: But it's just in black and white --

THE COURT: But, Mr. Hanson, again, I'm asking you to continue with your cross-examination for the third time now.

MR. HANSON: But, Your Honor, I know that nothing will be done with that, and it's just going to get back to this tension and --

THE COURT: Are you refusing to continue?

MR. HANSON: No, Your Honor, I'll finish it.

THE COURT: Because this is the fourth time I've asked that now.

MR. HANSON: And I apologize if I've been overrule frustrated, but the finances and the -- I don't know if I'm going crazy.

Maybe -- maybe there is no reason for me to be upset and this is just the way things are. I can't see that as being -- I'm going to continue with the cross-examination.

THE COURT: If you have more cross, yes, please.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q When was it that you put the girls in counseling?

A I only put one. Sometime last year in 2025 in the fall, midway through the semester. At some point, I don't know if it was October or November.

Q What do you believe gave you the authority to do that without discussing it with you?

A I had discussed it with you; you said no.

Q And what do you believe gives you the authority to have the superior voice where you get to decide what's best irrespective of what I think?

A My understanding is that parents can enroll their children, when it comes to mental health considerations, even if it's a joint -- even if there's joint decision making, my understanding is that mental health trumps all, and that a parent can enroll a child in mental health.

Q Where does that come from?

A I think it's in the rules.

Q Did you ever consider getting the Court involved?

A Yes.

Q Why didn't you?

A I couldn't get access to the Court. You had the case stayed multiple times.

Q Why didn't you -- you filed a Motion to Lift the Stay, right?

A We filed a motion for rehearing for the stay; that was denied. A motion -- an appeal was done and the Court -- the appellate the Court said go back to the trial the Court and have them consider it. Then we had two hearings at the trial the Court level, and then when we were going to have -- the Court lifted the stay and we were going to have our first hearing, you filed a lawsuit to disqualify the Court again, which resulted in a nullity for the stay essentially.

Q Why didn't you in your Motion to Stay say, "Hey, there's this urgent need for counseling that my ex won't agree to. Court, can we lift the stay for this urgent need for counseling." Why not include that?

A That wasn't a consideration that I had. I saw that this was a woman who assisted with anxieties and I wanted to get her help.

Q I thought you said that you wanted to get the Court's involvement, but the case was stayed so you couldn't?

A It was stayed.

Q So the question was why didn't you in your Motion to Stay present there's this urgent need for anxiety treatment?

A I didn't think about that.

Q So when you said that you tried to or you wanted to get the Court involved for the anxiety issue, that wasn't true?

A No. I wanted the Court involved in all of this.

Q So you understand the distinction? You're saying that you wanted to involve the Court for this psychological or anxiety issue, but then you didn't for the Motion to Stay I believe you said because you weren't thinking about it. Which is it?

A The -- what are you talking about? Listen, I wanted to get my kids help; you said no. I'm hitting a roadblock with the Court --

Q Did you ask the Court for help with this counselor issue?

A No.

Q Why not?

A Because my understanding is that a individual -- a parent of a child can have mental health counseling done. But, again, I don't think it's mental health counseling because she's not licensed with the state.

It's more spiritual biblical type stuff, so I also didn't view it as -- it was someone for her to talk to, but she is a counselor, but I don't know if it's, quote, unquote, mental health.

Q Just so I'm clear, did you ever have any intent of involving the Court in the this mental health counselor that you set [redacted] up with?

A Yeah. I mean, I brought it up right now in the Court. I didn't keep it hidden.

Q After it's been going on for how long?

A Fall of 2025 after school had started.

Q Almost six, eight months?

A Well, we're four months into this year, so four, five, six -- not eight. It would probably be probably around six months.

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry?

MR. DAVIS: I wrote a note --

THE COURT: That's not for you to his client.

MR. DAVIS: Right.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Are you open to have a discussion about whether this counseling is a good idea or helping, or you just make the decisions now and I found out when you feel like telling me?

A I know that it's helping her.

Q So do I get a say anymore or it's just all you?

A I don't think -- if when it comes to the mental health counseling, my understanding is that somebody can -- if you're allowed to. I am asking for primary decision making, so I mean that depends on the Court's order on it.

Q Do you have it?

A No, not yet.

Q But you're exercising it like you do?

A No, only with the counselor.

Q If you're concerned about how the kids are treated in my home, why wouldn't you take my deposition to ask me about it?

A Chris, discussions with you and me, depositions, however you want to look at it, are not fruitful. There is no reasoning with you on something especially like this. Your interpretation of a lot of things, in my opinion, is just very one-sided.

So, you know your -- you know your issues, if you're honest with yourself, you know your concerns, you know your temperament. You can go back and read the text messages that you've sent me, but you think all of those are reasonable. I don't understand that.

Q There are definitely some that I was embarrassed of, but I will say -- strike that. Okay. So what is the biggest concern that causes you that the children need a guardian ad litem?

A Emotional abuse.

Q You think that I emotionally abuse my kid?

A That's the topic I'm putting in, but emotional -- my concern is emotional -- the emotional atmosphere.

Q Can you be any more specific?

A I mean, it's your -- it's an ongoing behavior. It's the way you behave and the way you act.

Q How much contact do you and I have in a week?

A We have little to no contact since I've left the house.

Q So what makes you think that you know how I act?

A I lived with you for many, many for -- I've been with you for 17 years, and look at you're acting with adults in the Court -- Chris, this is a divorce case --

Q My kids --

A -- and there's three different lawsuits going on.

Q My kids haven't corrupted anybody's lives. I'm happy as can be with my kids, and I'd like to go ahead and show some videos of that. Now, I'm stuck in a room with people that have tortured my family.

A Okay.

Q That's a little bit different. That's a pretty frustrating situation to be in when you're trapped under people that have power but no ethics. And that's where I am now?

A Again, this is your -- this viewpoint. This viewpoint that you have, it goes on the kids as well. You're anxieties go on the kids as well. You --

Q What evidence do you have of any of that?

A I was told at lunch one day that you gave them mean eyes. I mean, the fact that they have a term for it saying, "mean eyes," and it was a response to one of them saying -- well, [redacted] because you'll know.

She said her leg is sore. I said, "How was your morning this morning?" She said, "Oh, I got the mean eyes today." I said, "Why did you get the mean eyes?" And she said, "Because I told daddy my leg was sore."

And I said, "Well, did he give you any ice or anything." She said, "No, he rolled his eyes and walked away from me." I said, "Well, was your leg sore. Because you guys were rough housing." And she said, "Yeah, from the day before." I said, "Honey, it's okay that your leg was sore. It's okay that you guys rough house, but I do disagree with the reaction of you feeling like he's angry at you because you said to that her -- because she said that to you."

And I don't even like telling you this stuff because I am terrified that you are going to interrogate them after all of this.

MR. HANSON: May I play just the slide slow of the last month of me and my kids and just random pictures and experiences that we've had, Your Honor, and ask Mrs. Hanson --

THE COURT: I think it would be more appropriate for you to do that, like, your testimony, not her cross of her.

MR. HANSON: I just wanted to ask -- she said so many things about how I do these horrible things to the kids, and I wanted to ask her about -- I'll do what you ask --

THE COURT: I'm sorry. You want to ask her about those the pictures?

MR. HANSON: Right, right. I want to -- I -- there is this disconnect between these things that she's saying about the way my house is, and then I just want to show her pictures --

THE COURT: Wait. Let me ask -- let me ask something really quick. Is she -- or did she witness any of the events that are in these pictures --

MR. HANSON: No, but she doesn't witness any of the events in my home and she's implying --

THE COURT: No, no, no. I understand that. If she has one opinion and you're going to show pictures that purport something else, that's just part of argument. You know what I mean?

MR. HANSON: I suppose I do, but --

THE COURT: If she agrees or disagrees, it doesn't change your argument. If she wasn't there, she can't independently verify or disprove anything that you're going to show her, right?

MR. HANSON: I was hoping for the --

THE COURT: Tell me if I'm wrong. I'm trying to understand what you're asking.

MR. HANSON: You're probably right, but I'm just holding out hope that she'll see them and say, "You're right, they look like happy kids," and we'll end the hearing on a high not. That's my dream, but...

THE WITNESS: I can clarify my position.

THE COURT: I appreciate you're saying that that's what you're hoping for. I don't know if that's --

MR. HANSON: Like there's -- how do you prove that you're a good dad? How do you prove that your kids are healthy?

THE COURT: I can tell you sometimes in these cases we have guardians.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, with the level of corruption that I've dealt with so far and what I've heard about guardian ad litems and Judge Ayers, that keeps me up at nights is having some people --

THE COURT: I probably shouldn't have made that comment, but we're in the middle of cross, do you know what I mean? And you're asking about -- I mean, and certainly I think everything you're saying, I'm certainly open to hearing you say in closing, you know, but I'm really just trying to get through the different parts of this hearing.

You're 100 percent correct. There's no way we're going to finish today. What I would like to spend the last two minutes of our day on is setting some very specific parameters going forward as far as timing in concluding.

I'm going to ask how much more time you need for cross. I'm going to ask how much more time you need for other witnesses, and how much more time you will need for direct, and we're going to keep to those times going forward. Okay? Is that all right, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Continuation on cross, please.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q When we were communicating back in May of 2024 and I was encouraging you to cooperate with simple discovery, did I express concerns about what it could do to us financially if we got into a protracted litigation problem?

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance.

THE COURT: Same argument with regards to motive for the filing of this?

MR. HANSON: Very close, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Very close.

MR. HANSON: I would have to think about it for a minute, but I think it's very close, if it's not the exact same thing. It's the general idea of there is no concern about the kids' welfare. There is other things going on.

THE COURT: I get that point. I don't think we need more questioning on it.

MR. HANSON: My point is that theory of the case that I have, there's support for it anywhere.

THE COURT: I am aware.

MR. HANSON: The truth is revealed in patterns, and the patterns are that the more you look at the facts, the more you see that the guardian is a pretext.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q When we went to go see a movie, did you ever steal candy in the movie theater in front of the kids?

A No.

Q At the West Shore Theater?

A No. I was -- I usually bring my own candy.

Q Well, this -- when there was a banquet this year for the kids, it was on a Saturday night for gymnastics banquet, right, Saturday night?

A Okay.

Q Did I offer to trade nights with you so that you could go with the kids?

A You were sick. You didn't feel well.

Q Toothache.

A Right, something. And you asked if I would take them, and I said absolutely. And I even texted the organizer; I said, "Hey, I'm going to come tonight. I'm going to be there." And then you wanted -- you were making demands in return. I don't recall what the demands were.

I think you wanted like a whole swap day or something. You wanted a swap day for me to take them for the couple of hours, and then I proposed something. And then you came back and said, "Forget it. I'm fine. I'll take them," and then you pulled it off from me.

Q So it was the same thing with your sleepover night? That was a Friday night?

A Yeah.

Q And the banquet was a Saturday night. On both occasions, you said you can have next Wednesday. Well, Wednesday all you do is drive to gymnastics and back. You're stuck on Hillsborough Avenue for hours.

So the problem agreeing with a schedule with -- I'm sorry. Would you agree that when we tried to agree on a schedule, any agreement that you're going to reach is always going to favor you?

A No. You -- I propose something and last Wednesday -- when I proposed that Wednesday from that Friday of the sleepover, it was a spring break and Friday night is gymnastics and Wednesday night is gymnastics. It was an exact same swap.

I don't recall what I proposed with the banquet. I know it got shot down pretty immediately. And whenever I do propose, you never come back with a counter. I won't say never. I don't know if you have or haven't. But, generally, you don't come back with a counter; you just say forget it.

And it's like, "Well, what are you proposing?" I don't -- there's no discussion. There's no communication there. So it's like, "Okay. I can't go to the banquet."

Q Are you aware that I've had plans to go to Michigan with the children over the summer?

A This past summer?

Q Yes.

A I'm aware that you were inquiring about taking them to Michigan. I know you took them the year after.

Q Had you initially agreed to six nights for me to go?

A Not that I recall. Six nights? Not that I recall. I recall -- no, wait. I recall thinking of the -- my understanding is that -- of the general vacation plan of the Courts, I think they usually do one week or two-week. And I do recall saying something where you had inquired for taking them for a week to Michigan, and my -- initially, I was -- I remember thinking, "Okay. That's your week, and then I'll have a week of vacation as well."

But that was never really ironed out or agreed to, and then I did backtrack because I started thinking I don't think I can agree to a week. I'm worried about the kids with you that long, and I couldn't -- you weren't working with me at all on any other schedules. And so I did, I said, "No. I wasn't agreeable to the full week." I cut back. I said I was agreeable with four days, which was the similar time frame that I had for Alabama when I went there for that Christmas.

Q So I had found flights to go up there or six nights, cleared it with you, and then you moved the goalpost, right?

A No. You had not -- no, you had not. No, I disagree. I think that's your interpretation of it, but the request on the Michigan -- was, actually, yeah, I even -- the request on Michigan was not like, "Hey, I want to take them" and I said okay. And then, all of a sudden, a week later you gave me dates. That's not what happened.

I kept asking for specifics, and there was a lag of a time frame. You had told me you planned on going to Michigan, and then when I kept asking for dates and you proposed different flights or something, I said I wasn't agreeable for that long of time.

Q So on May 31st of 2025, you texted I'm fine with you having a week vacation, and then I also get a week vacation?

A Right. That's what I just said.

Q So that's May 31st?

A Um-hum.

Q But June 10th. So 10 days later I had planned sometime between July 11th and July 20th that worked with family and friends?

A Yes.

Q Six to seven nights?

A Yeah.

Q So 10 days after initially telling me I had a week, you told me you have only -- it was either three or four days that you gave me?

A Something. Yeah, I said I was agreeable to less.

Q You would agree that was a direct interference with something you had just agreed to 10 days earlier?

A Well, yeah. I mean, I thought about it. I mean, I'm trying to get to the Court. I'm challenging the 50/50. We don't have anything set in place.

And so I was like, you know, that's actually not -- I felt, like -- I felt like I was being taken advantage of because the last time when I did a mini-trip -- twice I went to Alabama, once was only with a three-day time span, and then the other time was that time. So I thought we were going to have a hearing and get the matter resolved a little bit quicker.

Q So you're saying that you changed your mind about giving me a week in those 10 days because you thought about something with Alabama?

A No, I thought about the kids. I thought about the fact that this doesn't really -- I want to work with you because I know co-parenting is important, but at the same time I was worried about them being with you for an entire week. And when you're with your family, you do drink.

Q Have the kids ever had any injuries with me?

A I'm sure.

Q What? What Injuries? How have they gotten hurt?

A I mean, what do you mean by injuries?

Q So you --

A I'm sure they've had bruises. They have bruises with me. They have bruises with both of us. They're kids.

Q I understand that, but you talk like I'm some bad parent where the kids aren't safe with me. What evidence or what information is there that gives you that concern?

A I am not proposing that they always have a terrible time with you or that you are this terrible parent all the time. What I am saying and what I have testified to are there's these instances that give me pause and concern over their welfare long-term with the 50/50. I think stability is extremely important in their lives, so I don't know what your question was.

Q So you've said that there's that conversation where I brought up whether spanking would be a helpful tool with them, and I used to drink more than I should have, and we were talking about eight years ago.

Is the last time that --

A No. I recently testified as to [redacted] putting [redacted] to bed. I'm pretty sure you were passed out drunk that night.

Q How dare you? How dare you say that to me?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Argumentative?

THE COURT: The Court: She testified that it was her interpretation.

Q That I was drunk.

A You were passed out on the bed.

Q I have no idea what you're talking about, but that's just -- I don't drink -- I mean, maybe in the last year I've had three beers around my children.

This is her cruelness and complete lack of any basis for her position, just hateful spewing of hurtful things.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I would ask that you please continue with your direct examination.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q So your only evidence is that I was sleeping?

A No. I don't know what you were doing.

Q But you're saying that you assumed I was drunk?

A I'm saying I watched my seven-year-old put my five-year-old to bed and turn off all the lights in a hotel room. I have limited access to them when they're with you.

And, to me, that is grossly inappropriate. But, no, my testimony is not as to as much as your interactions with them as you blowing up on text messages with me. As, I mean, every single thing is a fight with you. It's the totality of the circumstances. It's the totality.

Q The totality of the circumstances is that I have one request some financial transparency and peace of mind. That's all I've had for two years, and I deal with this hatred and just lies and distractions because she doesn't want to give that transparency.

That's the entire case, and The State is creating a really, really dangerous and scary situation here by just pushing -- by just letting this go along while hiding from the simple facts in front of it because they're inconvenient for the Court.

THE COURT: Anymore cross-examination?

MR. HANSON: I'm not done with cross-examination, Your Honor --

THE COURT: Okay. Then I ask that you stick to cross.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, what do I -- strike that.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q Okay. Sarah, would you agree to an in camera inspection of your bank accounts by the Court?

MR. DAVIS: Object to relevance.

MR. HANSON: Relevance. It's the only issue in the case.

MR. DAVIS: No, it's not, and it's irrelevant and immaterial as to the guardian ad litem issue. It doesn't go prove or disprove. And she's being asked basically if she'll agree to something, but it doesn't prove or disprove any material fact at issue.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, why can't we just do an in camera inspection. Like, what is her objection to that? I produced more when I was the disclosing spouse, she always had all of my account information.

How after two years can I not get an in camera inspection on less material that I've had to produce directly to her?

MR. DAVIS: That's not even pending today. And, Your Honor, may I address the Court --

MR. HANSON: It's not, Your Honor, but this is way past what's pending. You're concealing evidence. If I were doing that, you would sanction me. You're doing that, I can't even talk about it.

THE COURT: I've said to you, Mr. Hanson, we're going to address the matters in the order that they are listed on the Notice of Hearing at your request.

MR. HANSON: Well, the document 22 brings up that.

THE COURT: We already handled that matter. We're on to the second issue --

MR. HANSON: But you've ignored the core problem --

THE COURT: -- Motion for the Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem.

MR. HANSON: -- and the structural conflict where the tribunal --

THE COURT: You've already brought that up and I ruled on that.

MR. HANSON: Is your ruling that it's just okay for a tribunal to hide relevant evidence from litigants?

THE COURT: We're moving on.

MR. HANSON: So that means that's your ruling? That's it's acceptable for a court to hide relevant evidence to protect another judge at the Court? What else is the ruling other than that?

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I would appreciate if you didn't interrupt you when I was talking.

MR. HANSON: I didn't interrupt you.

THE COURT: Yes, you did. I was in the middle of talking before you started your last sentence.

I said that I've already addressed that matter, and I'm not going to readdress it for the fifth or sixth time. You keep bringing it up, and I'm declining to do so.

I've asked you repeatedly to continue and finish with your cross. At some point if you keep not continuing with your cross, I'm going to have to end your cross. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, you're the Judge. You can do what you want, but I don't agree with that.

THE COURT: Which part? That you're not continuing on the cross or that I will have to end your cross if you don't continue with it?

MR. HANSON: That you've addressed the concealment of evidence issue.

THE COURT: Okay. Are you going to continue on your cross?

MR. HANSON: I am, Your Honor. I'm sorry. I'm just disorganized. I have notes all over here, and I really am trying to find --

THE COURT: Yes, you are. If you want a minute, that's fine. I'm just trying to make sure I understand.

MR. HANSON: Yes, yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q So your Mother's Day issue that you discussed, isn't it true that I texted you before Mother's Day and asked you if you wanted extra time with the girls that day?

A No, not that I recall or that I saw, I guess.

Q And what was going on at school that Monday morning right after Mother's Day? Was there something special at school that Monday morning?

A [redacted] was graduating kindergarten. They had the graduation ceremony for kindergarten.

Q And did I tell you that I wanted to take her to that?

A I understand that you want to take her to that. I mean, I didn't mean schedule the dates for everything.

Q You refused to bring her to me the evening after you were done with the concert, right?

A Yes. We all, we went out to dinner and then we were driving --

Q Just yes-or-no question. You refused to take her to me, right?

A Yeah.

Q Even though Monday morning was my day and I should have been the one to take her to kindergarten, right?

A I -- I don't -- I mean, well, no. I don't think Monday was your day was -- Sunday was not your day because that was Mother's Day. That was the holiday was Sunday, so they would have stayed the night with me to Monday.

Q Well, who says that? We are on a three-three day schedule?

A Okay. That was the Mother's Day. That's the holiday. You get them for Father's Day. They stay the night. I get them for Mother's Day.

Q Well, I offered you more time, but I said that I would like to have them for the kindergarten graduation, but you unilaterally decided that wasn't going to happen, right?

A How -- what -- you're not --

Q Yes or no? You unilaterally decided you were going to have them for Mother's Day?

A Yes. I -- yes. And I also had -- you were talking to my lawyer and, yes, we were saying I was going to get them Mother's Day, yeah. I unilaterally decided I'd get them on the national holiday for Mother's Day.

Q So I texted you on Thursday and said did you want some extra time on Mother's Day; your response was, "I plan on having them all day on Mother's Day. I have tickets to a show that starts at 5:30."

Did you ever clear that with me and say, "Hey, I'm going to have them all day on Mother's Day" or "Can I have them all day on Mother's Day?"

A No. It's Mother's Day.

THE COURT: I believe she just said she unilaterally did that.

Q Okay. But my point is that I was offering you more time and instead of working with me or communicating with me, it seems like it's like counseling; what you say goes.

Do you have any examples where I've done anything like that without communicating with you?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Argumentative. Compound.

THE COURT: Argumentative with it seems like the counseling --

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Portion of the question.

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: I'm not going to take that as her testimony. That sounds more like argument to me, so I do believe that's argumentative. If you want to make that connection in closing, you can.

With regard to the question, specifically, do you have any instances in which I unilaterally made decisions; is that --

MR. HANSON: Yeah. I can rephrase the other part.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q With the Mother's Day and with the vacation to Michigan and with the -- can someone help me? The third one you just said --

THE COURT: Do you mean the counseling?

MR. HANSON: Counseling. Thank you.

BY MR. HANSON:

Q With those three things, I didn't have any input, did I?

A With the counseling, you did. I asked you and you said no, which I thought was unreasonable.

Q I didn't have any --

A With the -- with the mother's Day, it was Mother's Day. I did not understand I need to ask permission to spend the day with my daughters that --

Q What --

A And with the Michigan, I proposed instead of the week something different because of everything and what we were going through. And you -- I mean, I don't know, you never responded to that. You said no or something.

Q But it's not worth going to Michigan for --

A And in response to your question as to whether you've unilaterally done things, yes you have.

Q What?

A For the daddy-daughter dance, I -- you were going to pick them up for the daddy-daughter dance this past April is the dance or, I don't know, April or March. And I asked you to come and get them from the house, so it would be like a proper pick-up because it was my time with them.

And then for my pick-up to get them back, you unilaterally picked someplace I didn't know and made me drive significantly further for me to try to get them and didn't coordinate that with me.

I had to go to work -- I had to fly to Atlanta --

Q I'm sorry. We'll get right back to this, but I got to catch this. So you're saying that me unilaterally doing something is me picking a gas station to meet at that that's the unilateral decision that I got to make?

A That's just what came to mind. I have to go through more text messages and everything else. I mean, you know, I'm trying to get through it all, but there are times where you have unilaterally done things. And a lot of it has to do with making me go someplace or do something that, you know, isn't mutually agreeable to me either.

Q Please describe what happen you're talking about?

A Okay. Kicking me out of the banquets, kicking me out of medal days, not letting me go and participate in group activity functions with the kids and the teams.

Q You would agree that it's better for the kids to not see us fighting than to have us together and have us fighting?

A Why would we be fighting at an awards banquet.

Q I don't think it's helpful to answer that question?

THE COURT: All right. Are we at a natural stopping point with regard to topics, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I just had another point of my brain that I think I last it, okay. It might be years before it comes back.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, obviously, we have not concluded with the Motion for the Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem.

How much more time is -- with regards, and, I mean, I'm asking for the estimate -- do you think you'll need on cross, Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I know I didn't do a great job of sticking to questions, let alone thinking about so many of the guardian ad litem motion.

Do you mean total cross-examination on anything?

THE COURT: No, just for this witness.

MR. HANSON: I would hope 30 minutes.

THE COURT: 30 minutes?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I have to go through this, but that would be my guess. I think that I got 30 minutes to go.

THE COURT: Okay. How much time do you think redirect of the witness?

MR. DAVIS: How much time do I need for what, sir? I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Redirect for this witness?

MR. DAVIS: None.

THE COURT: None. Okay. Do you have any other witnesses you'd call in support of this motion?

MR. DAVIS: Mr. Hanson.

THE COURT: Okay. How much time do you think you need for Mr. Hanson?

MR. DAVIS: Probably not a tremendous amount, if -he answers the questions directly.

THE COURT: I know I'm asking for an estimate. I know that there are --

MR. DAVIS: I'd say an hour just to be conservative, but I do have a request for the Court.

THE COURT: Okay. What's that request.

MR. DAVIS: Would the Court please rule on the motion. The Second DCA says we have due process if we've been given equal time.

I brought this up this morning. Almost an hour was wasted for this hearing, and Mr.

Hanson has been trying to drag, stall and delay this by over and over going back and hitting different topics that aren't the guardian ad litem motion.

We want to get done with this. The guardian ad litem motion was filed 490 days ago, and we've been here all day.

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. DAVIS: I ask the Court just to admit his financial affidavit and make a ruling.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. I appreciate certainly where you're coming from on that. I'm not comfortable making a ruling without giving Mr. Hanson the opportunity to testify in his own defense of the motion. You said one hour for your directs of him; is that correct?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, assuming cross and your own direct at the same time, how much time do you think you'll need to testify in defense of the Motion to Appoint a Guardian Ad Litem?

MR. HANSON: I'm sorry. Assuming cross and direct at the same time.

THE COURT: Right. Like he's going to put you on the stand, right. You have the opportunity to cross, quote, unquote, yourself, but we're going to go outside the scope of that direct.

So that would be the cross and the direct at the same time, so you get the time to respond to whatever he asks you on direct, and then put on whatever you want to tell me, if it's outside the scope of that direct.

MR. HANSON: So I get to testify or have somebody ask me questions.

THE COURT: Well, you pro se, so there's no -- you are representing yourself. There is no --

MR. HANSON: Bring someone in to ask -- read a statement or have an outline to present testimony.

THE COURT: No. You would be doing that yourself.

MR. HANSON: Okay. So I don't need someone to ask questions. I can just have an outline and a testify.

THE COURT: Correct. Now, after you do that, you'll be subject to cross.

MR. HANSON: Right. I look forward to that.

THE COURT: So I'm asking how much time do you think you'll need?

MR. HANSON: On the guardian ad litem.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HANSON: There's a lot of text messages that I need to go through so I would say three hours.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, what I'm going to show with the text messages --

THE COURT: I'm not asking.

MR. HANSON: You seem frustrated with the three hours.

THE COURT: No, no, no. I'm not asking you to tell me why at this point. Okay? So that puts us at four and a half more hours on just the guardian ad litem motion. All right.

May 22nd, are you available, Mr. Davis?

MR. DAVIS: One moment, please. Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, are you available on May 22nd?

MR. HANSON: It's a Friday. I can be.

THE COURT: So yes?

MR. HANSON: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Davis, I'd ask that you prepare a Notice of Continued Hearing starting with the Motion to Appoint Guardian Ad Litem, and then the remaining issues that were listed in today, if time permits.

MR. DAVIS: Okay.

THE COURT: I'm going to keep the parties, within reason, a few minutes here and there to the representations about the amount of time they're going to take. So if I feel as if you're using that time on outside matters, your time is still running. Okay?

MR. DAVIS: Yes, sir. From what time to what time?

THE COURT: Starting at 9:00.

MR. DAVIS: Until.

THE COURT: We listed five hours, if you guys are available the whole day I'll give you the whole day.

MR. DAVIS: I'm available.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: I would prefer not doing that. Attempt to do a full day, it's difficult to do it. If the Court tells me I have to, I will, but it's -- I don't think it's productive after four or five hours.

MR. DAVIS: But, Mr. Hanson, is the one that says we're trying to delay the case, so we'd like --

MR. HANSON: No. You're trying to hide evidence so and your misconduct. You're trying to hide those things --

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I'd ask you to please continue to address the Court and not Mr. Davis.

MR. HANSON: What a joke.

THE COURT: To me?

MR. HANSON: It's to the Court. The Court is a joke. And, Your Honor, I think that you have to agree with that. I mean, are lawyers supposed to hide evidence?

Judges ain't supposed to hide evidence?

THE COURT: I'm asking you to stop addressing Mr. Davis directly.

MR. HANSON: And I'm asking you to address his behavior and to address Judge Ayers' behavior --

THE COURT: I already ruled on that.

MR. HANSON: -- and you're saying no because I'm not as powerful as they are.

THE COURT: I disagree, Mr. Hanson. Mr. Hanson?

MR. HANSON: What?

THE COURT: I've addressed that already. I said if you want to file a motion with regards to that, I will deal with that.

I am going to caution you about calling this the Court a joke again. Okay?

MR. HANSON: Your Honor, I don't know how you can expect me to call it anything else. And, with all due respect, it's -- I get to go home and see these kids, and I know what you're doing to them, and there's is no excuse for it.

And the fact that I have to come here and see the Court respect him like he's an honest attorney and everything is just kind of happening in good faith and like Judge Ayers was fair.

Do you know how crazy that is? Do you know how backwards that is to what actually happened? Can you have some sympathy that in the Court of law in the free state of Florida the world shouldn't be like that.

THE COURT: Are you done?

MR. HANSON: If --

THE COURT: Yes or no?

MR. HANSON: Am I done?

THE COURT: With your statement.

MR. HANSON: I don't think there is anything else I can say that is going to be helpful, Your Honor. Nothing got accomplished today other than fighting and for ugliness.

I would beg of the Court to remove the -- well, you don't have to actually produce anything for the three-year order that they get a object to it, it's been over two years.

Can't we just place a requirement on them that they actually have to produce three years. That will make the guardian ad litem issue so much easier.

THE COURT: Mr. Hanson, I've addressed that issue. Okay.

MR. HANSON: Not to any reasonable person. You addressed it to continue to protect Davis and --

THE COURT: And one more time, I'm going to caution you with regards to your tone to this the Court and calling this Court a joke. Okay?

MR. HANSON: I didn't call the Court a joke again. I said --

THE COURT: I asked you, specifically, if that statement was to me; you said yes.

MR. HANSON: I said to the Court.

THE COURT: Yes, correct. And that's what I'm cautioning you with regards to.

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. You've been put on notice.

MR. HANSON: Okay.

THE COURT: Thank you. We're done for today. That hearing will be for five hours.

MR. DAVIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Can I ask a question?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: Is there any way to get a set holiday question without testimony or a set -- even if it's 50/50 until the guardian ad litem decided.

THE COURT: I'm not going to -- I'm not going to rule on things that aren't set for a hearing. Okay? Thank y'all very much.

(Court adjourned at 4:50 p.m.)
